Gangster Tells Of Doublecross That Backfired

Cosa Nostra 'Boss' Slain By Rivals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph Valachi, spilling the secrets of the crime brotherhood called La Cosa Nostra, told senators Wednesday that a gangland doublecross backfired as overlords of the New York mobs turned on each other in a fierce battle for power.

He told of a secret list that marked for doom such underworld big shots of 30 years ago as Al Capone, Frank Costello, Charles (Lucky) Luciano, Vito Genovese, Vincent Mangano and Dutch Schultz.

And he told of the slaying of Salvatore Maranzano, the man who drew up the list, killed by his rivals after a brief reign as Cosa Nostra's "boss of all bosses."

Maranzano grabbed power, Valachi said, after lieutenants of rival boss Giuseppe Masseria gunned down their own chief in a Coney Island restaurant.

"His own lieutenants wanted to do it themselves," Valachi told investigating senators. That ended a 14-month gang war Valachi said cost Masseria's outfit 40 to 60 dead.

But five months later, Valachi said, the same men got Maranzano.

Back for the third chapter of his tale of crime, Valachi told the Senate Investigations subcommittee about a mass meeting of New York hoodlums at which Maranzano declared peace and installed himself as the head man.

He described a five-night banquet which honored Maranzano and his "soldiers" — and raised $115,000 for the coffers of the Cosa Nostra chief.

"I never got a nickel," Valachi said. He said Maranzano planned to use the money to send his soldiers "back to the mattress" — back to warfare to wipe out the men on his death list.

The investigation is designed to produce evidence that will help win passage of new anticrime laws sought by the Justice Department.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy wants Congress to authorize wiretapping in the war against organized crime, and to pass a law that would grant witnesses against the gangs immunity from prosecution, while denying them the right to refuse testimony on grounds of self-incrimination.

Valachi picked up his story of the gangland of the early 1930s with the doublecross death of Masseria.

He said Masseria was taken to a restaurant at Coney Island. "Vito, Charles Lucky and Ciro Terranova, they got him to go there."

McClellan: "The Maranzano crowd didn't do that killing?"

Valachi: "That's right, it was his own people. Vito, Charley

"Flora" Aims Killer Winds At Haiti, Cuba

Hurricane's Pace Slows; At Least 25 Perish On Tobago

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—Hurricane Flora, which killed at least 25 persons and left thousands homeless on the resort island of Tobago, pointed its 140-mile - an - hour winds Wednesday night toward Haiti, Jamaica and southeastern Cuba.

The big storm slowed in pace during the day and there were indications it might be swinging to a more northerly course, but forecasters said it was too early to say definitely.

Hurricane warnings were up along the southern peninsula of Haiti, which juts toward the Windward Passage, and residents were warned to batten down against the deadly winds that brought death and widespread destruction to Tobago.

Change Possible

A San Juan weather bureau advisory located Flora about 220 miles south-southwest of Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic.

A special weather bureau bulletin issued later noted the possible change in course and warned residents on the south coast of the Dominican Republic—Haiti's neighbor to the east on the island of Hispanola — to "be ready to take quick action should a change to a northwesterly course be verified. . ."

Heavy seas already were pounding the Dominican coast, the weather bureau said.

Guantanamo Menaced

Flora was still moving toward the west-northwest, but the advisory said its pace had slowed from 14 to about 9 miles an hour. Weathermen forecast a generally northwestward course for the season's sixth and most vicious storm during the night.

The advisory said Flora still posed a definite threat to Jamaica and Cuba's Oriente province, and that its present course would take it within 50 miles to the south of Les Cayes, Haiti, Thursday night.

This course could also menace the big U.S. Naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, as well as the surrounding Cuban province where Premier Fidel Castro's revolution was born.

Kennedy Told War On Reds Is Going Well

McNamara, Taylor Report Political Situation Serious

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor told President Kennedy Wednesday they believed the need for major American involvement in South Viet Nam's anti-Communist guerrilla war will be ended by December 1965.

The White House said McNamara and Taylor, just back from an on-the-spot inspection tour of South Viet Nam, are convinced that the Communist Viet Cong can be licked by that time, or, failing that, that the security forces of the Vietnamese government will be able by then to suppress the Communist guerrillas without outside assistance.

In a five-point statement of American policy, the White House said that repressive actions against Vietnamese Buddhists by the government of Ngo Dinh Diem "have not yet significantly affected the military effort."

But the statement said there could be an adverse affect in the future.

"The political situation in South Viet Nam remains deeply serious," the statement said. "The United States has made clear its continuing opposition to any repressive actions."

1,000 GIs Due Home Soon

In addition to reporting "their judgment that the major part of the U.S. military task (in Viet Nam) can be completed by the end of 1965," McNamara and Taylor said that 1,000 American military personnel probably can be withdrawn from South Viet Nam by the end of this year. These would be personnel used to train Vietnamese troops.

Kennedy approved the policy statement on the basis of recommendations received from McNamara, Taylor and Henry Cabot Lodge, the U.S. ambassador in Saigon.

The White House said McNamara and Taylor gave Kennedy and, later in the day, the full National Security Council, a report that "included a number of classified findings and recommendations."

It said these would "be the subject of further review and action."

The basic presentation made by the defense secretary and the chairmen of the Joint Chiefs of Staff was unanimously endorsed by the security council, the statement said.

The security of South Viet Nam was labeled in the policy document as "a major interest of the United States and of other free nations."

Military Program "Sound"

And it said this country would continue to work with the people and the government there to "deny this country to communism" and suppress the Viet Cong.

The military program in South Viet Nam has made progress, the White House said, "and is sound in principle, though improvements are being energetically sought."

It added that major U.S. assistance in support of the military effort would be needed "only until the insurgency has been suppressed or until the national security forces of the government of South Viet Nam are capable of suppressing it."

It was at this point that the statement reported the judgment of McNamara and Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, that major American involvement in military operations could be completed by the end of 1965.

However, the statement said that even after that date, "there may be a continuing requirement for a limited number of U.S. training personnel."

JFK Will Fly To Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — President John F. Kennedy flies to Arkansas Thursday to dedicate a dam, speak at a livestock show, and possibly to make a major foreign policy statement on the sale of wheat to Russia.

Kennedy also may try to mend some political fences in a state that has shown signs of being lukewarm to him as a presidential repeater in 1964.

Among the most lukewarm of Arkansans is Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who will introduce Kennedy at the livestock show and make the dedication address at the dam. Faubus also will meet the President at Little Rock Air Force Base.

Rusk, Gromyko Discuss Space Weapons Ban

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko indicated Wednesday night there is a chance for an agreement on banning nuclear weapons in space.

The two met in Gromyko's quarters in the first direct U.S.-Soviet talks in the current round of Esst-West meetings.

Shortly before they began the session, Rusk told newsmen "our policy is pretty much the same" against orbiting mass destruction weapons. "We will discuss it to find out" whether a formal U.S.-Soviet agreement can be reached, he said.

Gromyko said he believed the United States and Russia are near agreement on this. Both he and Rusk were less sure of reaching a pact on exchange observers to guard against surprise attack.

According to Rusk, "We are also working on that—but of course it is something that is being discussed with NATO and other countries." There has been some difference of views among the Western allies on this.

Rusk then sat down to a working banquet with his Soviet counterpart in the Manhattan building which houses the Soviet mission to the United Nations.

Bombing Probe At Birmingham Called "Sham"

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—A state investigation into racial bombings here was denounced as a "sham" Wednesday by a Negro leader who warned that only a major breakthrough in the case could head off new racial demonstrations.

Charges of illegal possession of dynamite — a misdemeanor punishable by a $100 fine and 180 days in jail—were filed Tuesday against three white men.

The bombing of a Negro church Sept. 15 claimed the lives of four Negro girls.

The threat of new demonstrations was raised by Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth, who said that "in the absence of definite progress (in the bombing investigation). . . there is no alternative to resumption of non-violent direct action by the Negro community."

The three white men charged with possession of dynamite are R. E. Chambliss, 59, Charles Cagle, 22, and John Hall, 36. They are scheduled to be tried in recorder's court next Tuesday. All three are free on bond.

State investigators reported finding a cache of 135 sticks of dynamite hidden in a wooded area near the city Tuesday night.

Col. Al Lingo, head of the highway patrol, refused to give any detail concerning the find, but said: "We are stepping in the right direction in the Birmingham bombings. We are making progress."

Amendment Backed

BALTIMORE (AP)—A proposed constitutional amendment providing for annual 77-day General Assembly sessions and a pay raise for legislators was approved Wednesday by the Legislative Council.

Car-Bus Crash Kills Woman

BALTIMORE (AP)—One woman was killed and 24 persons were injured late Wednesday afternoon when a car hurtled the median strip and rammed headon into a chartered bus on the northern approach to the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel. The car burst into flame.

Dead was Mrs. Felicia Harris of Baltimore, an employe at the administration building of the Harbor Tunnel Police. She was the driver of the car.

All but five of those taken to City and Johns Hopkins hospitals were just shaken up, police said, but the hospitals admitted five and described their condition as serious. All were residents of the Washington area and passengers on the chartered bus, which was taking government employes to their homes in and around Washington. The bus passengers are workers at the publication Center of the army Adjutant General's Office which was moved to nearby Middle River recently from its former location near Alexandria, Va.

Racial Peace Quest Renewed In Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP)—In an atmosphere of quiet despair, Cambridge officials are groping for another answer to the racial dilemma threatening the life of this city.

What they had hoped would be a temporary answer lay buried in the vote returns from Tuesday's historic referendum.

By a 1,994 to 1,720 count, the people of Cambridge disapproved a town charter amendment. Aimed chiefly at preventing restaurants from denying service to Negroes, it also would apply to hotels and motels.

The defeat of the amendment passed by City Council last July 1 deepened bitterness which has beset the 12,000 residents of the community for months.

Government officials said it was the nation's first public vote on the question, which embraces issues even now before the Supreme Court in a case involving a Baltimore restaurant and an amusement park in the Maryland suburbs of Washington, D.C.

The vote was held against a background of National Guardsmen continuing a 3½-month occupation to prevent renewed outbreaks of racial violence.

Once an issue pitting white against Negro, the proposal evolved into a myriad of problems including racial prejudice, economic survival, a tarnished national image and several political power struggles in both the white and Negro camps.

In what seemed to be the climax, a coalition of white and Negro leaders submerged personal differences to try to gain approval of the amendment. Lined up against them were two groups, one Negro and the other white, which feared approval would mean erosion of rights.

William L. Wise and his Dorchester Businessmen and Citizens Association contended integration should not be forced and a businessman has a right to choose his customers.

Mrs. Gloria Richardson, Negro chairman of the Cambridge Nonviolent Action Committee, urged her people to boycott the referendum. She said they should not be required to vote for a right already theirs.

Ben Bella's Troops Occupy Rebel Post

ALGIERS (UPI)—Troops loyal to President Ahmed Ben Bella marched into the capital of Algeria's mountainous Kabylia district Wednesday night and occupied the military headquarters of rebellious Berber tribesmen without firing a single shot.

The column of Ben Bella gendarmerie met no opposition when it filed into Tizi-Ouzou, main garrison of the 7th Military District where Col. Mohand Ou El Hadj defied a government order stripping him of command over thousands of fierce Berber guerrillas.

It was headed by Maj. Said Habib, named by Ben Bella to replace Ou El Hadj and crush the Berber uprising.

Ben Bella dispatched additional troops and police to the area and said he would issue arms and ammunition to civilians if necessary to put down the revolt and maintain his one-man, one-party rule over this troubled former French colony.

All indications were that the government would seal off the rebellious area where the insurgents have an estimated force of 8,000 to 10,000 men and try to starve out the rebels rather than attempt a frontal assault.

But rebel opposition leader Hocine Ait Ahmed, Ben Bella's former vice premier, told a cheering crowd of 2,000 persons in the rebel stronghold of Michelet that insurgent forces would wage guerrilla warfare against the government.

He warned Ben Bella to note "the example of Napoleon whose army was crushed not only in Russia but also in Spain by guerrillas and added: "This will be guerrilla warfare."

A top Ben Bella aide announced the government would call on the Algerian people to form "committees of vigilance" to help Ben Bella against the insurgents.

"We shall arm them, if necessary," Hadj Ben Alla said, "so they can play fully and effectively their role which is to battle against the counter-revolution."

The government also announced it will ask the national assembly for special emergency powers to put down the Kabylia revolt.

Kennedy Signs Armed Forces Pay Boost Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy signed into law Wednesday a bill providing a $1.2 billion pay raise for two million members of the armed forces and expressed hope it would encourage many to re-enlist.

The President said at a White House ceremony that he signed the measure with a good deal of pleasure. He described it as recognition of the "dedicated service of so many thousands of our fellow citizens" both at home and abroad.

The pay boosts average 14 per cent. Servicemen received their last raise in 1958. The new raise goes to all members of the armed forces except 742,000 draftees and enlistees in their first two years of service.

The pay increases, effective as of Tuesday when the bill cleared Congress, range from $5 a month for recruits with two years service to $110 a month for lieutenant colonels and Navy commanders.

In addition, the measure provided a special $55 a month combat bonus for some 2,000 U.S. servicemen under Communist fire in South Viet Nam.

In a companion move, the President issued an executive order that revived extra pay for certain especially hazardous duty, sea duty, and quarters allowances for field grade officers.

Medics Believe Reds Have Hold On Defector

BERLIN (AP) — Six Western doctors agreed Wednesday that the East German Communists have some sort of hold on Capt. Alfred Svenson, who defected to East Germany last May.

The doctors, however, would not speculate on the method the Reds were using to make the 31-year-old soldier from Scranton, Pa., pliable and self-contradictory.

They said it could be a wide range of things such as habit-forming drugs, a relative living behind the Iron Curtain, fear of imprisonment if he came back to the West, or alcohol. Svenson was born in Lithuania and went to the United States as a child.

The doctors were asked to give their opinion after they had listened to recordings of an interview Svenson gave to the Reuters news agency last Sept. 2 and an interview with American reporters two days ago. They agreed but asked that their identity be withheld.

Svenson made contact with a Reuters reporter, Jack Altmann, in East Berlin. Bleeding from a cut at the mouth, Svenson said he was being held in East Berlin against his will.

He told Altmann he suffered the injuries in a beating by border guards who caught him trying to get to West Berlin. He said he had not defected but was drugged and could not remember how he got to East Germany. Svenson said he was trying to contact the U.S. military mission and wanted to return to the West.

Two days ago, in an interview arranged by the East German Foreign Office nearly a month after Svenson's contact with the British newsman, Svenson called the Reuters report "untrue and absurd."

Svenson insisted he could not remember what he told Altmann but that whatever he said was untrue. He said he had no desire to return to the West.

JFK Wants GOP Okay Of Wheat Sale To Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy tentatively has decided to permit the sale of American wheat to Russia but wants Republican leadership approval of the move before acting, an administration spokesman said Wednesday.

Before he announces any such decision, the President is expected to invite GOP leaders of both houses to canvass the situation with him.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has been approached by high government officials to go along. But he said that when the matter was discussed at a party policy meeting Tuesday there was no GOP consensus.

The administration is reported to have been informed that the Soviets are willing to buy $150 million worth of American wheat for gold. This was some $100 million less than previously had been indicated.

Kennedy was said by a source who asked not to be named to have been told by his advisers that he ought to touch all of the political and diplomatic bases before he announces any decision.

One point that particularly troubles the administration involves the possibility that the Russians might transship some of the American wheat to Cuba—or that some of the grain now in possession of the Soviets might be released by the deal for shipment there.

Any such procedure likely would have wide repercussions in view of the administration's efforts to cut to a minimum free world trade with the Fidel Castro regime.

Political Broadcast Bill Clears Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed by voice vote Wednesday a bill to clear the way for radio and television debates by the Democratic and Republican presidential candidates next year.

The measure would suspend for the 60 days immediately preceding the Nov. 3 election the requirement of the Federal Communications Act that broadcasting stations provide equal time for all candidates for a public office if time is provided for any of them.

Police And FBI Hunt Killer Of Two Girls

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—Police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation opened an all-out search Wednesday for the kidnap-killer of two little girls, but an autopsy on the torn bodies gave little help.

Dr. Leonard Crowley, a pathologist, said the examination failed to reveal the cause of death of Melissa Ann Lee, 5, and Barbara Foshaug, 4, and didn't disclose whether they had been sexually abused.

Little remained of the bodies but the bones. X-rays showed no fractures. Dr. Crowley said he doubted that an autopsy ever could determine the exact cause of death of the girls, who disappeared from the back yard of their tenement homes Sept. 7.

Bodies of the two little girls were found lying face up side by side in a woods 10 miles northwest of Minneapolis near a rehabilitation home for alcoholics late Tuesday.

First Lady Given Oxygen During Flight To Athens

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy needed a whiff of oxygen Wednesday on the last leg of a jet liner trip that brought her to Athens for a 15-day vacation in Greece.

Weary, the American First Lady asked for the oxygen and received it from a small, portable tank while the plane was cruising at 29,000 feet.

Nevertheless, she was smiling broadly as she stepped from the plane ramp at Athens Airport, kissed her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, and greeted waiting officials and friends.

Only a short time before the landing, Mrs. Kennedy had retired to her special berth in the first-class section of the Trans World Airlines liner for the oxygen treatment.

The purser warned other passengers to extinguish cigarettes. Oxygen is an inflammable gas.

A Secret Service man traveling with Mrs. Kennedy said she was not ill, but was tired and affected by the altitude. Oxygen sometimes is given to overcome fatigue.

A stewardess who gave Mrs. Kennedy the small tank said the First Lady herself explained she was very tired. Actually, only a small amount was used, the stewardess said.

The six other first-class passengers were enjoying luncheon. They felt no discomfort in the cabin.

Mrs. Kennedy did not eat lunch. But she quickly recovered and returned to her seat, seemingly having no further difficulty.

Pentagon Checking Off-Base Race Bias

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Military base commanders have been asked to report to the Defense Department full details of any segregation practices in nearby communities, it was disclosed Wednesday.

The Pentagon said it mailed questionnaries Sept. 24 "to obtain necessary information for the formulation of future policy." Base commanders were asked to report by Nov. 8.

The move was the latest in the Defense Department's new drive to halt off-base discrimination against Negro servicemen.

The campaign began last July when Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara issued a directive instructing base commanders to consider declaring off limits any off-base establishments, or communities, that discriminate against Negroes.

Racial Peace Quest Renewed In Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP)—In an atmosphere of quiet despair, Cambridge officials are groping for another answer to the racial dilemma threatening the life of this city.

What they had hoped would be a temporary answer lay buried in the vote returns from Tuesday's historic referendum.

By a 1,994 to 1,720 count, the people of Cambridge disapproved a town charter amendment. Aimed chiefly at preventing restaurants from denying service to Negroes, it also would apply to hotels and motels.

The defeat of the amendment passed by City Council last July 1 deepened bitterness which has beset the 12,000 residents of the community for months.

Government officials said it was the nation's first public vote on the question, which embraces issues even now before the Supreme Court in a case involving a Baltimore restaurant and an amusement park in the Maryland suburbs of Washington, D.C.

The vote was held against a background of National Guardsmen continuing a 3½-month occupation to prevent renewed outbreaks of racial violence.

Once an issue pitting white against Negro, the proposal evolved into a myriad of problems including racial prejudice, economic survival, a tarnished national image and several political power struggles in both the white and Negro camps.

In what seemed to be the climax, a coalition of white and Negro leaders submerged personal differences to try to gain approval of the amendment. Lined up against them were two groups, one Negro and the other white, which feared approval would mean erosion of rights.

William L. Wise and his Dorchester Businessmen and Citizens Association contended integration should not be forced and a businessman has a right to choose his customers.

Mrs. Gloria Richardson, Negro chairman of the Cambridge Nonviolent Action Committee, urged her people to boycott the referendum. She said they should not be required to vote for a right already theirs.

Ben Bella's Troops Occupy Rebel Post

ALGIERS (UPI)—Troops loyal to President Ahmed Ben Bella marched into the capital of Algeria's mountainous Kabylia district Wednesday night and occupied the military headquarters of rebellious Berber tribesmen without firing a single shot.

The column of Ben Bella gendarmerie met no opposition when it filed into Tizi-Ouzou, main garrison of the 7th Military District where Col. Mohand Ou El Hadj defied a government order stripping him of command over thousands of fierce Berber guerrillas.

It was headed by Maj. Said Habib, named by Ben Bella to replace Ou El Hadj and crush the Berber uprising.

Ben Bella dispatched additional troops and police to the area and said he would issue arms and ammunition to civilians if necessary to put down the revolt and maintain his one-man, one-party rule over this troubled former French colony.

All indications were that the government would seal off the rebellious area where the insurgents have an estimated force of 8,000 to 10,000 men and try to starve out the rebels rather than attempt a frontal assault.

But rebel opposition leader Hocine Ait Ahmed, Ben Bella's former vice premier, told a cheering crowd of 2,000 persons in the rebel stronghold of Michelet that insurgent forces would wage guerrilla warfare against the government.

He warned Ben Bella to note "the example of Napoleon whose army was crushed not only in Russia but also in Spain by guerrillas and added: "This will be guerrilla warfare."

A top Ben Bella aide announced the government would call on the Algerian people to form "committees of vigilance" to help Ben Bella against the insurgents.

"We shall arm them, if necessary," Hadj Ben Alla said, "so they can play fully and effectively their role which is to battle against the counter-revolution."

The government also announced it will ask the national assembly for special emergency powers to put down the Kabylia revolt.

Kennedy Signs Armed Forces Pay Boost Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy signed into law Wednesday a bill providing a $1.2 billion pay raise for two million members of the armed forces and expressed hope it would encourage many to re-enlist.

The President said at a White House ceremony that he signed the measure with a good deal of pleasure. He described it as recognition of the "dedicated service of so many thousands of our fellow citizens" both at home and abroad.

The pay boosts average 14 per cent. Servicemen received their last raise in 1958. The new raise goes to all members of the armed forces except 742,000 draftees and enlistees in their first two years of service.

The pay increases, effective as of Tuesday when the bill cleared Congress, range from $5 a month for recruits with two years service to $110 a month for lieutenant colonels and Navy commanders.

In addition, the measure provided a special $55 a month combat bonus for some 2,000 U.S. servicemen under Communist fire in South Viet Nam.

In a companion move, the President issued an executive order that revived extra pay for certain especially hazardous duty, sea duty, and quarters allowances for field grade officers.

Medics Believe Reds Have Hold On Defector

BERLIN (AP) — Six Western doctors agreed Wednesday that the East German Communists have some sort of hold on Capt. Alfred Svenson, who defected to East Germany last May.

The doctors, however, would not speculate on the method the Reds were using to make the 31-year-old soldier from Scranton, Pa., pliable and self-contradictory.

They said it could be a wide range of things such as habit-forming drugs, a relative living behind the Iron Curtain, fear of imprisonment if he came back to the West, or alcohol. Svenson was born in Lithuania and went to the United States as a child.

The doctors were asked to give their opinion after they had listened to recordings of an interview Svenson gave to the Reuters news agency last Sept. 2 and an interview with American reporters two days ago. They agreed but asked that their identity be withheld.

Svenson made contact with a Reuters reporter, Jack Altmann, in East Berlin. Bleeding from a cut at the mouth, Svenson said he was being held in East Berlin against his will.

He told Altmann he suffered the injuries in a beating by border guards who caught him trying to get to West Berlin. He said he had not defected but was drugged and could not remember how he got to East Germany. Svenson said he was trying to contact the U.S. military mission and wanted to return to the West.

Two days ago, in an interview arranged by the East German Foreign Office nearly a month after Svenson's contact with the British newsman, Svenson called the Reuters report "untrue and absurd."

Svenson insisted he could not remember what he told Altmann but that whatever he said was untrue. He said he had no desire to return to the West.

Rusk, Gromyko Discuss Space Weapons Ban

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko indicated Wednesday night there is a chance for an agreement on banning nuclear weapons in space.

The two met in Gromyko's quarters in the first direct U.S.-Soviet talks in the current round of Esst-West meetings.

Shortly before they began the session, Rusk told newsmen "our policy is pretty much the same" against orbiting mass destruction weapons. "We will discuss it to find out" whether a formal U.S.-Soviet agreement can be reached, he said.

Gromyko said he believed the United States and Russia are near agreement on this. Both he and Rusk were less sure of reaching a pact on exchange observers to guard against surprise attack.

According to Rusk, "We are also working on that—but of course it is something that is being discussed with NATO and other countries." There has been some difference of views among the Western allies on this.

Rusk then sat down to a working banquet with his Soviet counterpart in the Manhattan building which houses the Soviet mission to the United Nations.

Amendment Backed

BALTIMORE (AP)—A proposed constitutional amendment providing for annual 77-day General Assembly sessions and a pay raise for legislators was approved Wednesday by the Legislative Council.

Car-Bus Crash Kills Woman

BALTIMORE (AP)—One woman was killed and 24 persons were injured late Wednesday afternoon when a car hurtled the median strip and rammed headon into a chartered bus on the northern approach to the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel. The car burst into flame.

Dead was Mrs. Felicia Harris of Baltimore, an employe at the administration building of the Harbor Tunnel Police. She was the driver of the car.

All but five of those taken to City and Johns Hopkins hospitals were just shaken up, police said, but the hospitals admitted five and described their condition as serious. All were residents of the Washington area and passengers on the chartered bus, which was taking government employes to their homes in and around Washington. The bus passengers are workers at the publication Center of the army Adjutant General's Office which was moved to nearby Middle River recently from its former location near Alexandria, Va.

Police And FBI Hunt Killer Of Two Girls

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—Police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation opened an all-out search Wednesday for the kidnap-killer of two little girls, but an autopsy on the torn bodies gave little help.

Dr. Leonard Crowley, a pathologist, said the examination failed to reveal the cause of death of Melissa Ann Lee, 5, and Barbara Foshaug, 4, and didn't disclose whether they had been sexually abused.

Little remained of the bodies but the bones. X-rays showed no fractures. Dr. Crowley said he doubted that an autopsy ever could determine the exact cause of death of the girls, who disappeared from the back yard of their tenement homes Sept. 7.

Bodies of the two little girls were found lying face up side by side in a woods 10 miles northwest of Minneapolis near a rehabilitation home for alcoholics late Tuesday.

JFK Wants GOP Okay Of Wheat Sale To Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy tentatively has decided to permit the sale of American wheat to Russia but wants Republican leadership approval of the move before acting, an administration spokesman said Wednesday.

Before he announces any such decision, the President is expected to invite GOP leaders of both houses to canvass the situation with him.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has been approached by high government officials to go along. But he said that when the matter was discussed at a party policy meeting Tuesday there was no GOP consensus.

The administration is reported to have been informed that the Soviets are willing to buy $150 million worth of American wheat for gold. This was some $100 million less than previously had been indicated.

Kennedy was said by a source who asked not to be named to have been told by his advisers that he ought to touch all of the political and diplomatic bases before he announces any decision.

One point that particularly troubles the administration involves the possibility that the Russians might transship some of the American wheat to Cuba—or that some of the grain now in possession of the Soviets might be released by the deal for shipment there.

Any such procedure likely would have wide repercussions in view of the administration's efforts to cut to a minimum free world trade with the Fidel Castro regime.

Political Broadcast Bill Clears Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed by voice vote Wednesday a bill to clear the way for radio and television debates by the Democratic and Republican presidential candidates next year.

The measure would suspend for the 60 days immediately preceding the Nov. 3 election the requirement of the Federal Communications Act that broadcasting stations provide equal time for all candidates for a public office if time is provided for any of them.

First Lady Given Oxygen During Flight To Athens

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy needed a whiff of oxygen Wednesday on the last leg of a jet liner trip that brought her to Athens for a 15-day vacation in Greece.

Weary, the American First Lady asked for the oxygen and received it from a small, portable tank while the plane was cruising at 29,000 feet.

Nevertheless, she was smiling broadly as she stepped from the plane ramp at Athens Airport, kissed her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, and greeted waiting officials and friends.

Only a short time before the landing, Mrs. Kennedy had retired to her special berth in the first-class section of the Trans World Airlines liner for the oyxgen treatment.

The purser warned other passengers to extinguish cigarettes. Oxygen is an inflammable gas.

A Secret Service man traveling with Mrs. Kennedy said she was not ill, but was tired and affected by the altitude. Oxygen sometimes is given to overcome fatigue.

A stewardess who gave Mrs. Kennedy the small tank said the First Lady herself explained she was very tired. Actually, only a small amount was used, the stewardess said.

The six other first-class passengers were enjoying luncheon. They felt no discomfort in the cabin.

Mrs. Kennedy did not eat lunch. But she quickly recovered and returned to her seat, seemingly having no further difficulty.

Pentagon Checking Off-Base Race Bias

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Military base commanders have been asked to report to the Defense Department full details of any segregation practices in nearby communities, it was disclosed Wednesday.

The Pentagon said it mailed questionnaries Sept. 24 "to obtain necessary information for the formulation of future policy." Base commanders were asked to report by Nov. 8.

The move was the latest in the Defense Department's new drive to halt off-base discrimination against Negro servicemen.

The campaign began last July when Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara issued a directive instructing base commanders to consider declaring off limits any off-base establishments, or communities, that discriminate against Negroes.

Negro Leader Says Cambridge Solution Up To City Fathers

Renewal Of Demonstrations Threatened

CAMBRIDGE (AP)—Mrs. Gloria Richardson, local Negro leader, said Wednesday its up to the city administration to figure out how to get Negroes served in Cambridge restaurants.

Tuesday a city charter amendment designed to do just that was defeated in a special election by a vote of 1,994 to 1,720.

Mrs. Richardson said that unless the administration comes up with a solution "some time soon" she will signal the resumption of Negro demonstrations.

In the meantime, Mrs. Richardson said, she and the Cambridge Nonviolent Action Committee which she heads will press for further racial reforms in school integration and job opportunities.

Across Race Street, in the white part of town, William L. Wise, an oil dealer who led the fight against the amendment, offered to sit down and discuss equal accommodations.

Wise, chairman of the hastily formed Dorchester Businessmen and Citizens Committee, said "a course could be laid out that would prove beneficial to all concerned."

Wise said he had no specific plan and added, "This work cannot be done overnight, in a week, or a month."

He said Tuesday's vote showed that "the citizens of Cambridge do not want a bill to force a man, under penalty of the law, to give up his rights."

The amendment stipulated a maximum penalty of a $300 fine for practicing racial discrimination in public eating and lodging places.

City Atty. C. Awdry Thompson said, "I'm always willing to talk to anyone, anytime." Dr. Arthur Parker, city council president, said the same thing.

Restaurant owners, who would have been forced to admit Negroes under the amendment, have refused to drop racial barriers voluntarily.

A city ordinance to open public accommodations to Negroes failed to get a second when a councilman proposed it at a midsummer city council meeting. The ordinance would not have been subject to petition or referendum as was the amendment.

And Gov. Tawes has said he won't call a special session of the legislature to include Dorchester County, of which Cambridge is the seat, within the scope of a statewide equal accommodations law.

The law was enacted last March, but it only affects Baltimore City and 11 counties. Twelve other counties, including Dorchester, were allowed the privilege of exempting themselves from the act.

This, said Mrs. Richardson, leaves Negroes no other weapon but the demonstration.

Most Quarters In Wheat Areas For Soviet Deal

By The Associated Press

Sentiment in favor of selling U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union appears to be increasing in wheat-growing areas.

However, some objections are being raised.

Humanitarian reasons figure in the favorable opinions as well as the possibilities of profit and of reducing the vast wheat surplus.

But some question the desirability of helping the Communist system, which has vowed to overcome the United States.

Although the Soviet Union has not asked officially to buy U.S. wheat, President Kennedy was reported on the verge of approving such a deal.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman reported that private traders estimate 200 million bushels of wheat could be sold to Russia for $300 million.

An Associated Press sampling of opinion among farmers, millers and exporters and their organizations indicated a majority would welcome the sale.

"I think that if they pay us for it, we should sell to them," said John Vanier, president of the Western Star Milling Co., Salina, Kan. "I think that trade is the one thing that will make people understand each other."

John Hirsch, an executive of Harvey Grain Inc., Wichita, Kan., called the idea "a ver bad mistake."

"We will be perpetuating a type of government bent on destroying us. There's nothing better to do it with than food."

The Iowa farm Bureau took the stand that "if the administration sees no hazards, the sale of wheat and other farm commodities should be negotiated at world prices."

A joint statement by presidents of the Farmers Union in North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Minnesota and Wisconsin said that since the Soviet Union becomes a signatory of the international wheat agreement with the 1963 crop year it would be reasonable to explore the possibilities of sale of wheat for dollars or gold.

"The Farmers Union has historically taken the position that as long as there is hunger in the world we should seek every way to make our abundant production available to the people," it said.

C.H. Kreader, executive secretary of the Nebraska Wheat Growers Association, mentioned these reasons why the organization favors selling wheat to the Soviets:

"It's a cash market, the United States has an excess of wheat it has not been able to dispose of, and it would help even up balance of payments between countries."

Witness Tells Of Fist Fight With Christine

LONDON (AP) — A crown prosecutor said Wednesday that Christine Keeler committed perjury-and bribed another witness to lie-in an attempt to put a discarded Negro lover behind bars. A male witness at the hearing told of getting into a fist fight with her.

A verdict of guilty could mean a long prison term for the red-haired party girl whose dalliance with John Profumo cost him his job as Britain's war minister and shook the Conservative government.

Prosecutor John Buzzard made his accusation at the opening of a court hearing to decide whether Christine and three others must stand trial on charges of perjury and conspiracy to subvert justice.

The maximum sentence for perjury is seven years. The penalty for subverting justice is indefinite under British law, and a judge can hand down whatever prison term he believes justified.

Christine's discarded lover, Jamaican jazz singer Aloysius (Lucky) Gordon, 32, was convicted June 7 of beating her up and was sentenced to three years. Seven weeks later an appeals court voided the conviction and set Gordon free.

The arrest of Christine, 21, her apartment-mate, Paula Hamilton-Marshall, 23; their housekeeper, Olive Brooker, 56; and Jamaican Rudolph Fenton, 39, soon followed. All are free on bail.

In court, Miss Hamilton-Marshall's brother, John, testified that he slugged Christine around in the apartment April 17 several hours before Gordon made his appearance. Christine suffered a cut eye and bruises.

Hamilton-Marshall, 27, said the argument started over an accusation by Christine that he had been pawing through her private papers.

Hamilton-Marshall said he then left the apartment.

More than four hours later, Prosecutor Buzzard said, Gordon forced his way in and scuffled with Christine and Fenton. Also present was another friend, Peter Camacchio, 34.

Christine called the police and Gordon fled. She then swore out an assault charge against him.

Blast Furnace Burns Fatal To Second Man

BALTIMORE (AP)—Blake Williams, who suffered third-degree burns over 90 per cent of his body in a blast furnace accident, died Wednesday at Maryland General Hospital.

Williams, 39, was the second worker to die as a result of the accident at the Bethlehem Steel Company's Sparrows Point plant. A door on a blast furnace stove blew open Tuesday, emitting a stream of "superheated" air.

Clifford Trusty, 55, was dead on arrival at the company dispensary. A third worker was treated for minor burns.

Maryland Industrial Conference Slated

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A governor's conference on industrial development in Maryland will be held April 2, 1964, in Baltimore, it was announced Wednesday.

Roland A. Loveless, chairman of the committee which is organizing the conference, said the purpose will be to review economic progress in Maryland since 1959 and to plan for future industrial development.

Biblical Research Occupies Council

VATICAN CITY (AP) — New Roman Catholic emphasis on Biblical research, long a favorite domain of Protestant scholars, emerged Wednesday at the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

Most of the day's 17 speakers in St. Peter's Basilica dwelt on word meanings and symbols from both Old and New Testaments as they suggested changes in the schema (topic) "de ecclesia"—concerning the church.

They delved in areas that touch upon exegetics — a theological specialty in which Biblical scholars investigate and interpret scriptural meanings.

"De ecclesia" re-examines what Christ intended in founding a church, what its structure really is and who belongs to it. A draft of the schema was approved in principle by the council Tuesday. The 2,300 council fathers heard views on the first of the schema's four chapters, "The mystery of the church."

Couple Named In Counterfeit Cuba Peso Case

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore man and his wife were formally accused Wednesday of conspiring with two other persons to produce counterfeit Cuban currency.

Robert D. Morrow, 35-year-old electronics engineer, and his wife, Cecily, 32, were charged at an arraignment before U.S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart in Baltimore.

After considerable legal haggling over the amounts of the bond, Mrs. Morrow was released under a personal bond of $2,500. Morrow was released later under $12,500 bail posted by a professional bondsman.

The 45-minute proceeding before Volkart was delayed for 10 minutes when Mrs. Morrow, a fashionably dressed, slim blonde, appeared faint and began to fall to the floor.

She was caught before falling, however, and U.S. marshals scurried for some water. As she regained her composure, Mrs. Morrow said: "What will I do with the children?"

The Morrows are parents of a boy and girl 7 and 5, pupils in Friends School in Baltimore.

An attorney for the Morrows contended the bond set was excessive. They have lived in Baltimore for 12 years, he said, and are not going anywhere.

Commissioner Volkart replied he would not reduce the bond until he knew the details of charges against them in New York.

Secret Service agents raided Morrow's home and seized photographic negatives, from which seven sets of plates allegedly were made to counterfeit 50 pesos notes. The plates were seized in New York, where agents arrested one man and began a search for another.

Mrs. Morrow, not charged in Baltimore, is accused in New York of taking part in the conspiracy.

The other two are Mario Garcia Kohly, 62, a Cuban living in Arlington, Va., who was arrested in New York, and Bill Evans of Washington, D. C. A warrant has been issued for Evans' arrest.

Gangster Tells

Lucky, Ciro and a fellow named Cheech. About five days after that there was peace. Joe Masseria, he was shot in the restaurant."

"By surprise?" asked Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D.

Valachi: "No, they were sitting down, talking."

Mundt: "Was anyone caught?"

Valachi: "No, no one was caught."

At that point, Detective Sgt. Ralph Salerno of the New York City police read the record of Masseria's slaying.

"At 3:30 p.m. on April 15, 1931, Giuseppe Masseria, alias Joe the boss was shot in the back and head by unknown persons who escaped. Cause of death: six gunshot wounds, head and body. Case active."

Salerno said he couldn't tell the senators everything police know about the gangland slayings.

"As I have explained, these are all active cases," he said. "In view of the new leads which have recently been made available, they are under active investigation at this time."

Salerno said New York prosecutors fear detailed testimony on the slayings would prejudice any trials that might grow out of the information Valachi has given them.

McClellan asked Valachi how many men died in the gang war that ended after Masseria's slaying.

Valachi: "Senator, I got the score. The score was we lost one and they lost 40 to 60."

McClellan: "The score was 40 to 60 people were killed?"

Valachi: "That's right."

McClellan: "Do you know the name of the one that was killed in your group?"

Valachi: "We lost the one in Chicago, Joe Aiello. They told me Al Capone got him."

With Masseria dead, Valachi said, Maranzano called a mass meeting of 400 to 500 persons at a hall on Washington Avenue.

"He talked about Masseria and his group, that they were killing people without justice. Now it's gonna be different, he said.

"First we have the boss of all bosses, which is myself," Valachi quoted Maranzano.

Valachi said Maranzano traced the Cosa Nostra chain of command—with himself at the top.

Then, Valachi said, Maranzano invited the "soldiers" who were on his side in the war with the Masseria men to join his Cosa Nostra "family." Valachi raised his hand.

"Were all of those people at that meeting, were they all members of Cosa Nostra?" asked McClellan.

"Oh, yes," said Valachi. "I saw faces I never saw. They had to be."

Couple Named In Counterfeit Cuba Peso Case

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore man and his wife were formally accused Wednesday of conspiring with two other persons to produce counterfeit Cuban currency.

Robert D. Morrow, 35-year-old electronics engineer, and his wife, Cecily, 32, were charged at an arraignment before U.S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart in Baltimore.

After considerable legal haggling over the amounts of the bond, Mrs. Morrow was released under a personal bond of $2,500. Morrow was released later under $12,500 bail posted by a professional bondsman.

The 45-minute proceeding before Volkart was delayed for 10 minutes when Mrs. Morrow, a fashionably dressed, slim blonde, appeared faint and began to fall to the floor.

She was caught before falling, however, and U.S. marshals scurried for some water. As she regained her composure, Mrs. Morrow said: "What will I do with the children?"

The Morrows are parents of a boy and girl 7 and 5, pupils in Friends School in Baltimore.

An attorney for the Morrows contended the bond set was excessive. They have lived in Baltimore for 12 years, he said, and are not going anywhere.

Commissioner Volkart replied he would not reduce the bond until he knew the details of charges against them in New York.

Secret Service agents raided Morrow's home and seized photographic negatives, from which seven sets of plates allegedly were made to counterfeit 50 pesos notes. The plates were seized in New York, where agents arrested one man and began a search for another.

Mrs. Morrow, not charged in Baltimore, is accused in New York of taking part in the conspiracy.

The other two are Mario Garcia Kohly, 62, a Cuban living in Arlington, Va., who was arrested in New York, and Bill Evans of Washington, D. C. A warrant has been issued for Evans' arrest.

Gangster Tells

Lucky, Ciro and a fellow named Cheech. About five days after that there was peace. Joe Masseria, he was shot in the restaurant."

"By surprise?" asked Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D.

Valachi: "No, they were sitting down, talking."

Mundt: "Was anyone caught?"

Valachi: "No, no one was caught."

At that point, Detective Sgt. Ralph Salerno of the New York City police read the record of Masseria's slaying.

"At 3:30 p.m. on April 15, 1931, Giuseppe Masseria, alias Joe the boss was shot in the back and head by unknown persons who escaped. Cause of death: six gunshot wounds, head and body. Case active."

Salerno said he couldn't tell the senators everything police know about the gangland slayings.

"As I have explained, these are all active cases," he said. "In view of the new leads which have recently been made available, they are under active investigation at this time."

Salerno said New York prosecutors fear detailed testimony on the slayings would prejudice any trials that might grow out of the information Valachi has given them.

McClellan asked Valachi how many men died in the gang war that ended after Masseria's slaying.

Valachi: "Senator, I got the score. The score was we lost one and they lost 40 to 60."

McClellan: "The score was 40 to 60 people were killed?"

Valachi: "That's right."

McClellan: "Do you know the name of the one that was killed in your group?"

Valachi: "We lost the one in Chicago, Joe Aiello. They told me Al Capone got him."

With Masseria dead, Valachi said, Maranzano called a mass meeting of 400 to 500 persons at a hall on Washington Avenue.

"He talked about Masseria and his group, that they were killing people without justice. Now it's gonna be different, he said.

"First we have the boss of all bosses, which is myself," Valachi quoted Maranzano.

Valachi said Maranzano traced the Cosa Nostra chain of command—with himself at the top.

Then, Valachi said, Maranzano invited the "soldiers" who were on his side in the war with the Masseria men to join his Cosa Nostra "family." Valachi raised his hand.

"Were all of those people at that meeting, were they all members of Cosa Nostra?" asked McClellan.

"Oh, yes," said Valachi. "I saw faces I never saw. They had to be."

Blast Furnace Burns Fatal To Second Man

BALTIMORE (AP)—Blake Williams, who suffered third-degree burns over 90 per cent of his body in a blast furnace accident, died Wednesday at Maryland General Hospital.

Williams, 39, was the second worker to die as a result of the accident at the Bethlehem Steel Company's Sparrows Point plant. A door on a blast furnace stove blew open Tuesday, emitting a stream of "superheated" air.

Clifford Trusty, 55, was dead on arrival at the company dispensary. A third worker was treated for minor burns.

Maryland Industrial Conference Slated

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A governor's conference on industrial development in Maryland will be held April 2, 1964, in Baltimore, it was announced Wednesday.

Roland A. Loveless, chairman of the committee which is organizing the conference, said the purpose will be to review economic progress in Maryland since 1959 and to plan for future industrial development.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — In addition to hitting the books, elementary school students hit the desks.

They also kick, knock and otherwise jar the classroom furniture.

The gymnastics with desks have nothing to do with the flair for physical fitness. Rather, the treatment's considered normal wear and tear on desks—the sort of thing students have been doing to pass time since dipping pigtails into ink wells became passe.

The high cost of desks, however, have stepped up the need for classroom furniture that's practically unbreakable.

"School Management," a journal for educators, estimates that local school boards spend about $1,000 to outfit a 30-student classroom with chairs and desks.

The annual figure for new and replacement equipment: $1 billion.

Some school boards send delegations to desk factories to test the furniture before signing on the dotted line.

And they don't just take out a pen - knife to test the initial-carving resistance of desk tops, no, ma'am.

Not long ago, at the Worcester, Mass., plant of one maker of school furniture, a delegation from a school board asked for a demonstration before buying desks.

Roland C. Twombly, executive vice president of the firm, put it this way in an interview:

"They came to our plant and asked us to roll a desk down three flights of stairs 'to see what would happen.' One board member picked up a chair panel and sailed it almost 100 feet across the room against a wall. The furniture passed both tests."

Fastening techniques used in some of the newer desks are identical to those used by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) in missiles and space capsules.

"We're now using a development of the same company that makes the heli-coil wire screw thread insert that held together Gordon Cooper's heat shield and Atlas booster," Twombly said.

"And we think we've developed the ultimate in indestructible hardness in a special plastic. Kids can't carve it."

The screw unit—a development of the space age—gives more than twice the holding strength of the conventional screw attachment. The harder the students pull, the firmer the insert digs into the plastic.

Twombly said a school board recently summoned together several furniture manufacturers bidding on a contract to supply classroom equipment for a new elementary school.

"The school board listened to us as we boasted of the alleged ruggedness of our products and then, with all seriousness, invited us to toss one of each of the competing desk assemblies out a third floor window," Twombly said.

The educators said they'd buy the desk that survived best.

P. S. — Nobody accepted the challenge.

More than 3¼ million veterans have attended college under the GI Bill.

It is estimated that there are some 600 thousand kinds of insects in the world.

Bids On Two Beltway Projects Are Opened

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Roads Commission opened bids Tuesday on two Montgomery County projects affecting the Capital Beltway, which eventually will ring Washington, D.C.

The SRC said Allied Contractors Inc., of Baltimore, submitted the apparently low bid of $140,340 for the widening of dual steel beam bridges on the beltway over Maryland 97. Seven bids were received on the project.

The other contract calls for the furnishing, planting and care of trees, shrubs and groundcover on the beltway from north of River Road to Seven Locks Road, and including the interchange at River Road.

Four bids were received, the SRC said, with the apparent low of $44,758 submitted by Thomas E. Carroll and Son, Inc., of Silver Spring.

Elderly Benedictine Nun Makes Rose Rosaries

By BOB HARING

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Mother Agnes turns roses into rosaries.

The 81-year-old Benedictine nun, for 18 years mother superior of the Roman Catholic order in Oklahoma, would like, though, to learn a Spanish trick of how to make red rosaries from roses.

The ones she makes are black. In Spain, she says, "they make red rosaries, but it's a trade secret how they do it."

Mother Agnes uses a meat grinder and an iron skillet to convert rose petals into the religious devices. She begins by grinding up large bouquets of wilted roses.

"The roses look like ground beef when I'm finished," she says. "Next I put them in the skillet and let them set for a few days. The chemical action of the iron turns the roses black."

She also adds a bit of salt "to bring the juice out." After about 10 days, the mixture becomes like putty. Then Mother Agnes cuts out tiny pieces with a thimble—"like cutting a biscuit," she says—and rolls them into balls.

The beads shrink to about half their original size while drying, with pins stuck through the middles to make holes.

The finished beads then are strung on silver wire.

Each rosary has 59 beads, requiring about six dozen roses.

"As long as you have a piece of the rosary, you will have the scent of roses," Mother Agnes says. One rosary which she has had for 40 years recently went through the laundry, unintentionally, but emerged with rose scent still present.

Harding's Letters Given To Society

MARION, Ohio (AP) — The Harding Memorial Association of Marion announced Tuesday that it will present some 300,000 pieces of correspondence of the late President Warren G. Harding to the Ohio Historical Society.

The gift will be made sometime this week, association officials said, and will be based on the condition that the correspondence will be available for research purposes.

The letters were all written or received by Harding during his presidential term-March 4, 1921, until his death, Aug. 2, 1923.

France Expects H-Bomb By 1966

PARIS (UPI) — The authoritative magazine, "National Defense Review," said Tuesday that France will have hydrogen bombs in 1966. The prediction indicated French scientists have lopped two years off the original target date for building the H-bomb.

The magazine, published under the sponsorship of the armed forces ministry, also said that by 1966-67 France will have its own intermediate range ballistic missiles (IRBM) and at least one nuclear submarine.

The disclosure came less than a week after informed sources reported President Charles de Gaulle ordered "full steam ahead" on the construction of the French striking force last Wednesday during a top-secret visit to the French nuclear centers of Pierrelatte and Cadarache.

Until now, French H-bombs were expected to be built in 1968 at the earliest.

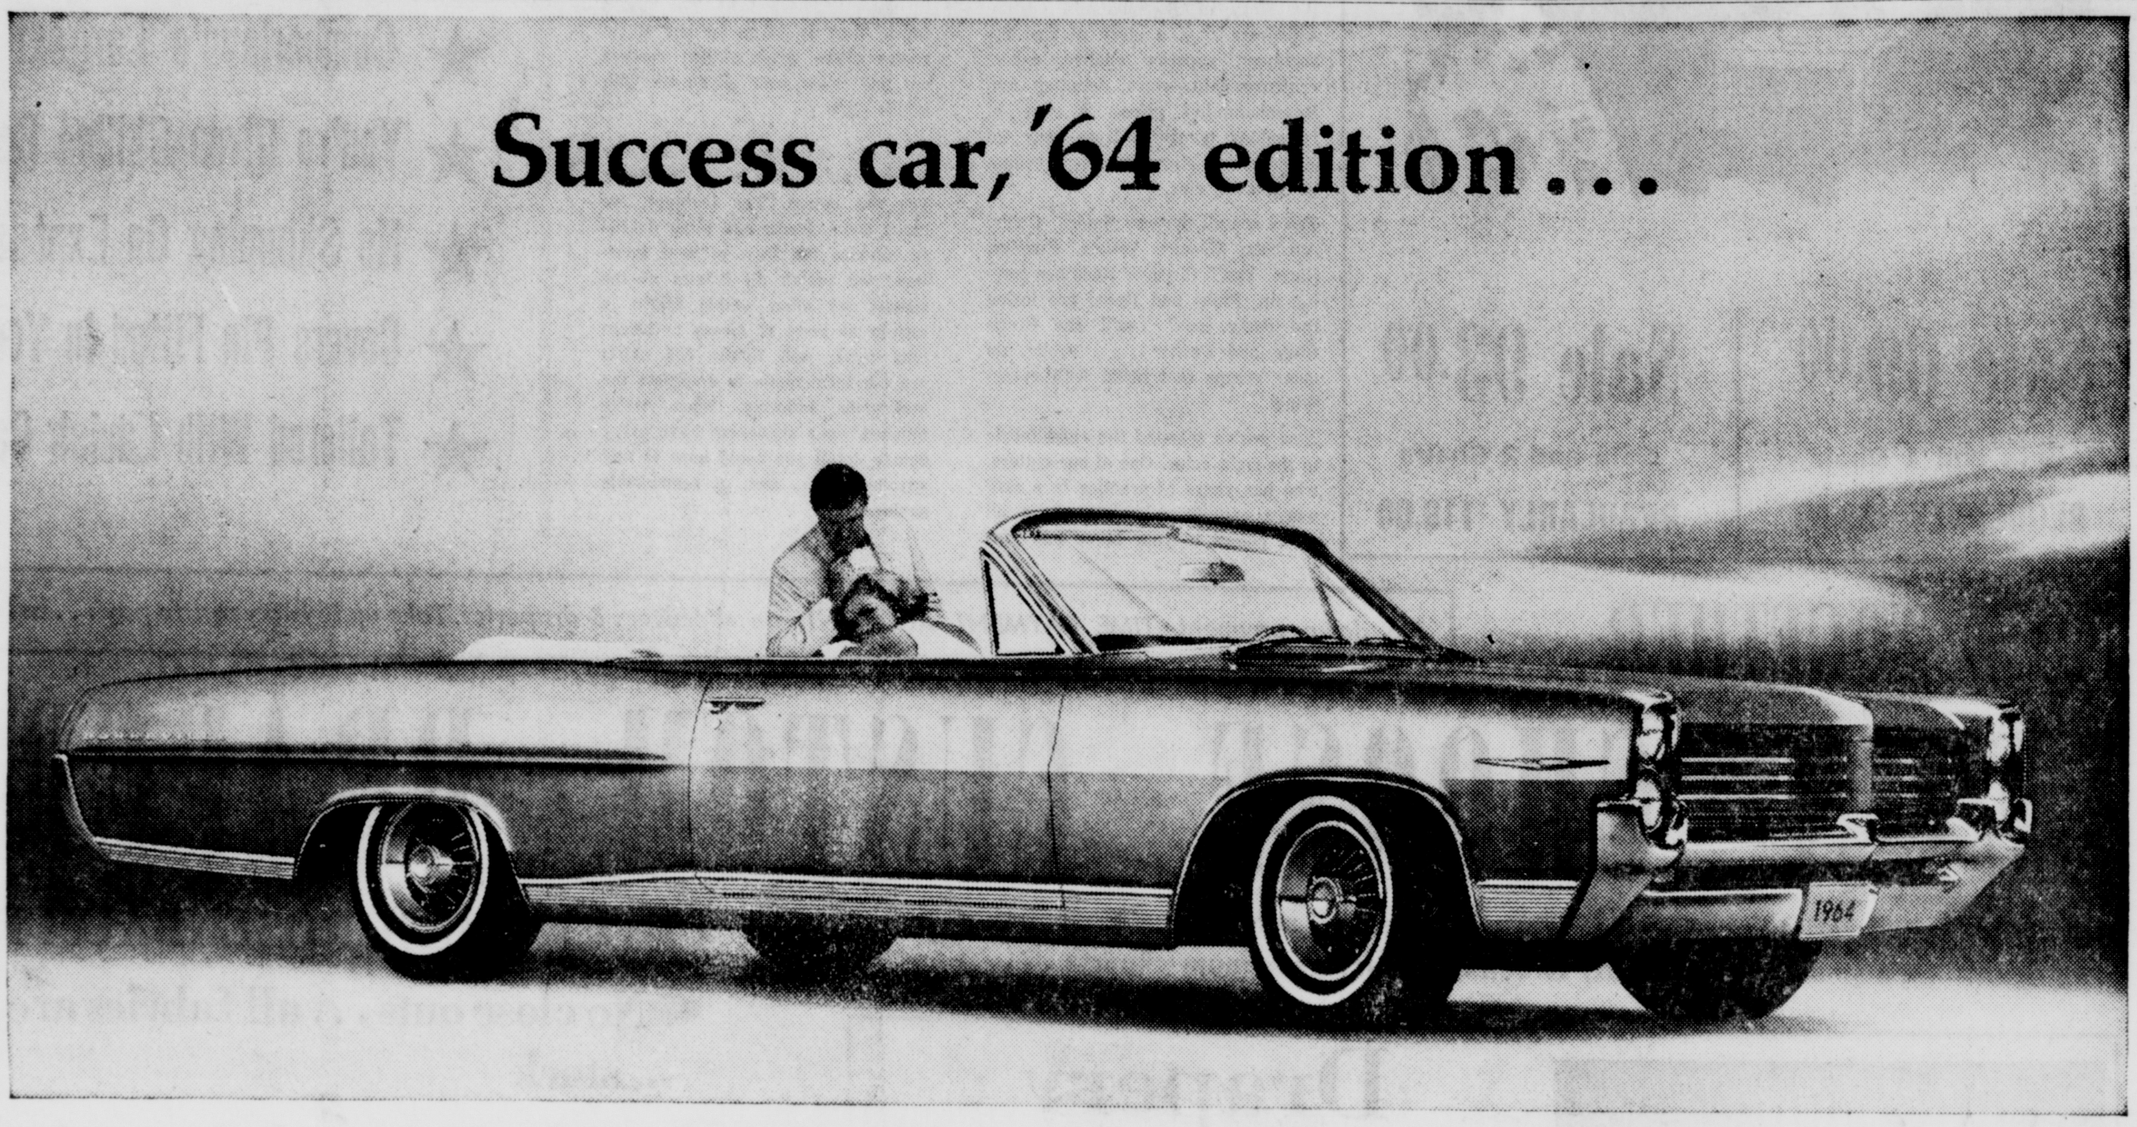
Success car, '64 edition . . .



The car that answers the question, "After their '63 model, what in the world will Pontiac do for '64?"

Let's face it: it wasn't easy coming up with a worthy successor to our super-successful '63. But we did it, as you can plainly see. Evidence? Trim new styling, with interiors just as clean and handsome as the exterior.

A smoother, quieter ride—which is something we seem to deliver every year. Wide-Track for curve-straightening and 389 cubic inches of Trophy V-8 power in every model. All in all, every '64 Pontiac looks and feels and acts like competitive cars wish they did and don't. Are we right in assuming you'd rather be down at your dealer's than sitting there reading? Be our guest! '64 Pontiac Pontiac plus a whole new kind of Pontiac. . .

If you've been buying the same low-priced car time after time, get ready to break the habit.

And this is the habit-breaker—the '64 Pontiac Tempest. (If it were any more of a Pontiac, you couldn't tell it from our other one.) Anything new? Practically everything, that's all. A thrifty new in-line 6 cylinder engine, a longer, roomier body topping a wider Wide-Track, bigger brakes, a smoother and quieter ride, precise new steering, a new frame and assorted mechanical marvels. There's even an extra-cost 4-speed gearbox for the 6 or extra-cost V-8's. And most of all, very, very handsome Pontiac-style styling, inside and out. There are nine new Tempest and Le Mans models for 1964. So now your only problem is, which one to choose? And that shouldn't be much of a problem. Not with your Pontiac dealer so willing to help. Russ Reported Strengthening China Border

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — Diplomatic dispatches said Tuesday the Soviet Union is strengthening its border guards along the frontier with Communist China and sending naval reinforcements to the Far East as precautionary moves in the worsening Sino-Soviet rift.

The moves coincided with Soviet press reports Friday that Chinese Communist authorities last year machinegunned to death dozens of men, women and children who sought permission to cross the border from Sinkiang Province to the Soviet Union. The shooting allegedly occurred in May, 1962.

The strengthening of guards along the 3,500-mile Siberian frontier was believed designed to discourage any further "provocations" by China along the disputed border. The Soviets have accused Peking of 5,000 border violations last year.

The show of naval strength in the Far East appeared largely aimed at Asian public opinion as a reminder that the Soviet Union has important political stakes in the area and the strength to defend them. Moscow has warned Peking to halt provocations or face a "decisive rebuff."

No immediate clash is anticipated between the two Communist giants, according to diplomatic sources. But Moscow apparently is taking precautionary measures to discourage any possible "adventurist" moves.

Barnett Says Minority Blocs, Courts Threaten Constitutional Government

PRINCETON, N.J (UPI) — Mississippi Gov. Ross R. Barnett said Tuesday night the only thing separating Americans from dictatorship is the Constitution "as it was written and not as it is being interpreted" by judicial decree and executive order.

Barnett, in a speech to the Whig-Cliosophic Society at Princeton University, charged that constitutional government was in "grave danger from selfish minority blocs that have the open support of high government officials and of the federal courts."

Barnett's appearance on campus here has been the subject of controversy for more than a week. The mayor of Princeton, Henry S. Patterson, urged citizens to "ignore" the Mississippi chief executive.

A student-faculty-area residents group staged a rally to protest Barnett's segregation views just before he delivered his address to the school's undergraduate political and debating group.

Sponsors of the rally said the group was not protesting Barnett's presence on campus, only his views of segregation.

Last week, Barnett drew hisses and jeers when he addressed a student group at Western Michigan University.

Barnett branded the pending civil rights legislation a "new form of tyranny" that would "add the finishing blows to the foundation stone upon which our Constitution . . . firmly rests."

"There are too many selfish, mealy-mouth, pussyfooting, fence-riding politicians who are selling the American people down the river for their own personal political ambition and gain," Barnett said.

He charged that the civil rights proposals "seek to use the policeman's club and the armed might of the federal government to force certain people into the society of others who do not want them and to whom their presence is repugnant."

Barnett charged that most of the civil rights proposals are unconstitutional and that "our land is under a state of siege."

The Mississippi chief executive, who faces federal charges for blocking Negro student James Meredith from Ole Miss twice, vowed to "fight hard to perpetuate" the fundamentals of freedom provided in the Constitution. He urged his audience to join him and "pool our energies and our talents . . . to save our nation from destruction from within."

Automobile riding for sightseeing and relaxation is one of America's most popular recreations. It leads all these other outdoor activities in popularity: swimming, picnicking, fishing, boating, hunting, hiking, camping, horseback riding and skiing.

Russ Reported Strengthening China Border

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — Diplomatic dispatches said Tuesday the Soviet Union is strengthening its border guards along the frontier with Communist China and sending naval reinforcements to the Far East as precautionary moves in the worsening Sino-Soviet rift.

The moves coincided with Soviet press reports Friday that Chinese Communist authorities last year machinegunned to death dozens of men, women and children who sought permission to cross the border from Sinkiang Province to the Soviet Union. The shooting allegedly occurred in May, 1962.

The strengthening of guards along the 3,500-mile Siberian frontier was believed designed to discourage any further "provocations" by China along the disputed border. The Soviets have accused Peking of 5,000 border violations last year.

The show of naval strength in the Far East appeared largely aimed at Asian public opinion as a reminder that the Soviet Union has important political stakes in the area and the strength to defend them. Moscow has warned Peking to halt provocations or face a "decisive rebuff."

No immediate clash is anticipated between the two Communist giants, according to diplomatic sources. But Moscow apparently is taking precautionary measures to discourage any possible "adventurist" moves.

Barnett Says Minority Blocs, Courts Threaten Constitutional Government

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Mississippi Gov. Ross R. Barnett said Tuesday night the only thing separating Americans from dictatorship is the Constitution "as it was written and not as it is being interpreted" by judicial decree and executive order.

Barnett, in a speech to the Whig-Cliosophic Society at Princeton University, charged that constitutional government was in "grave danger from selfish minority blocs that have the open support of high government officials and of the federal courts."

Barnett's appearance on campus here has been the subject of controversy for more than a week. The mayor of Princeton, Henry S. Patterson, urged citizens to "ignore" the Mississippi chief executive.

A student-faculty-area residents group staged a rally to protest Barnett's segregation views just before he delivered his address to the school's undergraduate political and debating group.

Sponsors of the rally said the group was not protesting Barnett's presence on campus, only his views of segregation.

Last week, Barnett drew hisses and jeers when he addressed a student group at Western Michigan University.

Barnett branded the pending civil rights legislation a "new form of tyranny" that would "add the finishing blows to the foundation stone upon which our Constitution . . . firmly rests."

"There are too many selfish, mealy-mouth, pussyfooting, fence-riding politicians who are selling the American people down the river for their own personal political ambition and gain," Barnett said.

He charged that the civil rights proposals "seek to use the policeman's club and the armed might of the federal government to force certain people into the society of others who do not want them and to whom their presence is repugnant."

Barnett charged that most of the civil rights proposals are unconstitutional and that "our land is under a state of siege."

The Mississippi chief executive, who faces federal charges for blocking Negro student James Meredith from Ole Miss twice, vowed to "fight hard to perpetuate" the fundamentals of freedom provided in the Constitution. He urged his audience to join him and "pool our energies and our talents . . . to save our nation from destruction from within."

Automobile riding for sightseeing and relaxation is one of America's most popular recreations. It leads all these other outdoor activities in popularity: swimming, picnicking, fishing, boating, hunting, hiking, camping, horseback riding and skiing.

The WMU of First Baptist Church will meet at 6 tonight at the church.

Parents Organization To Discuss Summer Plans

Plans for the coming year will be formulated at the meeting of the Parents Organization of the Junior and Senior Allegany Youth Wind Ensemble Saturday. Mrs. Albert Windish will preside at the meeting at Allegany High School at 10 a.m. Other officers are Mrs. Robert M. King, vice president, and Mrs. Ralph Wilson, secretary-treasurer.

At least two concerts are to be performed during the winter and spring. The possibility on concerts next summer in different communities will be discussed. Also plans will be made for a summer session of at least eight weeks, with practice once a week. Mrs. Windish also will appoint different committees for the year.

The Junior Group is to meet Saturday at 9 a.m. and the Senior Group at 10:30. The Wind Ensemble Stage Band also will meet Saturday at 9, at Allegany, for practice. James Duffy is director.

LaVern Hahn is director of the talented youth of the Senior and Junior Ensembles. He says any child playing in a school orchestra or band and technically equipped may call him or any officer for admission to the ensemble.

The purpose of the ensembles is to broaden the children's musical education and give them an interest that will enrich their lives. Members of the Junior Group who show improvement and maturity in their playing are promoted to the Senior Ensemble. A number of these orchestra members intend to be professional musicians and music teachers.

Students To Represent Hospital

Memorial Hospital School of Nursing will be represented by Miss Judy Menges and Miss Ann Allen at the 60th anniversary celebration of the Maryland Nurses Association. The celebration will be in the form of a dinner October 10 in Baltimore.

Miss Menges will participate with other girls throughout the state in a style revue of old uniforms. She will model a 1910 student's uniform, while Miss Allen will be narrator and give a brief history of Memorial Hospital.

The Progressive Young Women's Club will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Carl Whitten, Rawlings. Mrs. Harold Biesemeier will give a demonstration, "Accessories Make Your Wardrobe."

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have read a few letters in your column about tipping. All the yelling seems to be about whether to tip or not to tip. As you pointed out, tipping is an established part of life in these United States, whether we like it or not. What I would like see in print is a few tips on when to tip and how much to tip. Will you help me as well as thousands of others who are also unsure? Thanks.

—GRASSY GREEN

DEAR GRASSY: A good rule of thumb when dining out is this: Tip 15% of the bill for good service. For especially good service or extra attention, make it closer to 20%.

If you are grabbing a quick bite at a lunch counter and if the gal did not treat you as if she was sopping the hogs, leave 15c under the plate. If you had only a cup of coffee and she served you more coffee in the cup rather than in the saucer, leave 5c.

Taxi drivers are a hard-working bunch and since many of them are philosophers and political scientists as well as drivers, the conversation is worth something. A 15c on a 50c meter, 20c on a 70c meter and two-bits on a dollar ride is about right.

If you stay in a hotel always leave a tip for the maid. About 50c a night is right. The bell-boy who takes the luggage to your room should get at least 50c for the trip with one bag, and a dollar for two bags or more.

A bootblack should get a dime, and when you buy a newspaper on the street it's nice to let the man keep the extra pennies or the nickel.

The beauty operator should be tipped 15% of the bill unless the operator owns the shop. Most shop owners refuse to accept tips. Offer anyway.

If you are a weekend guest in the home of a friend or relative and there is a maid on the place you should leave the maid a couple of dollars in an envelope with her name on it. (Don't give it to the hostess and ask her to give it to Daisy.) If you have stayed two weeks, Daisy should get about $5.

Don't offer to tip a nurse, a mailman, a bus driver, a milkman, a receptionist in an office or airline personnel. (Sky-caps should be tipped about 50c for a short haul, but not stewardesses or ticket agents. The latter do not accept tips.)

The janitor or elevator operator in your office building should not be tipped unless, of course, they have done something special for you. If they are pleasant, a little gift at Christmas is a friendly gesture.

Over-tipping is gauche. It makes you look as if you just inherited a bundle from a rich uncle and don't know what to do with it. Under-tipping is equally unattractive.

And if you are stopped by a policeman for a moving violation, don't try to "tip" him or you might wind up in jail.

DEAR READERS: If you have not yet had your laugh for the day this could be it.

Several days ago I replied to a Confidential signed Baffled and Can't Figure It Out: "If you will send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope I will be happy to give you the inside story."

To date I have received 73 self-addressed, stamped envelopes from people who want to know "the inside story!"

Only one of the 73 is going to get the "inside story" — and that will be a reader from Buffalo, N. Y., who repeats the original problem in his second letter. So stop putting me on, Folks. Yesterday, I wasn't born.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Parents Organization To Discuss Summer Plans

Plans for the coming year will be formulated at the meeting of the Parents Organization of the Junior and Senior Allegany Youth Wind Ensemble Saturday. Mrs. Albert Windish will preside at the meeting at Allegany High School at 10 a.m. Other officers are Mrs. Robert M. King, vice president, and Mrs. Ralph Wilson, secretary-treasurer.

At least two concerts are to be performed during the winter and spring. The possibility on concerts next summer in different communities will be discussed. Also plans will be made for a summer session of at least eight weeks, with practice once a week. Mrs. Windish also will appoint different committees for the year.

The Junior Group is to meet Saturday at 9 a.m. and the Senior Group at 10:30. The Wind Ensemble Stage Band also will meet Saturday at 9, at Allegany, for practice. James Duffy is director.

LaVern Hahn is director of the talented youth of the Senior and Junior Ensembles. He says any child playing in a school orchestra or band and technically equipped may call him or any officer for admission to the ensemble.

The purpose of the ensembles is to broaden the children's musical education and give them an interest that will enrich their lives. Members of the Junior Group who show improvement and maturity in their playing are promoted to the Senior Ensemble. A number of these orchestra members intend to be professional musicians and music teachers.

Students To Represent Hospital

Memorial Hospital School of Nursing will be represented by Miss Judy Menges and Miss Ann Allen at the 60th anniversary celebration of the Maryland Nurses Association. The celebration will be in the form of a dinner October 10 in Baltimore.

Miss Menges will participate with other girls throughout the state in a style revue of old uniforms. She will model a 1910 student's uniform, while Miss Allen will be narrator and give a brief history of Memorial Hospital.

The Progressive Young Women's Club will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Carl Whitten, Rawlings. Mrs. Harold Biesemeier will give a demonstration, "Accessories Make Your Wardrobe."

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have read a few letters in your column about tipping. All the yelling seems to be about whether to tip or not to tip. As you pointed out, tipping is an established part of life in these United States, whether we like it or not. What I would like see in print is a few tips on when to tip and how much to tip. Will you help me as well as thousands of others who are also unsure? Thanks.

—GRASSY GREEN

DEAR GRASSY: A good rule of thumb when dining out is this: Tip 15% of the bill for good service. For especially good service or extra attention, make it closer to 20%.

If you are grabbing a quick bite at a lunch counter and if the gal did not treat you as if she was sopping the hogs, leave 15c under the plate. If you had only a cup of coffee and she served you more coffee in the cup rather than in the saucer, leave 5c.

Taxi drivers are a hard-working bunch and since many of them are philosophers and political scientists as well as drivers, the conversation is worth something. A 15c on a 50c meter, 20c on a 70c meter and two-bits on a dollar ride is about right.

If you stay in a hotel always leave a tip for the maid. About 50c a night is right. The bell-boy who takes the luggage to your room should get at least 50c for the trip with one bag, and a dollar for two bags or more.

A bootblack should get a dime, and when you buy a newspaper on the street it's nice to let the man keep the extra pennies or the nickel.

The beauty operator should be tipped 15% of the bill unless the operator owns the shop. Most shop owners refuse to accept tips. Offer anyway.

If you are a weekend guest in the home of a friend or relative and there is a maid on the place you should leave the maid a couple of dollars in an envelope with her name on it. (Don't give it to the hostess and ask her to give it to Daisy.) If you have stayed two weeks, Daisy should get about $5.

Don't offer to tip a nurse, a mailman, a bus driver, a milkman, a receptionist in an office or airline personnel. (Sky-caps should be tipped about 50c for a short haul, but not stewardesses or ticket agents. The latter do not accept tips.)

The janitor or elevator operator in your office building should not be tipped unless, of course, they have done something special for you. If they are pleasant, a little gift at Christmas is a friendly gesture.

Over-tipping is gauche. It makes you look as if you just inherited a bundle from a rich uncle and don't know what to do with it. Under-tipping is equally unattractive.

And if you are stopped by a policeman for a moving violation, don't try to "tip" him or you might wind up in jail.

DEAR READERS: If you have not yet had your laugh for the day this could be it.

Several days ago I replied to a Confidential signed Baffled and Can't Figure It Out: "If you will send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope I will be happy to give you the inside story."

To date I have received 73 self-addressed, stamped envelopes from people who want to know "the inside story!"

Only one of the 73 is going to get the "inside story" — and that will be a reader from Buffalo, N. Y., who repeats the original problem in his second letter. So stop putting me on, Folks. Yesterday, I wasn't born.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Opening lead: King of ♡

For the second consecutive tournament, a team of my Miami neighbors captained by Cliff Russell and including Edith Kemp and her brother, Billy Seamon; Harry Harkavy, and Russ Arnold with Al Roth of New York City won the Knockout Team-of-Four championship at the Summer Nationals recently concluded in Los Angeles. Earlier this year the same team, with the exception of Arnold who replaced Albert Weiss, captured the Vanderbilt event in St. Louis.

A hand in which Harkavy picked up a substantial swing for his team is presented today. Harkavy was seated South, partnered by Cliff Russell in the North position, and they quickly discovered that their opponents did not intend to make matters easy for them. East opened the bidding with three diamonds which presented South with quite a problem. While the risk in making a vulnerable overcall at the three level was considerable, Harkavy was reluctant to be shut out of an opportunity to score offensively, so he bid three spades.

West bid four hearts and North raised partner to four spades. When the bidding reverted to West, he decided to sacrifice at five hearts. Had he been permitted to play his bid, his opponents would have been able to take one trick in each side suit for a 100-point penalty. Russell was reluctant to settle for a paltry profit, however, and he persisted to five spades.

West led the king of hearts and shifted to his singleton diamond. South put up the dummy's ace and immediately led a club to the ace in his hand. He was paving the way for an end play in clubs and he did not wish to lend the opposition any inducement to unblock in the suit. Trumps were now drawn in two rounds followed by a heart ruff in dummy. A diamond was led to the king and the last diamond was trumped out.

A club was played and the defense was helpless. If East put up the king of clubs, it would drop his partner's queen and establish declarer's jack. If West were allowed to win the trick, however, the forced-heart return would allow South to ruff in dummy while he discarded the losing club from his hand.

Harkavy made five spades for a score of 650, while in the other room his teammates were permitted to play a four-heart doubled contract with the East-West cards which they fulfilled for a score of 590. The total swing on the deal was 1,240 points.

Secrets Of Charm

Dieters, Chew This One Over!

Are the results of your diet slow in showing? Could be it's because you're eating too fast.

Heavy eaters have a natural tendency to bolt their food. Their timing may not be deliberate but it's certainly accurate. They always manage to be ready for second and third helpings while there is still a lot of food left in the serving dishes.

So, if you're weight-watching, watch the way you eat. Concentrate on chewing — slo-o-wly — every single morsel! Savor the flavor of each bite of food you eat both at meals and between meals.

When you begin taking your time while you are eating, you'll discover that you're beginning, almost automatically, to take in less food, with fewer hunger pangs to remind you of how much you're missing.

That's why really chewy foods are best for dieters, since the very act of masticating and tasting satisfies so well. (To prove this in reverse, notice how thin people always seem to be the "poke-along" eaters.)

Not only does digestion improve after careful and complete chewing, but nutrition is also better, in most cases — both vital facts for the figure-conscious to consider.

That's because the chewiest foods are raw fruits and vegetables, the bulk-producers still bursting with their natural vitamins and minerals. Even cooked fruits and vegetables are good bets when they are stripped of a minimum of waste and cooked in a minimum of water for just the time needed to bring them to crisp tenderness.

Another dieter's delight, lean protein-packed meat, requires well-timed cooking to fulfill its filling role as the dieter's mainstay.

Another beauty-bonus worth chewing over is exercise for your facial muscles . . . meaning dieters can look forward to pleasanter voices, as well as prettier figures, while they limber their jaws both at meals and between meals.

NO ONE CAN BE CHARMING WITHOUT PEP AND VITALITY! The 20-page, illustrated booklet, "Personality Plus Through Diet" gives you teen-agers easy ways to become more healthy, more alive! Just send 25c and your name and address to "Secerts of Charm," c/o this newspaper.

He also reported on the missionary who spoke at the zone meeting in Frostburg, who stressed the need for doctors and nurses in the mission field.

Announcement also was made of the Week of Prayer to be observed at the next meeting: a zone meeting October 7 at 10 a.m., in Kingsley Church, with members bringing a box lunch; Mrs. Smouse, Mrs. Ada Stein, Mrs. Fey, and Mrs. Thelma Gillum reported on the pilgrimage to the Asbury Park Home last week. Routine reports were given by Mrs. John Hardinger and Mrs. Lester Rice.

Mrs. Robert Heavner conducted the meeting. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Kyle Sawyers, who also had charge of devotionals. Her topic was "Spritual Wisdom in the Bible" taken from the Upper Room. The group sang, "Help Somebody Today." Mrs. Helen White will be hostess for October.

Lois Rice Heads Vota Vita Class

The newly organized Vota Vita (devoted life) Sunday School class of the Living Stone Church of the Brethren elected Mrs. Lois Rice president at the meeting held recently at the church. Other officers are Miss Delores McDonald, vice president; Mrs. Bessie Burton, secretary-treasurer, and Miss Rita Daniels and Philip Robinson program co-chairmen.

James Roby, teacher, opened the meeting with prayer and a brief meditation. An attendance increase was discussed, the membership names and addresses brought to date and it was decided the entire class serve as a membership committee to enlist new members.

Preliminary plans were made for a Halloween party. It will be October 26 at 7:30 in the fellowship hall. The next meeting will be October 10 at the church, beginning at 7:30.

Opening lead: King of ♡

For the second consecutive tournament, a team of my Miami neighbors captained by Cliff Russell and including Edith Kemp and her brother, Billy Seamon; Harry Harkavy, and Russ Arnold with Al Roth of New York City won the Knockout Team-of-Four championship at the Summer Nationals recently concluded in Los Angeles. Earlier this year the same team, with the exception of Arnold who replaced Albert Weiss, captured the Vanderbilt event in St. Louis.

A hand in which Harkavy picked up a substantial swing for his team is presented today. Harkavy was seated South, partnered by Cliff Russell in the North position, and they quickly discovered that their opponents did not intend to make matters easy for them. East opened the bidding with three diamonds which presented South with quite a problem. While the risk in making a vulnerable overcall at the three level was considerable, Harkavy was reluctant to be shut out of an opportunity to score offensively, so he bid three spades.

West bid four hearts and North raised partner to four spades. When the bidding reverted to West, he decided to sacrifice at five hearts. Had he been permitted to play his bid, his opponents would have been able to take one trick in each side suit for a 100-point penalty. Russell was reluctant to settle for a paltry profit, however, and he persisted to five spades.

West led the king of hearts and shifted to his singleton diamond. South put up the dummy's ace and immediately led a club to the ace in his hand. He was paving the way for an end play in clubs and he did not wish to lend the opposition any inducement to unblock in the suit. Trumps were now drawn in two rounds followed by a heart ruff in dummy. A diamond was led to the king and the last diamond was trumped out.

A club was played and the defense was helpless. If East put up the king of clubs, it would drop his partner's queen and establish declarer's jack. If West were allowed to win the trick, however, the forced-heart return would allow South to ruff in dummy while he discarded the losing club from his hand.

Harkavy made five spades for a score of 650, while in the other room his teammates were permitted to play a four-heart doubled contract with the East-West cards which they fulfilled for a score of 590. The total swing on the deal was 1,240 points.

Secrets Of Charm

Dieters, Chew This One Over!

Are the results of your diet slow in showing? Could be it's because you're eating too fast.

Heavy eaters have a natural tendency to bolt their food. Their timing may not be deliberate but it's certainly accurate. They always manage to be ready for second and third helpings while there is still a lot of food left in the serving dishes.

So, if you're weight-watching, watch the way you eat. Concentrate on chewing — slo-o-wly — every single morsel! Savor the flavor of each bite of food you eat both at meals and between meals.

When you begin taking your time while you are eating, you'll discover that you're beginning, almost automatically, to take in less food, with fewer hunger pangs to remind you of how much you're missing.

That's why really chewy foods are best for dieters, since the very act of masticating and tasting satisfies so well. (To prove this in reverse, notice how thin people always seem to be the "poke-along" eaters.)

Not only does digestion improve after careful and complete chewing, but nutrition is also better, in most cases — both vital facts for the figure-conscious to consider.

That's because the chewiest foods are raw fruits and vegetables, the bulk-producers still bursting with their natural vitamins and minerals. Even cooked fruits and vegetables are good bets when they are stripped of a minimum of waste and cooked in a minimum of water for just the time needed to bring them to crisp tenderness.

Another dieter's delight, lean protein-packed meat, requires well-timed cooking to fulfill its filling role as the dieter's mainstay.

Another beauty-bonus worth chewing over is exercise for your facial muscles . . . meaning dieters can look forward to pleasanter voices, as well as prettier figures, while they limber their jaws both at meals and between meals.

NO ONE CAN BE CHARMING WITHOUT PEP AND VITALITY! The 20-page, illustrated booklet, "Personality Plus Through Diet" gives you teen-agers easy ways to become more healthy, more alive! Just send 25c and your name and address to "Secerts of Charm," c/o this newspaper.

Philanthropist Finishes Giving Away $1 Million

VALPARAISO, Ind. (UPI) — Fred Smoke, 80, smiled wanly in his sick bed Tuesday and said: "I feel very much relieved."

He said he had finally finished giving away $1 million.

"It's been quite a problem, giving this money away," said Smoke, weakened by a severe illness. "But I think I've got most of the ground covered."

Smoke, a retired farmer, made a fortune as a stock market investor. He is hospitalized with cancer.

A few years ago he decided to give away his fortune to needy, worthy Porter County organizations.

He made a big donation for construction of addition to Porter Memorial Hospital and another for construction of the Whispering Pines home for senior citizens. These giveaways totaled $825,000.

Monday, Smoke announced four additional philanthropies totaling $245,000.

He gave $90,000 to Morgan Township schools for an elementary school addition, $75,000 to Valparaiso University Alumni Association for establishment of a nursing school, $50,000 to Vale facilities and $30,000 to Porter Memorial hospital for cancer treating equipment.

As he assured Morgan Township taxpayers of a six-classroom building that otherwise would have had to be built with tax funds, Smoke recalled that he attended a one-room school there but never advanced beyond the eighth grade.

JOYFUL REUNION—Blackie, the crow, perches happily on the head of his owner, 8-year-old Danny Grover, of Wiscasset, Me., as Bruce (left) and Susan Alexander say their goodbyes in the yard of their Dresden, Me., home following an unexpected call by Blackie. The crow strutted into the Alexander home and made friends with the children. They found a metal band on his leg which read "Grover." After a search by telephone, they turned up the owner. Walker Asks $23 Million In Libel Suits

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker has filed libel suits totaling $23 million against news organizations because of stories concerning his activities at the University of Mississippi when James H. Meredith, a Negro, was enrolled as a student last year.

Walker also has filed a $2-million slander suit against the Delta Democrat-Times and its editor, Hodding Carter, at Greenville, Miss., in connection with a speech Carter made on the subject.

In the suits against news organizations, Walker charged false statements were made concerning his presence at the University of Mississippi during the rioting there.

He filed a $10-million suit against Atlanta Newspapers Inc. (Journal and Constitution) and Constitution publisher Ralph McGill. He asked $5 million actual and $5 million punitive damages.

A suit for $2 million was filed against The Associated Press in Mississippi. He also named the AP as a codefendant in a $1-million suit filed against the Denver Post; a $2-million suit against the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, publisher Amon G. Carter Jr., and the newspaper's radio and television stations WBAP; and a $3-million suit in Shreveport, La., against the New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Suits for $2 million were filed against the Louisville Courier-Journal and Louisville Times Co. and its radio station, WHAS; and against the Pulitzer Publishing Co. of St. Louis, and its station KSD-TV.

Walker filed a $1-million suit in Oklahoma City against Newsweek Magazine Inc., and Mid-Continent News Co. of Oklahoma City. Mid-Continent is a magazine distributor.

California and Iowa retained the lead in total cash receipts from farm marketings in 1962. They were first and second for the 15th consecutive year.

News Commentary

By JOHN A. CALLCOTT

GENEVA (UPI)—If the African campaign against South African and Portuguese policies succeeds it could cripple many of the leading international organizations.

And the main sufferers would be those very African nations which are leading the campaign.

This fear is heard often these days in the corridors of the United Nations European headquarters here.

If the campaign continues much longer international organizations attached to the United Nations and headquartered here may be semi-paralyzed.

These organizations include the International Labor Organization (ILO), the International Bureau of Education (IBE), and the World Health Organization, (WHO).

And it is just these organizations which are trying to help the new African states develop and overcome their economic, social and medical problems.

So in the end, some United Nations officials here believe, the Africans may be doing themselves more harm than good by extending to affiliated organizations their campaign to oust South Africa and Portugal from the United Nations.

Besides, it is costing the African states money they can ill afford, the officials say.

The fears have arisen because of Africa's unanimous policy to boycott any conference in which South Africa and Portugal take part.

Last July the ILO general conference was disrupted by an African walk-out. One week later the same thing happened at an IBE conference.

This week a WHO conference also was cancelled before it could even get down to its agenda. Ironically, it was a conference of WHO's regional committee for Africa, called to approve the area's 1965 budget.

The budget money is intended to help erase malaria in Africa and provide better medical aid for the sick and undernourished.

The French delegate summed up what appeared to be the majority European attitude. He said African states should have said before hand that they would walk out of the meeting, thus saving the expense of traveling to Geneva and preparation of the conference, he said.

African delegates replied in terms nearly everyone understood and sympathized with—but it still was a waste of time and money.

The African representatives said that although poor, their countries will sacrifice anything, blood or money, to save their dignity and fight apartheid and Portuguese policies.

Because 24 of the 29 nations at the conference were African, the meeting had to be cancelled.

At all the conferences, Africa has demanded that South Africa and Portugal be expelled.

United Nations spokesmen argue, however, that the affiliated organizations are technical and not political in nature and therefore have nothing to do with a political dispute.

Whatever rights the African states may have to fight their campaign, it should be restricted to the United Nations itself and not to the affiliated organizations as well they say.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Republic Corp., which is in appliance manufacturing and film processing, announced it has bought General Water Heater Co. and Pioneer Manufacturing Co., both of Los Angeles, for cash.

The price was not revealed. The companies make swimming pools, garbage disposal units, and several types of heaters.

BERLIN (UPI) — The International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT) will complete a $30 million expansion program in Western Europe next year, president Harold S. Geneen announced Tuesday.

Geneen told the ITT board of directors here that the program would create several thousand new jobs and increase the corporation's payroll in Western Europe to 125,000 by the end of 1964.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Clark Equipment Co., Buchanan, Mich., formally took title to assets of Tyler Refrigeration Corp. at the close of business Tuesday.

An announcement released here said the transaction involved issuance of 272,026 new shares of Clark stock, valued at more than $11 million based on current market prices. Shares will go to about 500 Tyler stockholders at the ratio of four shares of Clark for seven shares of Tyler.

Md. Bank Merger Voted

BALTIMORE (AP)—The boards of directors of Maryland National Bank and The Chestertown Bank of Maryland have voted to merge the two institutions, the two banks announced Tuesday in a joint statement.

The proposed agreement calls for the issuance of 15,840 shares of Maryland National stock to stockholders of the Chestertown bank for the 21,120 shares of its stock now outstanding, or a ratio of three for four.

Roger W. Simpkins, cashier of the Chestertown bank would become a vice president of Maryland National, in charge of operations of offices in Kent and Queen Annes counties. J. Thomas Kibler, president of the Eastern Shore bank, would become an advisory director of Maryland National and chairman of an advisory board to be established for the two counties.

The proposed merger is subject to approval of stockholders and the comptroller of the treasury. Current deposits total approximately $580 million for Maryland National and $8 million for The Chestertown bank, which operates offices in Chestertown, Galena and Church Hill. Maryland National currently operates 71 offices throughout the state.

British Reversal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Great Britain called Tuesday for "no representation without taxation" in the United Nations.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Home turned around the American Revolutionary cry "No taxation without representation" in appealing to U.N. members to pay their bills.

Razed Texas Tower Platform Sinks

BOSTON (UPI) — The 1,800-ton platform of Texas Tower No. 2 was ruptured by heavy seas in the North Atlantic Tuesday and sank in some 600 feet of water while being towed to Kearney, N.J.

The sinking represented a loss exceeding $100,000 to the contractor who was handling the project.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said the platform, under tow by two tugs, suddenly tipped and went down some 25 miles north of its original location. The Coast Guard gave the sinking location as 150 miles east of Provincetown.

Engineers said the two deck structure, packed with more than 100,000 cubic feet of flotation material, was ruptured by heavy seas which compressed the packing to a point where it lost its buoyancy.

The platform was blasted from its legs by explosive charges last Sunday. At that time, the platform dropped more than 50 feet into the ocean without incident.

Lipsett Division Inc. of Luria Brothers, New York contractors, was awarded the contract for removal of towers No. 2 and 3, the latter to be dismantled next year. The contractor had the option of removing the platform to 100 fathoms of water or deeper and sinking it or returning it to shore.

The engineers will make a sounding to make sure the depth at the point where the platform sank conforms with the specification.

Flotation material valued at $100,000 was packed in the platform. The platform also contained some $40,000 to $50,000 of salvage metal.

Md. Bank Merger Voted

BALTIMORE (AP)—The boards of directors of Maryland National Bank and The Chestertown Bank of Maryland have voted to merge the two institutions, the two banks announced Tuesday in a joint statement.

The proposed agreement calls for the issuance of 15,840 shares of Maryland National stock to stockholders of the Chestertown bank for the 21,120 shares of its stock now outstanding, or a ratio of three for four.

Roger W. Simpkins, cashier of the Chestertown bank would become a vice president of Maryland National, in charge of operations of offices in Kent and Queen Annes counties. J. Thomas Kibler, president of the Eastern Shore bank, would become an advisory director of Maryland National and chairman of an advisory board to be established for the two counties.

The proposed merger is subject to approval of stockholders and the comptroller of the treasury. Current deposits total approximately $580 million for Maryland National and $8 million for The Chestertown bank, which operates offices in Chestertown, Galena and Church Hill. Maryland National currently operates 71 offices throughout the state.

British Reversal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Great Britain called Tuesday for "no representation without taxation" in the United Nations.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Home turned around the American Revolutionary cry "No taxation without representation" in appealing to U.N. members to pay their bills.

Razed Texas Tower Platform Sinks

BOSTON (UPI) — The 1,800-ton platform of Texas Tower No. 2 was ruptured by heavy seas in the North Atlantic Tuesday and sank in some 600 feet of water while being towed to Kearney, N.J.

The sinking represented a loss exceeding $100,000 to the contractor who was handling the project.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said the platform, under tow by two tugs, suddenly tipped and went down some 25 miles north of its original location. The Coast Guard gave the sinking location as 150 miles east of Provincetown.

Engineers said the two deck structure, packed with more than 100,000 cubic feet of flotation material, was ruptured by heavy seas which compressed the packing to a point where it lost its buoyancy.

The platform was blasted from its legs by explosive charges last Sunday. At that time, the platform dropped more than 50 feet into the ocean without incident.

Lipsett Division Inc. of Luria Brothers, New York contractors, was awarded the contract for removal of towers No. 2 and 3, the latter to be dismantled next year. The contractor had the option of removing the platform to 100 fathoms of water or deeper and sinking it or returning it to shore.

The engineers will make a sounding to make sure the depth at the point where the platform sank conforms with the specification.

Flotation material valued at $100,000 was packed in the platform. The platform also contained some $40,000 to $50,000 of salvage metal.

News Commentary

By JOHN A. CALLCOTT

GENEVA (UPI)—If the African campaign against South African and Portuguese policies succeeds it could cripple many of the leading international organizations.

And the main sufferers would be those very African nations which are leading the campaign.

This fear is heard often these days in the corridors of the United Nations European headquarters here.

If the campaign continues much longer international organizations attached to the United Nations and headquartered here may be semi-paralyzed.

These organizations include the International Labor Organization (ILO), the International Bureau of Education (IBE), and the World Health Organization, (WHO).

And it is just these organizations which are trying to help the new African states develop and overcome their economic, social and medical problems.

So in the end, some United Nations officials here believe, the Africans may be doing themselves more harm than good by extending to affiliated organizations their campaign to oust South Africa and Portugal from the United Nations.

Besides, it is costing the African states money they can ill afford, the officials say.

The fears have arisen because of Africa's unanimous policy to boycott any conference in which South Africa and Portugal take part.

Last July the ILO general conference was disrupted by an African walk-out. One week later the same thing happened at an IBE conference.

This week a WHO conference also was cancelled before it could even get down to its agenda. Ironically, it was a conference of WHO's regional committee for Africa, called to approve the area's 1965 budget.

The budget money is intended to help erase malaria in Africa and provide better medical aid for the sick and undernourished.

The French delegate summed up what appeared to be the majority European attitude. He said African states should have said before hand that they would walk out of the meeting, thus saving the expense of traveling to Geneva and preparation of the conference, he said.

African delegates replied in terms nearly everyone understood and sympathized with—but it still was a waste of time and money.

The African representatives said that although poor, their countries will sacrifice anything, blood or money, to save their dignity and fight apartheid and Portuguese policies.

Because 24 of the 29 nations at the conference were African, the meeting had to be cancelled.

At all the conferences, Africa has demanded that South Africa and Portugal be expelled.

United Nations spokesmen argue, however, that the affiliated organizations are technical and not political in nature and therefore have nothing to do with a political dispute.

Whatever rights the African states may have to fight their campaign, it should be restricted to the United Nations itself and not to the affiliated organizations as well they say.

Business Tabs

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Republic Corp., which is in appliance manufacturing and film processing, announced it has bought General Water Heater Co. and Pioneer Manufacturing Co., both of Los Angeles, for cash.

The price was not revealed. The companies make swimming pools, garbage disposal units, and several types of heaters.

BERLIN (UPI) — The International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT) will complete a $30 million expansion program in Western Europe next year, president Harold S. Geneen announced Tuesday.

Geneen told the ITT board of directors here that the program would create several thousand new jobs and increase the corporation's payroll in Western Europe to 125,000 by the end of 1964.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Clark Equipment Co., Buchanan, Mich., formally took title to assets of Tyler Refrigeration Corp. at the close of business Tuesday.

An announcement released here said the transaction involved issuance of 272,026 new shares of Clark stock, valued at more than $11 million based on current market prices. Shares will go to about 500 Tyler stockholders at the ratio of four shares of Clark for seven shares of Tyler.

Capitol Comment

by Rep. Charles Mathias

The major business before the House of Representatives this week was the President's Tax Bill which passed by a vote of 271 to 155. It was a disappointment to me that Congressman Byrnes' amendment, adding the condition that the tax cuts would only take effect if Government spending were reduced, did not pass.

I voted for this amendment because I felt it was a reasonable adjustment to the tax program.

I voted against the Tax Bill because I feel strongly that we must cut spending before we cut taxes.

Like every American, I want to enjoy a reduction in taxes, but as a representative of the people, I must seriously consider when and under what conditions it makes good sense to cut taxes.

It is my firm belief that this tax cut of more than $11 billion with no hope of a balanced budget in the foreseeable future would only lead to economic chaos in the form of inflation and this could rob us of every tax dollar saved.

For this reason I could not, in good conscience, vote for the tax bill in its present form.

Residual Oil Imports

This week I joined with Congressmen Morgan of Pennsylvania and Moore of West Virginia to introduce legislation in the House which would limit imports of residual oil east of the Rocky Mountains. Similar legislation was introduced in the Senate.

Residual oil, the product left after more valuable light products have been refined out of crude oil, is used as fuel in large boilers of utility plants, certain industries and large buildings. This type of fuel oil comes from Latin America where there is little market for it. As a result, it is of almost no value there and can be sold in the U. S. at almost any price necessary to undercut domestic fuels.

Our legislation proposes to keep a fair share of the East Coast market for our own domestic fuels—coal and domestically produced residual oil. As things now stand, the import quotas on residual oil are taking an ever increasing share of this market to the exclusion of coal and domestic oil, since they cannot compete with the low price of the imports.

At the present time, permissable quotas of imports have increased to 575,000 barrels of residual oil daily. This equals 50 million tons of coal—in energy value—or 23% of the entire coal production along the East Coast in 1962.

You can better understand the impact of residual oil imports of this magnitude upon the hard-hit unemployment regions of Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and East Kentucky, when you know that:

ONE MILLION TONS OF COAL PROVIDES JOBS FOR ABOUT 400 COAL MINERS AND 250 RAILROAD MEN FOR THE TRANSPORTATION OF THE COAL TO MARKET.

By means of the legislation we have proposed, calling for a limitation on imports of residual fuel east of the Rockies to 50% of the total used in the same quarter of the previous year, we can guard against further loss of coal and railroad jobs. It will also produce long term stability in residual oil imports which the coal industry must have in order to carry out any plans for an investment program in new mines and equipment.

Vote Equalization

Last June I introduced a Vote Equalization bill calling for a reorganization of the Congressional Districts to provide equitable representation in the House of Representatives for every American citizen.

At that time I referred to the fact that the Supreme Court had noted "probable jurisdiction" in several cases involving the state laws which establish Congressional districts — the foundation for election of members of the House.

No action was taken on this bill. This week the Department of Justice filed a brief in which it presents a strong case for the redistricting of Congressional districts in direct relation to population.

Once more I have repeated on the floor of the House what I said last June: " . . . we are courting a humiliation in this House, if we do not set our own House in order before the Supreme Court does it for us. There are redistricting laws now pending in the Committee on the Judiciary, and I urge the House that we take action on those bills and that we act now."

There is no question that the House has the constitutional power to make this reform.

Frederick's Bureau Of Mines Research Center

For the past two years I have worked on a project to establish a Bureau of Mines Research Center at Frederick. This endeavor showed results last week when the Interior Department asked Congress to enact legislation that will "provide for the establishment and operation of a new $2,500,000 analytical research center for the Bureau of Mines on the outskirts of Frederick, Md."

This proposed new research facility will help the United States maintain a prominent position in the production and utilization of minerals. Thanks are due the Industrial Development Department of the Potomac Edison Company for its efforts in bringing this new installation to Frederick and the Sixth District.

Some 3,000 species of insects and other pests cause an estimated $15 billion worth of crop destruction each year in the United States.

Coutts Elected Head Of Salvation Army

SUNBURY - ON - THAMES, England (UPI) — The Salvation Army elected Scottish-born commissioner Frederick Coutts its new general Tuesday.

He will take office in November, when Gen. Wilfred Kitching retires. Coutts will be the eighth person to head the Salvation Army since its founding in 1865.

The Mormons, who read into its branches a symbol pointing them to the Holy Land, gave the Joshua tree its name.

Rubber derives its name from its early use as an eraser or "rubber."

Dear Friends:

NUCLEAR TEST BAN TREATY RATIFIED — After exhaustive hearing and lengthy debate, during which all arguments were examined and all facets of the issue were considered, the United States Senate last Tuesday ratified the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty by a vote of 80 to 19. It was decided that ratification of the treaty was in the best interest of the American people.

The main provisions of the treaty are:

—Each signer agrees to ban all nuclear explosions in any place under its control in the atmosphere, in outer space, or under water;

—Each signer pledges not to encourage nonunderground nuclear explosions anywhere;

—Any amendment to the treaty must be approved by the three original parties, the United States, Britain, and the Soviet Union, as well as a majority of all parties in order to take effect;

—The treaty goes into effect with ratification by the original three—and it is open for signature by all nations, even those not universally recognized;

—The treaty is of unlimited duration—and any party may withdraw at any time by giving notice to all other parties 3 months in advance.

I voted for two amendmtnts, the Russell amendment, which was accepted, and the Long "understanding", which failed of passage. The Russell amendment provides that any future amendments to the treaty are subject to Senate ratification. The Long "understanding" (introduced by Senator Tower of Texas for Senator Long of Louisiana) stated that the treaty would not bar use of nuclear weapons in armed conflict. This failed because a majority of the Senators felt that it was necessary. I had expected to vote for certain other proposed reservations, but they were withdrawn because their respective sponsors decided that the points involved were taken care of by the President's guarantees, contained in a letter addressed to the Senate leadership.

In hearings on the treaty held by the Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee, of which I am a member, the Joint Chiefs of Staff defined certain safeguards which they believed advantageous:

(a) The conduct of comprehensive, aggressive, and continuing underground nuclear test programs designed to add to our knowledge and improve our weapons in all areas of significance to our military posture for the future.

(b) The maintenance of modern nuclear laboratory facilities and programs in theoretical and exploratory nuclear technology which will attract, retain, and insure the continued application of our human scientific resources to these programs on which continued progress in nuclear technology depends.

(c) The maintenance of the facilities and resources necessary to institute promptly nuclear tests in the atmosphere should they be deemed essential to our national security or should the treaty or any of its terms be abrogated by the Soviet Union.

(d) The improvement of our capacity, within feasible and practical limits, to monitor the terms of the treaty, to detect violations, and to maintain our knowledge of Sino-Soviet nuclear activity, capabilities, and achievements.

Our committee notified the Executive Branch that frank and adequate assurances on these safeguards from responsible officials of the Administration were needed before the Senate could prudently determine whether to give its advice and consent to ratification. The Executive Branch gave us unqualified assurance on effective action to carry out the safeguards. The President himself sent to the Senate an 8-point guarantee, giving positive assurances on the safeguards defined by the Joint Chiefs. The President also gave these assurances: that the treaty will in no way limit the use of nuclear weapons for defense of the United States or its allies; that, if Cuba is used "directly or indirectly" to circumvent the treaty, the United States will take all necessary action in response; and that the treaty will not change the status of East Germany — our Government will not recognize the Soviet occupation zone of East Germany as a state or as an entity possessing national sovereignty.

Even though the treaty offered hope for the future, I decided to vote for ratification only after I satisfied myself that the people of the United States were sufficently protected. I could not avoid the conclusion that the treaty in no way sacrificed anything vital to our security, that our military posture would not be compromised. If our ratification of the treaty had been contingent upon our trusting the Soviets, I would have flatly opposed it. But it was not contingent on that. It was contingent upon our trusting our own people. We had the assurances of our military and scientific chiefs, the assurances of the Secretaries of State and Defense, and the assurances of the President. I do not question the sincerity of these assurances. I accept them. In like measure, we will not shrink from the duty of holding them to their word. By making these assurances, they have entered into a solemn pact with the American people on the vital question of our national security.

There may be some element of risk involved in the treaty, but, in my opinion, there would be a greater element of risk without such a treaty. The Joint Chiefs of Staff testified that in their considered judgment the strengths of the treaty outweighed its weaknesses, that the benfits exceed the risks. It was a matter of balancing the risks.

Notwithstanding our justifiable distrust of the Soviets and our awareness of the limitations of the treaty, the Senate was mindful of the grave danger of nuclear war and the advantage of keeping open any channel, however remote, for the avoidance of worldwide nuclear destruction.

What was the alternative? Suppose the nuclear test ban treaty had been killed by the Senate, what then? Would it possibly have been our last chance for such a treaty? Had we turned it down, would we not have been saying to our people that we were giving up all hope for peace and that they and their children and their children's children must look forward only to an endless dark age of cold war and the constant threat of nuclear attack? Without some kind of treaty or agreement, how could such threat be ended? Would any sensible person recommend nuclear war? Not wanting a nuclear war and not wanting to continue forever the ever-enlarging monstrous arms race, what can we do but take this one more chance on the Russians? It if weren't for this treaty, would we not even now be searching for an opening leading to an agreement? Who can say that this treaty is not such an opening?

There are two possible roads to peace. One is the proved road of strength and vigilance. The other is the unimproved road of negotiation. We must travel both roads. I feel that to forsake either path would be to court war and invite destruction. Let us place our trust in the path of strength and our hope in the path of negotiation.

This issue goes to the very existence of this Nation and to the principles for which it stands. It goes to the aspirations of men of good will everywhere in the world — that the prospect of eventual peace with honor is not a cruel deception but something real and true.

Dear Friends:

NUCLEAR TEST BAN TREATY RATIFIED — After exhaustive hearing and lengthy debate, during which all arguments were examined and all facets of the issue were considered, the United States Senate last Tuesday ratified the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty by a vote of 80 to 19. It was decided that ratification of the treaty was in the best interest of the American people.

The main provisions of the treaty are:

Council Unit Approves Election Law Reforms

BALTIMORE (AP) — A proposal that would prohibit a candidate defeated in a primary election from running under different party colors in the general election was approved Wednesday by a legislative committee.

The measure was one of several major election law reform proposals approved by the Legislative Council's Judiciary Committee.

Baltimore Comptroller Hyman Pressman joined the Republicans after being defeated for that office in the Democratic primary last year, and was successful in the general election.

The Court of Appeals, in a 4-3 decision, upheld Pressman's selection by the Republican State Central Committee. The majority of the judges pointed out that no Maryland law specifically prohibits such a shift.

Robert F. Sweeney, an assistant attorney general, told the committee that the State Law Department believed it was contrary to public policy to permit a defeated primary candidate to change his political stripe for a general election.

Sen. H. Winship Wheatley Jr., D-Prince Georges, who headed a special committee which studied the state statute affecting political offices, presented the recommendations to the Judiciary Committee.

Wheatley's group also made several recommendations designed to avoid the confusion that attended the selection of a successor to state's Atty. Saul A. Harris of Baltimore after his death last year.

Sweeney promised to prepare a separate bill to delete some 15 pages of obsolete language from the election laws. He said he also would draft legislation removing from election statutes any reference to unit voting, which has been invalidated by federal courts.

Frats Ordered To Clean House

BALTIMORE (AP) — Pledges at three Johns Hopkins University fraternities may have some heavy scrubbing and rat-hole plugging to do.

The presidents of the three fraternities — Phi Epsilon Pi, Zeta Beta Tau and Alpha Epsilon Pi — were roundly scolded by Municipal Housing Court Judge Robert Hammerman for unclean living conditions in their houses.

Police produced pictures which showed dead rats, large holes, beer cans, furniture and other junk belonging to the fraternity brothers strewn around the buildings and in the back yards.

AEP had the worst conditions — 25 rat holes, police said.

Hammerman devoted an hour and a half Tuesday to lecturing the youths on the art of clean living.

Hammerman placed the ZBTs on probation without verdict and postponed judgment on the other three until Nov. 7, giving them "plenty of time to get their houses in order."

There are over 75 different quick-frozen vegetables and fruits on the market.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP) — Insurance rates for some 130,000 Maryland car owners have been increased. The increase, approved Tuesday by the state insurance commissioner, affects the Baltimore area and Washington suburbs.

The average rise in liability rates range from 11.5 per cent in the Baltimore suburbs to 5.8 per cent in rural areas, eight miles outside the city.

Rate increases on car damage policies, including collision, theft and fire, varied depending on the area, cost of car and policy type.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, Johns Hopkins University president, has been elected to the board of directors of Commercial Credit Company.

Eisenhower, brother of a former president, is a public governor of the New York Stock Exchange and a trustee of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brice O'Brien was named general counsel of the National Coal Association Wednesday.

O'Brien, a Silver Spring, Md. lawyer, has been assistant general counsel for the NCA since March of this year. He succeeds Robert E. L. Hall, who is NCA vice president.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Maryland is here, too. Stanley E. Horn, director of the Brussels office of the Maryland Port Authority, made sure Wednesday that the right people remembered it.

Horn distributed a 100-page album on the port of Baltimore and its hinterland facilities less than 24 hours after Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller dedicated a New York office in Brussels to promote trade between West European countries and his state.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Legislative Council passed up Wednesday an opportunity to watch the Maryland Physical Fitness Commission in action.

Lawmakers had been asked to participate in or observe daily exercise sessions under commission auspices.

When the council members didn't show up, a group of weight-conscious Baltimoreans exercised anyway.

ABERDEEN, Md. (AP) — The president of the Aberdeen town commission, George B. Adams Jr., says the state will build a dual-lane highway linking the Northeast Expressway and Aberdeen Proving Grounds.

Adams said the proposed highway, to be called the Aberdeen Parkway, would span U.S. 40 but access roads would be built to link the two highways.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A subcommittee of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners will hold hearings Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 in Baltimore on countersignature and non-resident laws.

NEXT CAMBRIDGE MOVE—Mrs. Gloria Richardson, integrationist leader who urged Negroes to boycott the referendum on integrating Cambridge, Md., places of public accommodation, tells newsmen of future plans to improve Negro job and educational opportunities. The proposed amendment was defeated in Tuesday's vote. (AP Photofax)

JFK Tough To Beat – McKeldin

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin said Wednesday that President Kennedy might lose in Maryland in 1964 but added, "Anybody who thinks Kennedy is a pushover is crazy."

"I think we (the Republican party) have a chance to win Maryland with hard work and intelligent planning," said McKeldin, the only Republican in Maryland history who served two terms as governor.

The mayor said Kennedy "has caught the spirit of FDR and people believe he's for them."

George W. Della, former President of the Maryland Senate and a Democratic leader in Baltimore, predicted last week that Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater could beat Kennedy in Maryland next year.

Other Democrats, including state chairman Harry Gross, have expressed similar views.

The term restaurant was first used for an establishment opened in Paris near two hundred years ago.

Martin To Have Gemini Booster Ready In Month

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Martin Co. announced Wednesday that the first operational booster in the Gemini two-man space flight program would be ready in a month.

Martin is building 15 such vehicles for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration under a $125 million contract.

The first vehicle was to have been ready in time for a November flight test at Cape Canaveral, Fla., NASA said.

But because of delays in perfecting the booster, the first unmanned flight has been postponed twice, NASA said. The test is now set for the first part of next year.

Under the Gemini program, NASA plans to launch two astronauts into orbit for periods of up to two weeks. Experiments are planned for so-called docking and rendezvous maneuvers in space.

The Gemini program is the next step before attempting to send a man to the moon.

The two-stage booster, being developed by Martin, is a modified version of the Titan II intercontinental ballistic missile, the company said.

The vehicle, called the Titan II Gemini, is 90 feet long and will propel a 7,000-pound spacecraft carrying two astronauts.

The spacecraft, NASA said, is being developed by McDonnell Aircraft Corp. of St. Louis. The space agency said the Gemini spacecraft, now under production, would be about 20 per cent larger than the one used in the Mercury project.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Maryland is here, too. Stanley E. Horn, director of the Brussels office of the Maryland Port Authority, made sure Wednesday that the right people remembered it.

Horn distributed a 100-page album on the port of Baltimore and its hinterland facilities less than 24 hours after Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller dedicated a New York office in Brussels to promote trade between West European countries and his state.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Legislative Council passed up Wednesday an opportunity to watch the Maryland Physical Fitness Commission in action.

Lawmakers had been asked to participate in or observe daily exercise sessions under commission auspices.

When the council members didn't show up, a group of weight-conscious Baltimoreans exercised anyway.

ABERDEEN, Md. (AP) — The president of the Aberdeen town commission, George B. Adams Jr., says the state will build a dual-lane highway linking the Northeast Expressway and Aberdeen Proving Grounds.

Adams said the proposed highway, to be called the Aberdeen Parkway, would span U.S. 40 but access roads would be built to link the two highways.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A subcommittee of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners will hold hearings Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 in Baltimore on countersignature and non-resident laws.

JFK Tough To Beat - McKeldin

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin said Wednesday that President Kennedy might lose in Maryland in 1964 but added, "Anybody who thinks Kennedy is a pushover is crazy."

"I think we (the Republican party) have a chance to win Maryland with hard work and intelligent planning," said McKeldin, the only Republican in Maryland history who served two terms as governor.

The mayor said Kennedy "has caught the spirit of FDR and people believe he's for them."

George W. Della, former President of the Maryland Senate and a Democratic leader in Baltimore, predicted last week that Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater could beat Kennedy in Maryland next year.

Other Democrats, including state chairman Harry Gross, have expressed similar views.

The term restaurant was first used for an establishment opened in Paris near two hundred years ago.

Martin To Have Gemini Booster Ready In Month

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Martin Co. announced Wednesday that the first operational booster in the Gemini two-man space flight program would be ready in a month.

Martin is building 15 such vehicles for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration under a $125 million contract.

The first vehicle was to have been ready in time for a November flight test at Cape Canaveral, Fla., NASA said.

But because of delays in perfecting the booster, the first unmanned flight has been postponed twice, NASA said. The test is now set for the first part of next year.

Under the Gemini program, NASA plans to launch two astronauts into orbit for periods of up to two weeks. Experiments are planned for so-called docking and rendezvous maneuvers in space.

The Gemini program is the next step before attempting to send a man to the moon.

The two-stage booster, being developed by Martin, is a modified version of the Titan II intercontinental ballistic missile, the company said.

The vehicle, called the Titan II Gemini, is 90 feet long and will propel a 7,000-pound spacecraft carrying two astronauts.

The spacecraft, NASA said, is being developed by McDonnell Aircraft Corp. of St. Louis. The space agency said the Gemini spacecraft, now under production, would be about 20 per cent larger than the one used in the Mercury project.

More Money Being Spent On Funerals

By CHARLES H. WILSON JR.
United Press International

The majestic pyramids of Egypt stand as one of history's notable monuments to extravagance in death.

But Americans, today, are dying and being buried at a cost that would stagger even King Tut.

One author, Jessica Mitford, who did an exhaustive study of American funeral practices, estimated from U. S. Department of Commerce figures that $2 billion was septn in this country in 1960 to bury 1.7 million dead.

That figure exceeded total personal expenditures the same year for higher education for 3.6 million students ($1.9 billion), for dental care (also $1.9 billion), for police protection ($1.8 billion) and for fire protection ($1 billion).

An interesting contrast can be made between the cost of living and the cost of dying. U. S. Department of Labor statistics reveal that the cost of living rose 71.9 per cent from 1944 to 1962.

The cost of the regular adult funeral jumped almost 100 per cent during the same period. In dollars-and-cents terms, the regular adult funeral cost $380 in 1944. That same funeral cost $755 last year.

Those figures do not tell the story, for the funeral cost includes only those goods and services provided by the mortician. Burial, flower and other costs are separate items and can at least double the cost of dying.

The $755 figure for the regular adult funeral in 1962 was supplied by the National Funeral Directors Associaton (NFDA). Yet it is a figure that is hotly disputed by morticians themselves.

Funeral directors argue they can supply a "decent" funeral to fit any budget. An informal United Press International survey of 18 major cities across the country confirmed that.

The survey revealed that a complete funeral is available in most areas for as low as $150. But, for a person carried away with the "you-can't-take-it-with-you" philosophy, funerals ranging from $5,000 to $20,000 and more are also available.

Between those extremes, the $755 average supplied by the NFDA appears to be a reasonable starting point for discussing what has become the third or fourth largest expense faced by a family, exceeding only by the home, car and children's education.

And it is an expense that most families will experience more than once.

Burying the dead has become big business in the United States.

One Wyoming mortician, who is described as a small-volume operator, said he must gross $12,000 a month just to meet costs. Increasingly common is the chain operation in which a single firm owns several funeral homes in an area.

With added volume have come changing images and business practices. No longer is the funeral home a dreary building hidden discreetly among the trees.

The funeral home or chapel of today is modern in architecture, painted brightly and surrounded by rich green lawns and unrippled pools.

Mortician's trade magazines exhort their readers to watch their language. Death is a taboo word; "expired" is preferred. You do not buy a casket, you "make an investment in a service." The death certificate becomes a "vital statistics form" and the casket is placed in a "slumber room," not a laying-our room.

Funeral directors have mastered modern sales techniques. And they maintain lobbyists to protect their sizable economic interests before state legislatures.

One example of the funeral lobby's effectiveness is cited in Miss Mitford's new book, "The American Way of Death."

A highly critical article on funeral practices appeared in Collier's magazine in May, 1961. The article stirred the wrath of funeral directors and prompted an investigation by the California legislature.

When the investigating committee issued its report in 1953, it found nothing to criticize n the funeral ndustry. In fact the report praised funeral directors for their devotion to "the public interest."

That seemed to exonerate the funeral industry — until Miss Mitford uncovered a letter written by J. Wilfred Corr, then executive secretary of the California Funeral Directors Association, to Wilber Krieger, managing director of the National Selected Morticians.

In the letter, Corr recounted how two of his associates had written the report and how he had "engineered" the aceptance of the report by the investigating committee.

Critics of the funeral industry concede that its share of unscrupulous operators is roughly proportionate to that found in other businesses. Most morticians observe the general ethical standards set down by their national associations.

But funeral costs are high. And, since death costs are something that few individuals plan for, the fact of high costs is something the average person is not aware of until he is actually faced with buying a funeral.

White To Black

MADISON, Conn. (AP) — Mommy, a white duck who usually sits atop the chimney of the Milton Voegtli home, disappeared recently.

Three days later, Voegtli heard a scratching in the exhaust pipe leading from the oil furnace to the chimney.

A plumber opened the pipe and found Mommy—now black and hot.

The plumber said he couldn't figure out how the duck survived the heat.

Future Park

MILFORD, Conn. (AP)—Don't call it a dump, George C. Lay, executive secretary of the Milford Planning and Zoning Board warned Mayor Charles R. Iovino.

Lay wrote Iovino that any plans to use low lands first as dumps and later to develop them as parks should be labeled "parks under construction."

"This problem has been pointed out many times during the past 10 years," he wrote. "Several land-acquisition proposals were presented; but the mention of the word dump seems to put a dead stop to any consideration of any new site."

More People Doesn't Mean More Hunger

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Whatever other problems the population explosion may cause mankind, it shouldn't be the cause of hunger—at least not for a while.

In fact, man probably will gain some ground in his battle against hunger around the world between now and 1984, according to Emeritus Director Merrill K. Bennett of the Stanford University Food Research Institute.

"(Continued) shrinkage rather than expansion of hunger situations in the world seems to me in reasonable prospect," he writes in the current issue of Food Research Institute Studies.

"A billion mouths are accompanied by a billion pairs of hands and a billion brains."

Barring widespread warfare, there should be a continuance of the trends toward increased urbanization, better transportation and communication networks and more widespread land cultivation, Bennett said.

Vast amounts of well - watered land are still unsettled in the tropics, he said, and much more existing acreage can be irrigated, even without desalted sea water. More swamps can be drained, and existing farmlands can be made to yield two crops.

And crops should get bigger with greater use of fertilizers, better pest control, improved soil management and better seeds.

But, looking a few hundred years fartherahead Bennett conceded the population growth rate has got to slow down some time.

If the 1.6 per cent growth rate of the 1950's continues indefinitely, the population density of the entire planet will reach 15,000 per square mile by 2317—leaving each individual a strip of land 27 by 70 feet.

This, said Bennett, is "rather small — even allowing for forthcoming miracles of science."

More than one out of every five patents issued by the U. S. Patent Office was for automotive improvements.

The prominent elevations of the Rocky Mountains extend for 2,200 miles through the United States and Canada.

Top Auctioneer Runs Unusual School

BRYAN, Tex. (UPI) —Popular impressions notwithstanding, a good auctioneer has to be much more than a man with a fast tongue and a heavy gavel.

So says Col. Walter Britten, who helps run one of the nation's most unusual schools—an institute for auctioneers at Bryan, Tex.

Britten is one of the country's top auctioneers and is co-owner of the National Auction Institute. The institute holds its classes at Allen Academy, in Bryan.

"The major prerequisite for our institute is an interest in being a good auctioneer," Britten said. "A good auctioneer is someone who is capable of being a good salesman. He has a good personality, a good knowledge of the product he is selling and a keen sense of observation."

The institute holds its classes for two weeks in midsummer. Apprentice auctioneers go to classes up to 10 hours a day. They come from all over the country — this year's class of 35 represented several states and, over the years, nearly every state and some Canadian provinces have had students in the courses.

Bidders are as individualistic as the things they buy, Britten says. For this reason, the auctioneer has to remember the certain gesture, the characteristic wink or nod or wave of hand, of his bidders.

Some bidders don't like others to know they are bidding. Others yell right out. Some wave. Others grimace.

"You have to be ready for anything," Britten says.

Oddly enough, not all the students at the Auction Institute come to be auctioneers.

"Sometimes their parents send them to help them gain confidence in their speaking ability," Britten says. "Other times, clerks in sales establishments are sent by their bosses to give them more insight into the business. Often, somebody comes to us to work on a bad speech impediment."

The beaver has the swimming power more highly developed in his hind feet than has any other quadruped.

More French Cars

PARIS (AP)—The French automoble industry produced a record 1,534,533 vehicles during 1962, according to a government report. This represents an increase of 27.4 per cent over 1961.

The report said France placed third, following Germany and Great Britain, in motor vehicle production for the year. German production was reported at 2,400,000 vehicles and the British produced 1,800,000. Germany exported 45 per cent of its production; Britain, 41 per cent; and France, 35 per cent.

The transistor is inherently a much longer-lived element than the vacuum tube because it generates little or no heat.

'64 Jet-smooth Luxury CHEVROLET

'64 Chevrolet Impala Sport Sedan

Besides looks, ride and power - what's so special about it?

(it's so reasonably priced)

Kind of leaves the high-priced cars some explaining to do, wouldn't you say?

Long and luxurious—with a fresh-christened look that almost makes you feel somebody should be breaking a champagne bottle on its prow.

Richer roomy interiors with subtle new blending of colors and fabrics. Like the ultra-soft vinyl upholstery in the new Impala Super Sport Series. And the foam-cushioned front and rear seats and door-to-door carpeting, now standard in all models, including the modest-priced Biscaynes.

A choice of seven engines, no less, with output all the way up (say when!) to 425 hp.*

And a choice of four smooth transmissions—from automatic* to 4-speed Synchro-Mesh*—to go with them.

And underlying it all, the opulent feel of Chevrolet's Jet-smooth ride—something some of the expensive makes would dearly love to claim for themselves.

Matter of fact, the most important and noticeable difference between this beautiful new 1964 Chevrolet and the high-priced cars is the price itself.

Let your Chevrolet dealer show you how much luxury that reasonable Chevrolet price now buys. *optional at extra cost

"A billion mouths are accompanied by a billion pairs of hands and a billion brains."

Barring widespread warfare, there should be a continuance of the trends toward increased urbanization, better transportation and communication networks and more widespread land cultivation, Bennett said.

Vast amounts of well - watered land are still unsettled in the tropics, he said, and much more existing acreage can be irrigated, even without desalted sea water. More swamps can be drained, and existing farmlands can be made to yield two crops.

And crops should get bigger with greater use of fertilizers, better pest control, improved soil management and better seeds.

But, looking a few hundred years fartherahead Bennett conceded the population growth rate has got to slow down some time.

If the 1.6 per cent growth rate of the 1950's continues indefinitely, the population density of the entire planet will reach 15,000 per square mile by 2317—leaving each individual a strip of land 27 by 70 feet.

This, said Bennett, is "rather small — even allowing for forthcoming miracles of science."

More than one out of every five patents issued by the U. S. Patent Office was for automotive improvements.

Top Auctioneer Runs Unusual School

BRYAN, Tex. (UPI) —Popular impressions notwithstanding, a good auctioneer has to be much more than a man with a fast tongue and a heavy gavel.

So says Col. Walter Britten, who helps run one of the nation's most unusual schools—an institute for auctioneers at Bryan, Tex.

Britten is one of the country's top auctioneers and is co-owner of the National Auction Institute. The institute holds its classes at Allen Academy, in Bryan.

"The major prerequisite for our institute is an interest in being a good auctioneer," Britten said. "A good auctioneer is someone who is capable of being a good salesman. He has a good personality, a good knowledge of the product he is selling and a keen sense of observation."

The institute holds its classes for two weeks in midsummer. Apprentice auctioneers go to classes up to 10 hours a day. They come from all over the country — this year's class of 35 represented several states and, over the years, nearly every state and some Canadian provinces have had students in the courses.

Bidders are as individualistic as the things they buy, Britten says. For this reason, the auctioneer has to remember the certain gesture, the characteristic wink or nod or wave of hand, of his bidders.

Some bidders don't like others to know they are bidding. Others yell right out. Some wave. Others grimace.

"You have to be ready for anything," Britten says.

Oddly enough, not all the students at the Auction Institute come to be auctioneers.

"Sometimes their parents send them to help them gain confidence in their speaking ability," Britten says. "Other times, clerks in sales establishments are sent by their bosses to give them more insight into the business. Often, somebody comes to us to work on a bad speech impediment."

The beaver has the swimming power more highly developed in his hind feet than has any other quadruped.

More French Cars

PARIS (AP)—The French automobile industry produced a record 1,534,533 vehicles during 1962, according to a government report. This represents an increase of 27.4 per cent over 1961.

The report said France placed third, following Germany and Great Britain, in motor vehicle production for the year. German production was reported at 2,400,000 vehicles and the British produced 1,800,000. Germany exported 45 per cent of its production; Britain, 41 per cent; and France, 35 per cent.

The transistor is inherently a much longer-lived element than the vacuum tube because it generates little or no heat.

'64 Jet-smooth Luxury CHEVROLET

'64 Chevrolet Impala Sport Sedan

Besides looks, ride and power - what's so special about it?
(it's so reasonably priced)

Kind of leaves the high-priced cars some explaining to do, wouldn't you say?

Long and luxurious—with a fresh-christened look that almost makes you feel somebody should be breaking a champagne bottle on its prow.

Richer roomy interiors with subtle new blending of colors and fabrics. Like the ultra-soft vinyl upholstery in the new Impala Super Sport Series. And the foam-cushioned front and rear seats and door-to-door carpeting, now standard in all models, including the modest-priced Biscaynes.

A choice of seven engines, no less, with output all the way up (say when!) to 425 hp.*

And a choice of four smooth transmissions—from automatic* to 4-speed Synchro-Mesh*—to go with them.

And underlying it all, the opulent feel of Chevrolet's Jet-smooth ride—something some of the expensive makes would dearly love to claim for themselves.

Matter of fact, the most important and noticeable difference between this beautiful new 1964 Chevrolet and the high-priced cars is the price itself.

Let your Chevrolet dealer show you how much luxury that reasonable Chevrolet price now buys. *optional at extra cost

Electron Guns Secret Of Color TV

NEW YORK (UPI) — Millions watch it, but few understand what makes their color television sets light up in color. The secret is in the color picture tube — a "Fancy Dan" that sports a mask and handles three guns with precision and accuracy.

Each gun fires a beam of electrons through a mask behind the TV screen. The screen you see is actually 1,071,000 phosphor dots divided into three groups of 357,000 dots, one group each for each primary color — red, blue and green. When struck by the beams, the dots light up and blend into every color of the rainbow.

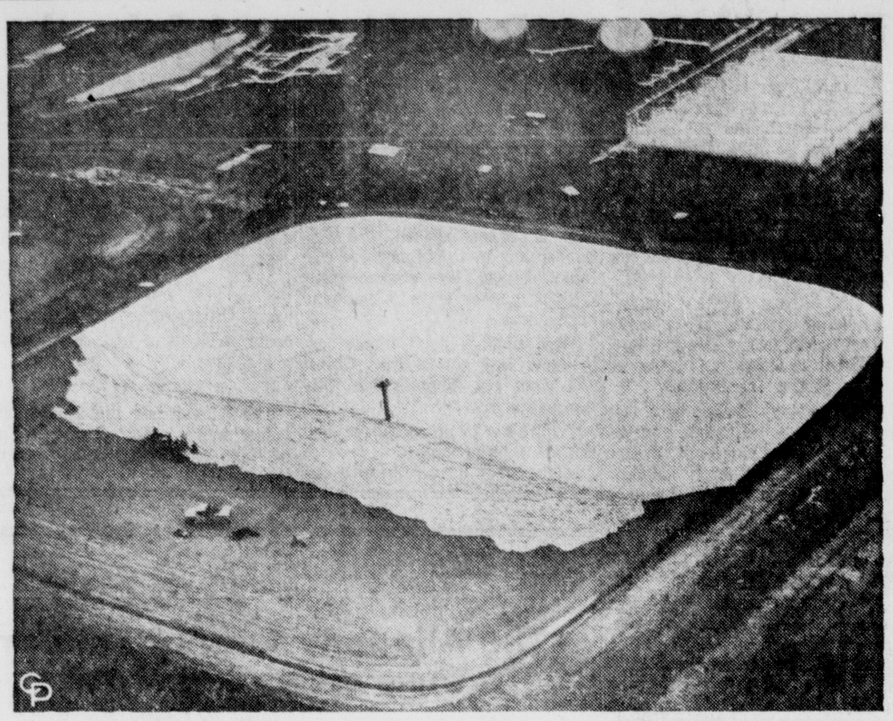
"The trick is that each gun must fire its beam so as to hit only its group of 357,000 dots," says Clyde Hoyt, staff engineer for RCA Victor, which makes the picture tube in all color sets. "In short, a red gun works with the red dots, a blue gun with the blue dots, and a green gun with the green dots. The mask is used to keep the electron beams in perfect alignment with their targets."

A color video picture is taken by a color television camera with three electron guns, one for each of the primary colors, Hoyt explains. The electron beams generated by the guns are then amplified millions of times for transmission through the air as television signals. At the receiving end, he says, the signals are picked up by the antenna, amplified again, and transmitted to the three electron guns in the picture tube.

As in black-and - white television, the screen is divided into 525 extremely thin horizontal strips. The beams from the guns "scan" all 525 lines from side to side progressing from top to bottom—as the human eye reads a printed page—30 times every second, painting the image transmitted with the desired colors.

"If you want to see the electron guns hitting the bullseye," says Hoyt, "place any low-power microscope up against the screen. You'll see the individual phosphor dots glowing red, blue and green."

Only about 16 per cent of the men in the United States shave every day in the year.



10-MILLION-GALLON WATER BAG—The world's largest vinyl-lined reservoir, a Goodrich job at Snyder, Tex., is shown being heat-sealed together in six-foot strips. The two and a half acre reservoir is 14 feet deep, and will hold 10 million gallons of salt water for use in propane gas storage caverns.

Longtime Loser Gets Elected

CASTLE, Okla. (AP) — "After 32 years of unsuccessful campaigning for public office," says Everett Wyrick, "it gives a man a contented feeling to close out a winner.

Wyrick defeated Jimmy Dyer 27-18 for a city council seat in this year's city election. It was his first victory after a series of political efforts, beginning in 1931, in which he lost four times in attempts for the sheriff's office, placed third in a three-man race for county commissioner and, in Castle's last city election race in 1948, lost a try for mayor by two votes.

Chest Pains Not Always Heart Disease Doctor Says

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Chest pains accompanied by difficulty in breathing and irregular heartbeats do not always mean heart disease, an Ohio doctor reports in the Journal of the Texas Medical Association.

Dr. William L. Proudfit, of the Cleveland Clinic Foundation, said a family history of coronary disease or word of friends and relatives felled by heart trouble may make a worried person even more heart-conscious.

Proudfit said pains in the area of the heart and in the left arm or forearm can be caused by over-exertion, not necessarily by the heart ailment a patient fears.

Tense persons frequently complain of difficult or labored breathing, Proudfit said, and sometimes this symptom is accompanied by light - headedness and numbness of the arms or legs.

"Many people who wake at night to find they cannot breathe unless sitting or standing immediately fear heart disease," the doctor said. "In many cases they are actually waking during a normal phase of respiration activity during sleep."

Psychosomatic symptoms frequently coexist with organic heart disease, Proudfit said. The family doctor must make a careful evaluation of the patient's history to differentiate psychosomatic from organic symptoms.

"Such persons should be encouraged to lead as normal a life as possible, even though organic heart disease may exist," Proudfit said. "They should be advised to take it easy."

Proudfit warned that a patient who unduly stresses his actual symptoms to his doctor may mislead the physician to a diagnosis of heart disease when his problem really is psychosomatic in origin.

IT'S A "VADLE" — Mike Randles of Boise, Idaho, leans into a curve on his "Vadle," invented and developed by himself and Reed Burkholder. The recreational device is a platform about 24" x 10" mounted on four 4-inch wheels. The device is guided by leaning the body.

Housewives Now Prefer Leaner Bacon, Pork

STILLWATER, Okla. (UPI) — The expression "fat as a pig" is passe. The porkers are slimming down!

Since housewives prefer leaner bacon and pork chops, Oklahoma State University marketing experts have devised a scheme to help hogs control their weight. A similar system might even help humans with the same problem.

The idea is let the hog eat all he wants, but make him work for every helping.

Researchers at the university's experimental station have constructed feeding troughs featuring a series of steep steps. Feed is always available, but the pig must climb the steps and stand on an incline while he eats.

Researchers expect the feeding method will reduce the amount of backfat and increase muscling, particularly of the ham.

The scientists figure the pig will eat all he wants, but will not go to the extra trouble it takes to eat too much.

The idea could work for humans, researchers said.

In the World War II submarine, the cook prepared all of the meals and did all of the baking for 75 to 80 men in a 6 x 9-foot, horseshoe-shaped galley.

Land Along Spain's Coast Selling At High Prices

MADRID (UPI) — Practical foreigners with a roving eye and a little hard cash are seeing more than bikinis on the Spanish coasts these days.

With the recent boom in tourism in this country (10 million foreigners are expected to visit Spain this year), foreigners have been buying up everything along the coast but the sea foam. Land prices in some coastal areas have multiplied as much as 20 times in the past 10 years.

The boom in some areas, like Ibiza, the Sun Coast, and the Costa Brava is so big that professional fishermen are selling out to make way for those who pay to fish and sail boats along Spains beautiful coastline.

In one small town on the southeastern coast, Benidorm, there are no less than 200 restaurants, bars and hotels under construction. On the beautiful Balearic isle of Ibiza, whose dirt airstrip accommodates daily flights of sun seekers, there are so many construction workers that some of them are sleeping in the streets.

Foreigners own almost as much property in the choicer coastal areas as Spaniards. Under Spanish law, which puts very little restriction on real estate purchases by foreigners, citizens from other countries — notably England and Germany — are moving in.

Along the Costa Brava, in northeast Spain, favorite vacation spot for Germans and Britons in particular, the French entrepreneurs have led in purchases of land, according to unofficial figures.

Along the Levante of Southeast Spain, Germans appear to dominate among foreigners investing in Spain's touristic wealth. British and Americans control much of the Sun Coast, roughly lying between Gibraltar and Malaga, and Mallorca and Ibiza belong largely to the Spaniards, with a heavy sprinkling of investment by German and British citizens. In the Canary Islands off the Northwest coast of Africa, also known as the Fortunate Islands because of their year-round subtropical climate, development lags behind the other tourist areas, perhaps because of their distance from Europe. The chief foreign nations represented in coastal area investment there are the Scandanavian countries.

Although the government has no official statistics on land purchase by foreigners, residents in most of the areas heavily affected by tourism furnish fairly accurate estimates. Since 1960 along the Costa Brava 20 per cent of land purchases have been made for the purpose of erecting hotels. Along the Haro beach of the Costa Brava, there was only one hotel in 1954. Now there are 67.

Until 1961 there was not a single night club on the entire Costa Brava, with the exception of those in Barcelona.

Now, there are 57, most of them dispensing typical Spanish dancing.

460 Students Attending First Underground School

ARTESIA, N.M. (UPI)—When the recess bell rings at Abo Elementary School, its 460 students go up on the roof to play.

The school is the nation's first underground educational facility, paid for in part with funds from Uncle Sam and designed to serve as a fallout shelter for 2,100 persons in event of nuclear emergency.

The roof of the school is just above the ground level of the surrounding terrain.

A two-week supply of survival food is stocked at the school, which has a built-in emergency power supply consisting of a huge diesel generator which can operate at least half the electrical equipment in the building. There also is a five-week fuel supply.

Emergency water is furnished from a well drilled beneath the school. Ordinarily this water goes into the air conditioning system. It is then forced back into another well for re-use.

Three entranceways give access to the 18 classrooms and offices below ground and are connected by porticos forming an "L" along two sides of the school's roof.

Another feature of the building is a system of filtering air — a baffle system to take radioactive particles of dirt from the air before it is drawn into the school's air conditioning system.

Cost of the unusual school was $468,000. The federal office of Civil Defense paid $135,000 of that amount — the difference between building the school above and below ground. Local school bonds paid the rest.

Another Civil Defense grant is financing a year-long research project into the influence of an underground learning environment on children. The school was opened last June and the study is to be completed later this year.

So well has the underground elementary school worked out, that Artesia plans to begin work on an underground junior high school soon. It will have one floor underground and a second floor at ground level.

Disgraced Himself

MIAMI (AP) — Entry No. 117 in the South Florida Budgerigar (parakeet) Society show disgraced himself.

While 269 other parakeets maintained a dignified—and silent—stance, No. 117 let out a shriek, abandoned his cage, and headed for the rafters.

No. 117 zoomed around, made a turn and lost altitude. Robert Marrs, a bird breeder, reached out with hands cupped and caught 117, like a line drive. Then the show went on.

Housewives Now Prefer Leaner Bacon, Pork

STILLWATER, Okla. (UPI) — The expression "fat as a pig" is passe. The porkers are slimming down!

Since housewives prefer leaner bacon and pork chops, Oklahoma State University marketing experts have devised a scheme to help hogs control their weight. A similar system might even help humans with the same problem.

The idea is let the hog eat all he wants, but make him work for every helping.

Researchers at the university's experimental station have constructed feeding troughs featuring a series of steep steps. Feed is always available, but the pig must climb the steps and stand on an incline while he eats.

Researchers expect the feeding method will reduce the amount of backfat and increase muscling, particularly of the ham.

The scientists figure the pig will eat all he wants, but will not go to the extra trouble it takes to eat too much.

The idea could work for humans, researchers said.

Land Along Spain's Coast Selling At High Prices

MADRID (UPI) — Practical foreigners with a roving eye and a little hard cash are seeing more than bikinis on the Spanish coasts these days.

With the recent boom in tourism in this country (10 million foreigners are expected to visit Spain this year), foreigners have been buying up everything along the coast but the sea foam. Land prices in some coastal areas have multiplied as much as 20 times in the past 10 years.

The boom in some areas, like Ibiza, the Sun Coast, and the Costa Brava is so big that professional fishermen are selling out to make way for those who pay to fish and sail boats along Spains beautiful coastline.

New Machine Will Gather Bees' Honey Faster

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A machine has been developed at the University of Arizona which, it says, uncaps honeycombs cheaper and twice as fast as any other device now in use.

This could be of importance to the nation's half million beekeepers who produce well over 200 million pounds of honey a year.

And it could save the nearly 300 billion domestic bees in the land a lot of time and effort, because the combs can be used over again.

Charles D. Owens of the U. S. Department of Agriculture developed the machine in cooperation with the UA Agricultural Experiment Station. Owens did the first work on it at the University of Wisconsin.

Honeybees fill the cells in their combs with honey, then cap them with wax to hold the honey in the moved or punctured before the comb. This capping must be re-honey can be extracted.

Beekeepers have been uncapping honeycombs, one at a time, by slicing off the wax with an electrically heated knife. A worker can release the honey from only eight or 10 combs a minute. Wax unavoidably but invariably mixes with the extracted honey and must be separated later.

Owens says his machine uncaps 20 combs a minute, without getting any wax into the honey.

An operator passes the honeycombs between a pair of heated, aluminum rolls with teeth that punch holes n the wax capping.

Each roller — three inches in diameter and 17 inches long — has more than 6,300 metal teeth. Heating the rollers to 120 degrees or higher prevents the wax and honey from sticking to them.

After the honey is extracted, either a second pair of rollers or a set of metal fingers roughens the wax surface so that the comb may be reused.

Owens says that bees will not readily refill a comb if the surface of the wax capping is too smooth. Instead, they recap the still empty cells.

Martin Co. Is Engaged In Unusual Research

By KENNETH V. DUNCAN

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Martin Co. has proved that industry has a place for the "pure" scientist and his specialty — basic research.

About 70 scientists, some of whom are among the world leaders in their fields, have come from five continents to pursue their search for knowledge at Martin's Research Institute for Advanced Studies (RIAS).

RIAS is one of the very few—perhaps the only—research center of its kind in the United States.

Although partially financed by Martin Co., RIAS operates without obligation to the product interests of its parent corporation.

The scientist's work at RIAS is not interrupted by product deadlines and client demands. He can pursue any idea he chooses — regardless of whether there is a demand for his research. These are major attractions to the pure scientist.

Perhaps another attraction is the unusual setting of the research center. The laboratories and offices are in a large, stone mansion outside Baltimore, semi-isolated by rolling, green acres.

Why should a company which is primarily engaged in the production of space boosters pay scientists whose research quite likely will not improve its product?

Welcome Bender, director of RIAS since its founding in 1955, gives this answer:

"The company acted from a sense of public obligation in a desire to enrich the national heritage through a source of knowledge . . . but also with the full understanding that its own technological success depends in large measure on the results of creative scientific activity."

More than half of RIAS' costs are paid for by contracts and grants from the federal government. But usually the research project in which a government agency invests is already under way by the time the grant is made. In some cases, funds are never forthcoming, but the scientist's work continues.

In this respect, RIAS offers even purer surroundings for scientists than many universities. Some universities, RIAS officials point out, have tended to move away from basic research to applied research in their efforts to botain government and private contracts. They have done this in their quest for funds to expand their facilities.

RIAS has four departments—metallurgy, physics, biosciences and mathematics. A new group, called exobiology, is gradually being added in the biosciences department. Exobiology is the study of life on other planets. It serves as an example of how RIAS operates.

Although barely into this study, RIAS scientists believe they may be in the course of developing a sounder method for determining whether life exists beyond the earth.

Most life-detection experiments proposed so far for space exploration have assumed that vital organisms in other parts of the solar system would be reasonably similar to those familiar on earth.

For example, devices have been suggested which would collect samples from the planetary surface and insert them automatically into a culture medium containing a number of chemicals which serve as food for earthly bacteria. The carbon dioxide created by the chemical reaction could then be detected by mechanical or other means.

There are, however, several drawbacks to this method. One of them is the single nutrient needed for extraterrestrial life could be missing from the culture medium and thus doom the experiment. And there is always the possibility that life on Mars or some other planet is based on an organic building block other than carbon, earth's basic element.

The concept of life detection being studied at RIAS avoids thinking in terms of only familiar chemicals. It is based on the fact that any life-form, even though different from the ones familiar on earth, could split water into its component parts — hydrogen and oxygen. This reaction also could be detected mechanically.

Heading this study is Dr. Bessel Kok, a native of Holland who came here in 1958 to organize and direct the photosynthesis group in the biosciences department.

Dr. Kok recently discovered Pigment 700 in chlorophyll, the link between the absorption of sunlight and complex chemical process which plants convert water, carbon dioxide and various minerals into oxygen and living cells. His work in this area could be important in developing a source of oxygen supply for astronauts on extended space missions.

Dr. Kok was named recently by the National Academy of Science as one of the first recipients of the Charles F. Kettering Awards for creative research in photosynthesis.

Another prominent scientist at RIAS is Solomon Lefschetz, former chairman of the Princeton University Mathematics Department. He came out of retirement in 1958 to establish and direct the Center for Differential Equations at RIAS. His special field now is nonlinear differential equations.

Bender used the analogy of the housewife's button-box to express the philosophy of basic research being conducted at RIAS.

"There is no guarantee," he said, "that she will ever use any one particular button, but a full box of buttons is a better source of one proper button than no button box."

Honeybees fill the cells in their combs with honey, then cap them with wax to hold the honey in the moved or punctured before the comb. This capping must be re-honey can be extracted.

Beekeepers have been uncapping honeycombs, one at a time, by slicing off the wax with an electrically heated knife. A worker can release the honey from only eight or 10 combs a minute. Wax unavoidably but invariably mixes with the extracted honey and must be separated later.

Owens says his machine uncaps 20 combs a minute, without getting any wax into the honey.

An operator passes the honeycombs between a pair of heated, aluminum rolls with teeth that punch holes n the wax capping.

Each roller — three inches in diameter and 17 inches long — has more than 6,300 metal teeth. Heating the rollers to 120 degrees or higher prevents the wax and honey from sticking to them.

After the honey is extracted, either a second pair of rollers or a set of metal fingers roughens the wax surface so that the comb may be reused.

Owens says that bees will not readily refill a comb if the surface of the wax capping is too smooth. Instead, they recap the still empty cells.

Martin Co. Is Engaged In Unusual Research

By KENNETH V. DUNCAN

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Martin Co. has proved that industry has a place for the "pure" scientist and his specialty — basic research.

About 70 scientists, some of whom are among the world leaders in their fields, have come from five continents to pursue their search for knowledge at Martin's Research Institute for Advanced Studies (RIAS).

RIAS is one of the very few—perhaps the only—research center of its kind in the United States.

Although partially financed by Martin Co., RIAS operates without obligation to the product interests of its parent corporation.

The scientist's work at RIAS is not interrupted by product deadlines and client demands. He can pursue any idea he chooses — regardless of whether there is a demand for his research. These are major attractions to the pure scientist.

Perhaps another attraction is the unusual setting of the research center. The laboratories and offices are in a large, stone mansion outside Baltimore, semi-isolated by rolling, green acres.

Why should a company which is primarily engaged in the production of space boosters pay scientists whose research quite likely will not improve its product?

Welcome Bender, director of RIAS since its founding in 1955, gives this answer:

"The company acted from a sense of public obligation in a desire to enrich the national heritage through a source of knowledge . . . but also with the full understanding that its own technological success depends in large measure on the results of creative scientific activity."

More than half of RIAS' costs are paid for by contracts and grants from the federal government. But usually the research project in which a government agency invests is already under way by the time the grant is made. In some cases, funds are never forthcoming, but the scientist's work continues.

In this respect, RIAS offers even purer surroundings for scientists than many universities. Some universities, RIAS officials point out, have tended to move away from basic research to applied research in their efforts to botain government and private contracts. They have done this in their quest for funds to expand their facilities.

RIAS has four departments—metallurgy, physics, biosciences and mathematics. A new group, called exobiology, is gradually being added in the biosciences department. Exobiology is the study of life on other planets. It serves as an example of how RIAS operates.

Although barely into this study, RIAS scientists believe they may be in the course of developing a sounder method for determining whether life exists beyond the earth.

Most life-detection experiments proposed so far for space exploration have assumed that vital organisms in other parts of the solar system would be reasonably similar to those familiar on earth.

For example, devices have been suggested which would collect samples from the planetary surface and insert them automatically into a culture medium containing a number of chemicals which serve as food for earthly bacteria. The carbon dioxide created by the chemical reaction could then be detected by mechanical or other means.

There are, however, several drawbacks to this method. One of them is the single nutrient needed for extraterrestrial life could be missing from the culture medium and thus doom the experiment. And there is always the possibility that life on Mars or some other planet is based on an organic building block other than carbon, earth's basic element.

The concept of life detection being studied at RIAS avoids thinking in terms of only familiar chemicals. It is based on the fact that any life-form, even though different from the ones familiar on earth, could split water into its component parts — hydrogen and oxygen. This reaction also could be detected mechanically.

Heading this study is Dr. Bessel Kok, a native of Holland who came here in 1958 to organize and direct the photosynthesis group in the biosciences department.

Dr. Kok recently discovered Pigment 700 in chlorophyll, the link between the absorption of sunlight and complex chemical process which plants convert water, carbon dioxide and various minerals into oxygen and living cells. His work in this area could be important in developing a source of oxygen supply for astronauts on extended space missions.

Dr. Kok was named recently by the National Academy of Science as one of the first recipients of the Charles F. Kettering Awards for creative research in photosynthesis.

Another prominent scientist at RIAS is Solomon Lefschetz, former chairman of the Princeton University Mathematics Department. He came out of retirement in 1958 to establish and direct the Center for Differential Equations at RIAS. His special field now is nonlinear differential equations.

Bender used the analogy of the housewife's button-box to express the philosophy of basic research being conducted at RIAS.

"There is no guarantee," he said, "that she will ever use any one particular button, but a full box of buttons is a better source of one proper button than no button box."

Pursuit Driving Being Taught Police Recruits

Tfc. Willis E. Foreman of Cumberland is participating in a new driver training program being conducted by the Maryland State Police.

The new program is offered to recruits at the State Police Academy in Pikesville and is designed to further enhance the efficiency of troopers in pursuit driving.

The present class at the academy is the first to receive the special training which has been included in the curriculum, according to Col. Carey Jarman, superintendent.

Tfc. Foreman, a ten-year veteran of the State Police, is working along with eight other troopers on the program under the direction of Sgt. David A. Lauder, academy instructor, who is a former resident of Allegany County, and was graduated from old Central High School in Lonaconing.

Before being qualified to teach the course, Tfc. Foreman and the other eight field instructors had to satisfactorily complete the entire driver training program.

Col. Jarman said the new program is conducted as follows:

Prior to actual motor vehicle operation, the student receives classroom instructions in the care and maintenance of motor vehicles, how the automobile operates, proper driving attitudes, defensive driving techniques, motor vehicle laws and driver responsibilities.

Following the classroom work the student moves to the general driver training course which consists of driving tests and exercises designed to ascertain his mental and physical qualifications.

After the student has completed this phase of the training he moves into the entire new "Pursuit Driving Techniques" course.

Instructions in this phase, according to Col. Jarman, are given on a privately-owned, closed circuit roadway located in Upper Marlboro. The macadam roadway is approximately three miles long and, by design, exceeds construction hazards normally experienced on public highways. Under these conditions the student has the opportunity to exercise his ability to cope with simulated problems, such as sharp curves, narrow road conditions, and other problems normally encountered by troopers on patrol.

Another member of the field instruction team is Tfc. Neil F. Bechtol, formerly of Cumberland, who is now stationed at Barracks A in Frederick.

Tfc. Foreman completed his four - week training period several months ago and next month will return to Upper Marlboro to instruct another class in the training, which includes methods of getting behind a car, proper pursuit, how to stop a vehicle and how to turn around on a vehicle and obtain identification and other data.

Projects Delay Traffic Here

Traffic on Baltimore Street is expected to return to normal tomorrow after a number of projects, planned and emergency, are completed.

The scheduled work was given added confusion when a steam pipe broke near the intersection of Baltimore and Centre streets. Crew were working on the pipe at noon, but traffic was moving at a normal pace yesterday.

Traffic in the first block of Baltimore Street was reduced one lane Tuesday when a water line broke in the street. The work was completed and blacktop will be applied to the patch today when the concrete base is cured.

Another traffic problem developed yesterday when paving was started on Greene Street from the Baltimore Street Bridge to Johnson Street.

However, vehicles were moving at a normal pace and everything seemed to be under control shortly after the work was started.

Lt. E. Gordon Hite, head of the city's Traffic Bureau, said traffic will be re-routed over Washington Street during the paving which is expected to take a couple of days.

The street will receive two coats of blacktop and the work is being done by the Stickley Company of Keyser.

After the work on Greene Street is completed today, crews will move to Mary Street for the finish coat there, Lt. Hite said.

Consolidation To Change Name Of Outdoor Motor

By JACK WOLISTON
United Press International

The name "Scott-Atwater" disappears completely from the outboard motor field in 1964. The line hereafter will go under the name of "McCulloch."

The change is one result of a consolidation planned since McCulloch Corp., primarily a manufacturer of chain saws, entered the outboard motor business in 1956 by acquiring Scott-Atwater Manufacturing Co.

First, the name "Atwater" was dropped from the "Scott" 1958 line. In 1962 and this year the outboard motors bore the indentification, "Scott built by McCulloch."

Coincident with the name change, the McCullosh has announced a new distribution centers for its motors in about 30 major U. S. cities, permitting faster delivery to retail outlets, the company said.

The McCulloch line of motors for 1964 includes 11 models, one of them a new 9½ horsepower fishing motor designed for use in lakes with a 10 horsepower restriction.

Others in the line include 3½, 4½, 14, 28, 50 and 75 horsepower models. The company also manufactures two "Ox" work motors, the 140 and 450, especially designed for use on houseboats and barges, and in the logging and commercial fishing fields.

In addition it offers two competition outboard motors, the 590 and 630, which are available on special order.

The 590 is approved for competition by the American Powerboat Association and the National Outboard Association for use in the F class and the 630 is designed for use in the unlimited class.

The 590 recently propelled Bill Holland to a new National Outboard Association Class F hydro speed world record of 93.750 miles per hour at Knoxville, Tenn.

As with other outboard motor lines already announced for 1964, McCulloch's emphasis is on fuel economy. Its motors operate on a low-friction principle that allows the use of a gas-oil ration of 100 to 1, or 6 ounces of oil to 5 gallons of gasoline.

Among other features is the Surface-Gap ignition, which the company claims provides a solution to the problem of pre-ignition. Surface-Gap plugs last up to 10 times longer than conventional plugs, the compaxy says, fire cooler to eliminate power loss and piston damage, resist fouling and burning and never require adjusting. The Surface-Gap ignition is available only on the 75 horsepower, 50 horsepower electric and Ox 450 electric models.

Anyone hauling a boat for winter storage should remember that a few chores done now will save considerable labor when spring rolls around again.

This is especially true of the bottom, which should be washed with fresh water, and scrubbed or scraped to remove any accumulation of barnacles, scum, grass or other marine growth. This accumulation can become cement-hard if left on until spring.

After scraping the bottom, it's a good idea to give it a light sanding and a coat of anti-fouling paint. Metal keels and bottoms should always be given one coat of paint to protect against rust.

In storing a boat, avoid extremes of dryness or humidity, and if stored outdoors, use a canvas cover, which should be propped up to permit circulation of air through the inside of the boat.

Rhine Is Considered World's Busiest River

By WELLINGTON LONG

BONN (UPI) — Once it was blue, and between the whitecaps it reflected the proud castle towers and steep vineyeards on its banks.

Whitecaps it still has, but beneath them the Rhine is a brown, soupy flood.

It has lost most of its reflecting quality.

The famous Rhine inns still serve their salmon specialties, but the salmon now is brought down in ice from Scandinavia.

The eel served in the inns is still taken from the Rhine. But before they reach the table, they have to spend four weeks swimming in a tank of well water to wash out the smell of phenol.

That's one of the prices of progress. The Rhine is the world's busiest river, with more than 7 million tons of shipping working its surface. The much larger Mississippi is undeveloped by comparison.

Railways and high ways run along its banks, linking the great industrial concentrations that interrupt the forests or vineyards every 20 or 30 miles.

All these products of modern civilization and a higher standard of living eliminate wastes, and they wind up polluting the river with phosphates and salt. The River moves along at a steady five miles per hour, carrying all that salt with it. Low man on the totem pole is Holland, where the salt is finally dumped.

The United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (ECE) last year looked over the situation. It decided, among other things, that 65 per cent of the waste going into the Rhine is from industry, 30 per cent is from neighboring residential communities and only 5 per cent from the ships plying the river.

The sum of this report and those by other researchers is that pollution of the river increases despite all efforts to restrict it, although the West German Ministry of Health claims the rate of pollution has been stablized in this country.

The riparian states of Germany, Switzerland, France, Luxembourg and Holland have formed the International Commission for the Protection of the Rhine Against Pollution to coordinate their efforts.

In Germany, six of the 11 federal states are organized in a similar commission.

The Allies insisted, after the war, that the new Germany have a weak central government, and strong state or provincial governments. The idea was to prevent another Hitler seizing power in the national capital and thus at one stroke in the nation. But it has some interesting side effects. One is the problem of dealing with public health, including river pollution.

The Constitutional Court a year ago declared unconstitutional a law giving the federal government certain specialties, but the court, is strictly a matter for the states. So when several members of parliament asked the Federal Minister of Health for information on the fight against Rhine pollution this summer, it took six weeks to prepare the answer because the Minister had to ask the six weeks to prepare the answer because the Minister had to ask the six state governments concerned.

A committee representing the six states replied they are following a plan calling for investment of 2.5 billion marks ($625 million) during the next five years in filter and purification plants.

The Rhine flows through Lake Constance, bordered by Austria, Switzerland and Germany, and this inland sea too is changing because of pollution.

Fashionettes

For autumn, the Hair Fashion Council of America wants milady to string along with a new coiffure that presents the effect of an English bowler hat, shaped to the natural contours of the head. The accent: bangs combed straight down or parted to one side. Sides of the hair are draped.

The word's lowdown on casual shoes. Flats have soft, crescent toes, open throats, light stitching. Often the style goes bare at back and shank.

The grey flannel influence has filtered down to grammar school. Jumpers for the girls of eight and nine, at any rate, are of grey flannel — with straight pleats falling from a yoke. The accent? A Norfolk belt trimmed with big pearl buttons.

Hat shapes are more flatering and not so bulky now that they don't have to compete with teased big-dome hair styles. Bowlers, swaggers, snap brims, high rounded turbans and little tailored hats all rate in the popularity parade.

In gloves, the new long-shortie rates high. It rises over the wristbone and takes a narrow border of contrasting fabric or animal skin — fake and real.

BELL RINGER—Veegie Parker, a Virginia belle, pins a champion's blue ribbon on a multi-frequency telephone ringer at the United States Instrument Corp. in Charlottesville. In a test, the bell rang for 1,310 hours of continuous, faultless operation. That is equivalent to more than 100 years of normal use.

O'Henry Stories Filmed

MOSCOW (AP) — For the first time in the Soviet Union, stories by O'Henry have been made into a movie.

Mosfilm Studios in Moscow just finished a film called "The Businessmen" combining three of the American writer's short stories, "The Roads We Take," "Makes the Whole World Kin," and "Ransom of Red Chief."

Outdoor Insects Like To Move Indoors During Fall

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Outdoor insects like to move indoors with the advent of fall weather, specialists at the University of Nebraska said.

The cricket was singled out as being one insect which should be eliminated promptly. Crickets can be very destructive to fabrics and food, and if left alone, will be active through the winter months.

Mrs. Clara N. Leopold, extension specialist, said occasionally crickets can be killed with a fly swatter. But if they appear in large numbers, an insecticide barrier should be made around all entrances.

Such a barrier can be formed by mixing DDT wettable powder with water and using a sprinkling can to soak the ground around the house with the mixture.

Other common insects found around homes in the fall of the year are millipedes, lady beetles, Asiatic oak weevils, clover mites and cluster flies.

Any good household surface spray containing five per cent of DDT or two per cent malathion or chlordane can be used to get rid of these pests. The spray should be used around baseboards at entranceways, and on window ledges.

Box elder bugs don't yield too readily to insecticides. Mrs. Leopold recommended sucking them up in the vacuum cleaner as the easiest way to eradicate them.

The Virgin Islands were discovered by Columbus on his second voyage in 1493.

Liquid Takes Longer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) The reaction time of the silo-fired Minuteman intercontinental range missile is 32 seconds, compared with about 15 minutes for the Atlas and Titan ICBMs.

Solid propellant is the secret of Minuteman's quick-strike capability. Atlas and Titan have larger nuclear warheads but their liquid fuel is more difficult to handle.

Girl Planning To Become Nun Travels 6,500 Miles To See Favorite Opera Singer's Performance

By JOAN SWEENEY

REDONDO BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — At 18 Sharon Breden has begun a new life. But first she fondest dream of her old life came true.

The Redondo Beach teen-ager entered a Los Angeles convent a few weeks ago. She will become a Roman Catholic nun.

Her last worldly wish: To see her idol, mezzo soprano Irene Dalis, sing the role of Kundry in Richard Wagner's opera "Parsifal" on the opening night of the famed Wagner Festival in Bayreuth, Germany.

Her parents, Air Force Capt. and Mrs. Ralph E. Breden, promised her a trip to Europe so that she might see it.

But after traveling more than 6,500 miles to Bayreuth, Saaron's went to work in her behalf. But it came within a split-hair of ending in disappointment.

When the tall, slim teen-ager arrived in Bayreuth, she found that the performance had been sold out for months and an extra ticket was harder to come by than a dinosaur egg.

Learning of her plight, everyone from her idol to Weiland Wagner, the composer's grandson, she said, "and I couldn't help all the way. I wasn't even going to get to see the performance."

Then, a Scotswoman who had heard of Sharon's problem took pity on her and gave her a ticket.

That evening, Sharon discovered she had not one, but two tickets. Mme. Dalis had also managed to get her a ticket and Sharon attended the performance with the singer's husband, George Lionaz.

The program lived up to Sharon's expectations. She found it so moving that "I cried through the entire third act. Poor George didn't know what to do with me."

As for Mme. Dalis, "she just sang magnificently," Sharon said.

Sharon was thrilled at seeing "Parsifal" in its original setting. It was first performed at Bayreuth in 1882.

Her evening in Bayreuth was complete when Sharon visited Mme. Dalis in her dressing room between acts.

Sharon herself studied piano for 13 years and has taught it for the past couple of years.

She is joining an order of nuns devoted to teaching and nursing.

"I hope to teach music and his-tory," she said.

Sharon's admiration for Irene Dalis began three years ago when she attended her first opera, Wagner's "Lohengren," with Mme. Dalis singing the role of Ortrud.

"I had thought opera was utterly ridiculous until I heard her sing," Sharon said. "Because of her, I've gotten interested in it."

Sharon does not plan to forsake her favorite once she enteres the convent.

Her parents have promised to tape the singer's radio performances for her.

Consolidation To Change Name Of Outdoor Motor

By JACK WOLISTON

The name "Scott-Atwater" disappears completely from the outboard motor field in 1964. The line hereafter will go under the name of "McCulloch."

The change is one result of a consolidation planned since McCulloch Corp., primarily a manufacturer of chain saws, entered the outboard motor business in 1956 by acquiring Scott-Atwater Manufacturing Co.

First, the name "Atwater" was dropped from the "Scott" line. In 1962 and this year the outboard motors bore the identification, "Scott built by McCulloch."

Coincident with the name change, the McCulloch has announced a new distribution centers for its motors in about 30 major U. S. cities, permitting faster delivery to retail outlets, the company said.

Others in the line include 3½, 7½, 14, 28, 50 and 75 horsepower models. The company also manufactures two "Ox" work motors, the 140 and 450, especially designed for use on houseboats and barges, and in the logging and commercial fishing fields.

In addition it offers two competition outboard motors, the 590 and 630, which are available on special order.

The 590 is approved for competition by the American Powerboat Association and the National Outboard Association for use in the F class and the 630 is designed for use in the unlimited class.

The 590 recently propelled Bill Holland to a new National Outboard Association Class F hydro speed world record of 93.750 miles per hour at Knoxville, Tenn.

As with other outboard motor lines already announced for 1964, McCulloch's emphasis is on fuel economy. Its motors operate on a low-friction principle that allows the use of a gas-oil ration of 100 to 1, or 6 ounces of oil to 5 gallons of gasoline.

Surface-Gap plugs last up to 10 times longer than conventional plugs, the company says, fire cooler to eliminate power loss and piston damage, resist fouling and burning and never require adjusting. The Surface-Gap ignition is available only on the 75 horsepower, 50 horsepower electric and Ox 450 electric models.

For autumn, the Hair Fashion Council of America wants milady to string along with a new coiffure that presents the effect of an English bowler hat, shaped to the natural contours of the head. The accent: bangs combed straight down or parted to one side. Sides of the hair are draped.

The word's lowdown on casual shoes. Flats have soft, crescent toes, open throats, light stitching. Often the style goes bare at back and shank.

The grey flannel influence has filtered down to grammar school jumpers for the girls of eight and nine, at any rate, are of grey flannel — with straight pleats falling from a yoke. The accent? A Norfolk belt trimmed with big pearl buttons.

Hat shapes are more flatetring and not so bulky now that they don't have to compete with teased bio-dome hair styles. Bowlers, swaggers, snap brims, high rounded turbans and little tailored hats all rate in the popularity parade.

In gloves, the new long-shortie rates high. It rises over the wristbone and takes a narrow border of contrasting fabric or animal skin — fake and real.

BELL RINGER—Veggie Parker, a Virginia belle, pins a champion's blue ribbon on a multi-frequency telephone ringer at the United States Instrument Corp. in Charlottesville. In a test, the bell rang for 1,310 hours of continuous, faultless operation. That is equivalent to more than 100 years of normal use.

O'Henry Stories Filmed

MOSCOW (AP) — For the first time in the Soviet Union, stories by O'Henry have been made into a movie.

Mosfilm Studios in Moscow just finished a film called "The Businessmen" combining three of the American writer's short stories, "The Roads We Take," "Makes the Whole World Kin," and "Ransom of Red Chief."

Outdoor Insects Like To Move Indoors During Fall

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Outdoor insects like to move indoors with the advent of fall weather, home management specialists at the University of Nebraska said.

The cricket was singled out as being one insect which should be eliminated promptly. Crickets can be very destructive to fabrics and food, and if left alone, will be active through the winter months.

Mrs. Clara N. Leopold, extension specialist, said occasionally crickets can be killed with a fly swatter. But if they appear in large numbers, an insecticide barrier should be made around all entrances.

Such a barrier can be formed by mixing DDT wettable powder with water and using a sprinkling can to soak the ground around the house with the mixture.

Other common insects found around homes in the fall of the year are millipedes, lady beetles, Asiatic oak weevils, clover mites and cluster flies.

Any good household surface spray containing five per cent of DDT or two per cent malathion or chlordane can be used to get rid of these pests. The spray should be used around baseboards at entranceways, and on window ledges.

Box elder bugs don't yield too readily to insecticides. Mrs. Leopold recommended sucking them up in the vacuum cleaner as the easiest way to eradicate them.

The Virgin Islands were discovered by Columbus on his second voyage in 1493.

Liquid Takes Longer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The reaction time of the silo-fired Minuteman intercontinental range missile is 32 seconds, compared with about 15 minutes for the Atlas and Titan ICBMs.

Solid propellant is the secret of Minuteman's quick-strike capability. Atlas and Titan have larger nuclear warheads but their liquid fuel is more difficult to handle.

Girl Planning To Become Nun Travels 6,500 Miles To See Favorite Opera Singer's Performance

By JOAN SWEENEY

REDONDO BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — At 18 Sharon Breden has begun a new life. But first she fondest dream of her old life me true.

The Redondo Beach teen-ager and Mrs. Ralph E. Breden, prom- ised her a trip to Europe so that she might see it.

But after traveling more than 6,500 miles to Bayreuth, Saaron's dream came within a split-hair of ending in disappointment.

When the tall, slim teen-ager arrived in Bayreuth, she found that the performance had been sold out for months and an extra ticket was harder to come by than a dinosaur egg.

Learning of her plight, everyone from her idol to Weiland Wagner, the composer's grandson, went to work in her behalf. But it to no avail.

Sharon encamped at the opera house the day of the performance in the hope someone would turn up in a ticket. But as the afternoon ticked away and hope faded, Sharon gave way to tears.

"It hit me that after coming all the way, I wasn't even going to get to see the performance," she said, "and I couldn't help

Then, a Scotswoman who had so many heard of Sharon's problem took pity on her and gave her a ticket that evening. Sharon discovered she had not one, but two tickets. Mme. Dalis had also managed to get her a ticket and Sharon attended the performance with the singer's husband, George Lionaz. The program lived up to Sharon's expectations. She found it so moving that "I cried through the entire third act. Poor George didn't know what to do with me."

As for Mme. Dalis, "she just sang magnificently," Sharon said. Sharon was thrilled at seeing "Parsifal" in its original setting.

It was first performed at Bayreuth in 1882.

Her evening in Bayreuth was complete when Sharon visited Mme. Dalis in her dressing room between acts.

Sharon herself studied piano for 13 years and has taught it for the past couple of years.

She is joining an order of nuns devoted to teaching and nursing.

"I hope to teach music and history," she said.

Sharon's admiration for Irene Dalis began three years ago when she attended her first opera, Wagner's "Lohengren," with Mme. Dalis singing the role of Ortrud.

"I had thought opera was utterly ridiculous until I heard her sing," Sharon said. "Because of her, I've gotten interested in it."

Sharon does not plan to forsake her favorite once she enteres the convent.

Her parents have promised to tape the singer's radio performances for her.

Cresaptown Man Fined For Assault

Robert O'Neal, 26, Cresaptown, yesterday was fined a total of $120 in Allegany County Circuit Court on charges involving assaulting an officer, resisting arrest and disturbing the peace.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris imposed the sentence after hearing testimony by Trooper P. J. Fiorita, Sgt. Charles DeWitt and Magistrate Thomas Barton. The incident took place outside the magistrate's office on the evening of August 21.

O'Neal testified that he had been drinking on the night in question and "lost control of himself." Trooper Fiorita testified that O'Neal came to the barracks in LaVale several days after the encounter and apologized.

The young man created a disturbance outside the magistrate's office and resisted arrest by the troopers. He struck Fiorita on the arm with a flashlight when the officer attempted to get him out of his car. He had been 'gunning the motor' and creating a disturbance for about half an hour prior to the arrest.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 307 Between the Battle of Chancellorsville, which ended May 4, 1863, and the Gettysburg campaign precipitated by Lee's invasion of the North the end of June, Union armies were most active in the West. U. S. Grant's corps straddled the Mississippi with strong support from Farragut's naval forces in the river. Three columns moved under W. T. Sherman, J. B. McPherson and J. A. McClernand to put the clincher on the Confederates who held on to Vicksburg staunchly. Striking east, on May 14, Sherman and McPherson captured Jackson, and cut off any support to Vicksburg from there. Two days later, having doubled back toward Vicksburg, they struck at Champion's Hill to defeat John Pemberton, who had left Vicksburg to try to deal, with Joe Johnston, a shattering blow at Grant. Instead, Pemberton was sent reeling back to Big Black River, where another defeat by Grant's forces made him retire behind Vicksburg's defenses. Grant's hopes of taking Vicksburg by storm then were dashed by Pemberton's hurling back attackers May 19 and 22. Grant had to settle down to siege tactics.

Siege tactics were also necessary at the Confederate stronghold farther down the river, at Port Hudson, La., where the defenders fought off assaults by Nathaniel Banks' Union Army, and withstood bombardments by Farragut gunboats all through May.

Bridge Club Tournament Begins Here Tomorrow

One of the largest fields in recent years is expected for the 13th annual Mason-Dixon tournament of the Western Maryland Bridge Association, scheduled Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Miss Alice Stakem and Theodore W. Gray, co-chairmen of the tournament, said the tourney annually attracts a large number of players from the metropolitan areas of Washington and Pittsburgh, as well as many from the larger cities in West Virginia.

The opening events will be the men's and women's pairs, to be played simultaneously Friday, beginning at 8 p. m. The top event, the open pairs, will be played Saturday in two sessions, with the qualifying round slated at 2 p. m. and the finals at 8 p. m.

A special pair event will be played separately during the open pairs finals, the co-directors said.

The sole session Sunday will be an open team of four board-a-match event. Inaugurated several years ago, the event is one of the more popular activities of the tournament.

Aid To Detergents

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Lockheed Aircraft Corp. said its propulsion division has obtained a $3 million air force contract to design and make two 13-foot diameter segmented solid propellant rocket motors in the million-pound thrust class.

Many County Teachers To Attend Meet

Several hundred Allegany County teachers are expected to attend the 96th annual convention of the Maryland State Teachers Association in Baltimore Thursday, October 17, through Saturday, October 19.

It will be a long weekend for students in public schools as they will be off from the close of classes Wednesday, October 16, until the start of school on Monday, October 21.

Outstanding players in county bands will be chosen to be a part of the All-Maryland High School Band, which will present a concert prior to the opening address of Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina in the Baltimore Civic Center in the first general session.

The speaker at the second general session on Friday, October 18, will be Sir Mohammad Zafrulla Khan, ambassador to the United Nations from Pakistan and immediate past president of the U. N. General Assembly.

Friday night the association will honor Dr. Thomas J. Pullen Jr. with a testimonial dinner. The state superintendent of schools has announced his retirement effective the end of this year.

The 600 delegates to the Representative Assembly of the MSTA will hold meetings on Thursday and Saturday mornings of the convention.

International Atomic Agency Ends Session

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The International Atomic Energy Agency concluded its seventh general conference Tuesday on a vote of unprecedented East-West support for a worldwide system of safeguards.

The agreement, authorizing the agency to control operations of nuclear reactors in countries receiving IAEA technical assistance to prevent its diversion for secret nuclear armament, is expected to become effective early next year.

Plans Received For Frostburg Sewage

The Mayor and Council of Frostburg has received the feasibility study made by Albert S. Paye, county engineer, for a proposed sewage system and has taken steps to further the program.

Paye made the study at the request of the Allegany County Sanitary Commission and county commissioners after Frostburg asked for aid in getting a plan shaped up.

John C. Sullivan, attorney for Frostburg, said the next step will be meetings with the County Sanitary Commission and LaVale Sanitary Commission concerning the hooking into the LaVale interceptors, which in turn will tie-in with the City of Cumberland's sewage disposal system.

The area which would be covered by the sewage system would be known as the Braddock Run Sanitary District.

Such a program for disposing of the sewage of Frostburg and environs would not only provide a totally adequate system for the area, Paye reported, but would also have the secondary benefit of reducing the pollution load in the Georges Creek basin by about 70 per cent.

The natural purification abilities of Georges Creek should take control and hand'e the 30 per cent of pollution which remained, Paye opined. This would benefit the many smaller communities downstream from Frostburg on the creek at no expense to them.

In recent years the well-planned expansion of Frostburg State College has contributed to the growth of the community and stability of its development, Paye pointed out. He said that this influence will continue and be considerably accelerated in the next few years.

Within the proposed sanitary district the major concentration of population is within the limits of Frostburg. There are 6,722 persons in the town as of 1960 and this does not include the college students. About 2,500 persons reside in the remainder of the proposed district.

Due to the expansion at Frostburg State College there would have to be constructed some additional interceptor sewers to the main interceptor. A pumping station below the confluence of Sand Spring Run and Georges Creek would pump the sewage over the crest of the hill in the vicinity of Beall High School.

From this point the flow would be through a gravity sewer along Braddock Run to LaVale's system near the LaVale Shopping Center.

Allegany High Class Reunion Planned

Members of the Class of 1954 of Allegany High School will meet Tuesday, October 15, at 7:30 p. m. in the school library to make plans for a tenth anniversary reunion.

Bernard Beerman, class president, said that any member of the class who would like to assist in planning the event can contact Mrs. Sue Vowell Haines, general chairman, by phoning 729-1419.

In recent years the well-planned expansion of Frostburg State College has contributed to the growth of the community and stability of its development, Paye pointed out. He said that this influence will continue and be considerably accelerated in the next few years.

Within the proposed sanitary district the major concentration of population is within the limits of Frostburg. There are 6,722 persons in the town as of 1960 and this does not include the college students. About 2,500 persons reside in the remainder of the proposed district.

Due to the expansion at Frostburg State College there would have to be constructed some additional interceptor sewers to the main interceptor. A pumping station below the confluence of Sand Spring Run and Georges Creek would pump the sewage over the crest of the hill in the vicinity of Beall High School.

From this point the flow would be through a gravity sewer along Braddock Run to LaVale's system near the LaVale Shopping Center.

Bridge Club Tournament Begins Here Tomorrow

One of the largest fields in recent years is expected for the 13th annual Mason-Dixon tournament of the Western Maryland Bridge Association, scheduled Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Miss Alice Stakem and Theodore W. Gray, co-chairmen of the tournament, said the tourney annually attracts a large number of players from the metropolitan areas of Washington and Pittsburgh, as well as many from the larger cities in West Virginia.

The opening events will be the men's and women's pairs, to be played simultaneously Friday, beginning at 8 p. m. The top event, the open pairs, will be played Saturday in two sessions, with the qualifying round slated at 2 p. m. and the finals at 8 p. m.

A special pair event will be played separately during the open pairs finals, the co-directors said.

The sole session Sunday will be an open team of four board-a-match event. Inaugurated several years ago, the event is one of the more popular activities of the tournament.

Fire Drills For Homes Set Next Week

Something very close to everyone's heart is being added to this year's observation of Fire Prevention Week in Maryland,—the home.

Jesse F. Jacobs, Frostburg, deputy state fire marshal, emphasized that a state-wide home fire drill has been planned for Wednesday, October 9, at 7 p. m.

He said it has been proved that exit drills reduce panic and that trained people have a better chance of survival in the event of fire.

The factors for consideration by each family are these:

1. Hold a home conference.
2. Draw a floor plan in your home where the bedrooms are located.
3. Designate on the floor plan important information such as the normal route to safety for each room, an alternate route, locations of doors that can be closed against the spread of fires, windows that can be used as alternate escape routes and porch roofs that can be used for temporary places of safety.
4. Have all members participate in a practice exit drill by using their alternate routes to safety.

Jacobs said all should remember the following safety rules:

1. Keep calm, do not panic.
2. If you smell smoke, arouse the family.
3. Call the fire department, if possible.
4. Close doors against smoke and heat. If the door is closed, test it before you open it by feeling the top part of the door. If the door is hot, do not open it, but seek another way of escape.
5. If the room is filled with smoke, keep down close to the floor where you can breathe better.
6. Never re-enter a burning building.
7. Plan now where the family will assemble after evacuating the home. Notify firemen when everybody is safe.

Fire sirens all over Allegany County will be sounded at 7 p. m. next Wednesday to put the home drill into action.

No Fire Eater

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Paul McAllister, 40, who poured lighter fluid into his mouth and lit it in a tavern "fire-eating" demonstration, underwent emergency surgery Wednesday for severe facial burns.

McAllister, an unemployed factory worker, was showing tavern friends "a special trick" Tuesday night when the lighted match set fire to his face and hands almost simultaneously. Hospital authorities listed his condition as "very critical."

The bison is the largest native American animal now in existence.

New ABL Laboratory Project Progressing

As construction progresses on ABL's new rocket research laboratory and office building, employe interest grows.

The building, according to officials, is 62 per cent completed, and work by the MSI Corporation, Wheaton, is moving along on schedule. Costing $2,968,000, the structure is slated for completion in March, 1964.

Interior metal panels have been installed on the outer walls, lending definite shape to the steel-framed structure. The interior panels are to be covered with insulated, porcelain enamel steel exterior panels.

Construction is now concentrated on the electrical and mechanical phases of the work. Electrical service to the new building is approximately 35 per cent finished, with the work being done by Electrical Contractors Associates, Altoona, under a $38,000 subcontract.

An access road, winding from West Virginia State Route 9 to the rear of the building's parking lot has been surfaced and is completed. The 400-car parking lot and areas around the building have also been finished with macadam.

A reflection pond, located in the area fronting the main entrance, is partially completed. Workers this week were installing plastic piping on the floor of the pond, which will be utilized as a cooling tower for the building's air conditioning system. When completed, the pond will display water sprays around its circumference, adding beauty to the surrounding landscaped area.

The new building itself commands a breath-taking view of the valley below and distant mountains. From the knoll, one can see the plant buildings, the Potomac River, two railroad lines, Maryland Route 220 and other small roads, fields, valleys and mountains.

The second and third floors of the structure will over-hang the first floor, providing a sheltered walkway around the building. Inside the entrance, a lobby and reception room will have terrazzo flooring of concrete and polished marble chips.

The building, which will provide office space for about 730 employees, will house the chemical and physical rocket research and development laboratories, executive offices, Navy offices, and research and development offices. It will also include a cafeteria to seat approximately 300 persons.

Other operating sections to be located in the new structure include Central File, a first aid station, a large drafting room, telephone equipment, a fireproof vault for storing records, and a large conference room.

The ABL Library, with a reading room and library personnel offices, will also be housed in the building.

Strives For Unity

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—The pro-Egyptian newspaper Al Moharrer quoted U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser Wednesday as saying secret contacts have begun between unionist elements throughout the Arab world "in order to create a uniform Arab movement designed to achieve pan-Arab unity."

Nasser, according to Al Moharrer, said, "secrecy is necessary since some Arab countries such as Syria would arrest and persecute those involved if identities were known."

Coins, Guns To Be Shown

The second antique and modern Coin and Gun Show sponsored by the Frostburg Junior Association of Commerce will be held this weekend at the Clarysville Inn, U. S. Route 40.

Alan LaPorta, general chairman for the show, said collections of coins, stamps, gun parts and accessories, ammunition, "or anything old" will be welcomed for exhibit.

He added that show pieces can be bought and sold, traded, or viewed.

The show will be held Saturday from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. and on Sunday from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

LaPorta said that all collectors have been invited to display their collections and that the show will be open to any one. No admission will be charged.

A large area in Clarysville Inn is available for displays, the chairman added.

The first Jaycees - sponsored show was held in May and was termed by Jaycees' officials as "very successful."

Beall Dinner Seen As Sign Of Strength

BALTIMORE (AP)—If that was a wake Tuesday night for Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., there were an awful lot of pallbearers.

They may not have been of the honorary kind, but the rank and file indicated the 69-year-old war horse is not going down without a strong fight for nomination to a third term next year.

In fact, from what the workers in the GOP vineyard said Charles McC. Mathias may think twice about challenging Beall for the nomination next May 19.

Mathias, two-term representative in the House from the same Western Maryland district which Beall served for five terms before going to the Senate, has been seriously sounding out GOP leaders throughout the state as a contender for Beall's seat.

Many of them refused to attend Beall's testimonial dinner for that reason. Among the notable absentees were Theodore R. McKeldin, Baltimore mayor and former governor, and the current GOP state chairman, David Scull.

However, D. Eldred Rinehart, Scull's predecessor, was there at the head table.

He refused on the record to state a preference between Beall and Mathias, but did observe it was the greatest turnout for a $100-ticket GOP affair in 12 years. Dinners were served to 820.

Rinehart also mentioned it would not be a good Republican bargain if they chose Mathias over Beall and then lost the Western Maryland seat in the House to a Democrat.

Among the district GOP leaders questioning whether Mathias could lick Beall in their bailiwicks were State Senators Harry Phoebus of Somerset, George Hughes of Allegany and Samuel Hopkins of Baltimore. While all said they looked with favor upon Mathias, their constituents would not take him over Beall.

"He's a winner," proclaimed Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D. the guest speaker.

"He's not only a most dedicated senator, but also the most competent campaigner."

Lewis Ort, a Cumberland sponsor of the testimonial, declared that while Beall "doesn't make the headlines, he has the greatest service organization on the Hill. We cannot afford to lose this man."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Used To Dial "O" For Revolver In Oklahoma

DRUMRIGHT, Okla. (AP) — Telephone operators in early Oklahoma oil boom towns were hardy types, according to an old memo uncovered by Dale Olsen of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s Tulsa office.

The report, submitted by the late L. J. Bullis, then a telephone company superintendent, after a visit to Drumright in the brawling boom days of 1912, said:

"I do not know the name of the operator who was handling the business in Drumright, but I do know that she had a .45 caliber revolver lying on her keyshelf in plain sight. I asked her if she knew how to use it and she said she did. I also asked her why she had the gun and she said:

" 'If they see it they probably will not try to hold me up . . . and if they attempt to walk out without paying for long distance calls, they come back a little quicker when I speak to them.' "

British Columbia Museum Acquires A Rara Avis

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP) — In a five-for-one swap the Provincial Museum has acquired a specimen of a rare owl, hardly ever seen in Canada.

A 6½-inch stuffed flammulated screech owl now has completed the museum's collection of British Columbia owls.

Museum director Dr. Clifford Carl says no other public museum in the country has such an owl, and there are none in captivity in North America.

This specimen was offered to the museum by R. N. Atkinson, curator of the Penticton, B.C., Museum, after is was found by a logger, George Marshall. The owl dropped—injured—from a tree he had just felled, and it died later

In return, the Penticton Museum received specimens of the Canada jay, redtail hawk, blue grouse, barn owl and peregrine falcon. The Victoria Museum retains other exhibits of these birds.

Motorists Get Oral Reminder

BEREA, Ohio (AP) — Motorists will receive some friendly advice upon entering the Ohio Turnpike during the next few weeks: "Make sure you have enough gasoline."

Entrance plaza personnel are being instructed to issue the reminder orally. Executive Director C. W. Hartford says it's an experiment to try and reduce the number of vehicles stranded on the northern Ohio toll road with dry gasoline tanks.

Turnpike officials have posted reminder signs and are continuing to use them, but Hartford says "results are something less than dramatic."

Lighter Braille Writer Introduced

LOUISVILLE (AP) — The American Printing House for the Blind has produced a lightweight portable Braille writer that was developed over a five-year period. It is three to five pounds lighter and costs $20-$35 less than existing writers.

Officials predicted it would be widely used in blind schools, by blind adults in business and correspondence and by volunteers who transcribe reading materials in Braille for school children.

British Columbia Museum Acquires A Rara Avis

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP) — In a five-for-one swap the Provincial Museum has acquired a specimen of a rare owl, hardly ever seen in Canada.

A 6½-inch stuffed flammulated screech owl now has completed the museum's collection of British Columbia owls.

Museum director Dr. Clifford Carl says no other public museum in the country has such an owl, and there are none in captivity in North America.

This specimen was offered to the museum by R. N. Atkinson, curator of the Penticton, B.C., Museum, after is was found by a logger, George Marshall. The owl dropped—injured—from a tree he had just felled, and it died later

In return, the Penticton Museum received specimens of the Canada jay, redtail hawk, blue grouse, barn owl and peregrine falcon. The Victoria Museum retains other exhibits of these birds.

Motorists Get Oral Reminder

BEREA, Ohio (AP) — Motorists will receive some friendly advice upon entering the Ohio Turnpike during the next few weeks: "Make sure you have enough gasoline."

Entrance plaza personnel are being instructed to issue the reminder orally. Executive Director C. W. Hartford says it's an experiment to try and reduce the number of vehicles stranded on the northern Ohio toll road with dry gasoline tanks.

Turnpike officials have posted reminder signs and are continuing to use them, but Hartford says "results are something less than dramatic."

Volume of trading Oct. 29, 1929 —the day the stock market crashed — totaled 16,410,030 shares in the rush to sell.

Lighter Braille Writer Introduced

LOUISVILLE (AP) — The American Printing House for the Blind has produced a lightweight portable Braille writer that was developed over a five-year period. It is three to five pounds lighter and costs $20-$35 less than existing writers.

Officials predicted it would be widely used in blind schools, by blind adults in business and correspondence and by volunteers who transcribe reading materials in Braille for school children.

What Will Come Of Valachi's Story?

Joseph Valachi is different than scores of hoodlums who have appeared before Congressional committees and clammed. Valachi is an eager informer who sings loud and long. But he is serving a life sentence for murder and, he says, a $100,000 tag has been put on his head by the Cosa Nostra, so perhaps he thinks he has everything to gain and nothing to lose.

He has been spilling information on the activities of the syndicates that control organized crime in the United States to government interrogators for a year. What is surprising is that a simple soldier in the ranks of Cosa Nostra, as he describes himself, could know so many details, including dates and names. Doesn't anybody in that unsavory crowd ever button his lip?

This outfit obviously has violated just about every law on the books time without number, so how could a new law prove effective in wiping it out? Valachi has provided enlightenment and promising leads, as the government says. But law enforcers already possessed abundant knowledge of the methods and personnel of the criminal enterprises that reap fortunes from narcotics, gambling, prostitution and bootlegging. Relatively few important gang leaders have been successfully prosecuted and the crime collectives continue to flourish.

Before Valachi's testimony can bear fruit, the government must still get him before a grand jury and then before a court, and alive on both occasions. And who wants to bet that much will come of it all? What is involved here is not crime alone, but crime linked to corrupt big city politics.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

You Have To Be Rich

Some ten years ago William Buckley, now the well-known editor of that conservative fortnightly of opinion, National Review, raised the roof by suggesting that college undergraduates were being indoctrinated in a new orthodoxy, that of the collectivist "liberal" Left. His basic idea was that, under the guise of "freedom of inquiry," students were being subtly propagandized by professors who had come of distinctly Leftist intellectual age in the disaster period of the Nineteen Thirties.

Mr. Buckley's thesis was based on his own observations and experiences as a college newspaper editor at Yale. It was rejected in many quarters with considerable heat. But in subsequent years scientifically conducted opinion polls attested to the existence of a new Leftist orthodoxy. And the timed emergence of conservative clubs on several campuses, promptly labeled the "right-wing radicalism," was still another indication that the "orthodoxy" of the vast majority of students was "liberal."

Now, as the Right-Left controversy bids fair to erupt from the campus to become the leading issue in a national election, the editors of Mr. Buckley's National Review, in conjunction with the editors of Russell Kirk's "Educational Reviewer," have jointly sponsored a poll that has probed deeply into the political and religious attitudes of the undergraduate student bodies of twelve universities, ranging from big Yale in the East to big Stanford in the West, and from tiny Reed College in Portland, Oregon, to huge Indiana State University in Bloomington, Ind.

To make the poll a truly representative cross-section, the pulse-takers included Sarah Lawrence College, listed as "private, non-sectarian, women's, small, and progressive"; Marquette University, "private, Catholic-supported, co-educational, run by Jesuits"; the University of South Carolina, "state-supported, segregated"; Howard University, "predominantly Negro"; and Brandeis, "founded under Jewish auspices, but non-sectarian." Williams College was included because it is small and rich; Davidson, of North Carolina, because it is "private, Presbyterian-affiliated," and different in several other ways from state-supported Southern universities.

The results of the poll will not come as a surprise to people who were convinced by Mr. Buckley long ago, for they tend to prove all over again that the prevailing campus orthodoxy is "liberal-Left." It could have been taken for granted that "in all but two of the colleges tested," the significant change in undergraduate thinking after freshman year "has been in a liberal"—meaning a collectivist—direction. The exceptions to the rule, not so surprisingly, are Catholic Marquette of Milwaukee, Wisc., and Indiana State University, in the heart of conservative Indiana.

What is really interesting about the poll is not the overall conclusions, but the gradations revealed in special instances. Socialism—meaning an acceptance of "the position that advocates, at the minimum, government ownership of the basic industries—seems most rampant at the colleges which draw their student bodies from the children of rich parents. Thus the pollsters say that "the typical Williams and Sarah Lawrence parent is richer than the Yale man's and the Williams parent appears even more conservative than his Yale counterpart (Williams parents are about 75 per cent Republican, the heaviest Republican figure by far of any of the twelve colleges in the poll). Yet nearly a third of the students at Sarah Lawrence and Williams are socialists . . . thirty-one per cent of the Williams student body favor socialization of steel, railroads, et al . . ."

What this would seem to indicate is that the rich, as a class, do not believe in their system to the extent of seeing to it that their own children learn to take intellectual responsibility for administering inherited steel mills and railroads. Apparently, if the capitalist system is saved, it will be by the sons and daughters of the poor and the moderately affluent. Only eighteen per cent of the Yale students are advocates of government ownership of major industries, as compared to the thirty-one per cent at richer Williams.

Another interesting facet of the poll is that Yale is the only well-to-do school at which "more than seventy per cent of the students would prefer war with the Soviet Union to surrender." In general, "the poorer students" everywhere are more "firmly anti-Communist than wealthier students." The Negro students of Howard, for example, are far readier to go to war with the Soviets rather than surrender than are the far wealthie undergraduates of Sarah Lawrence, Brandeis, and Reed.

Did someone say that you have to grow up on New York's Park Avenue to be a real proletarian? It certainly looks that way.

Practicing For The Big Roundup

Johnson, With Ike's Blessing, First Urged U.S.-Russian Space Effort

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Some military men have short memories. Subrosa brass-hat sniping at President Kennedy's plan for a Russian and an American to reach the moon simultaneously overlook the fact that Kennedy was not the first to propose outer space cooperation.

It was first proposed by Vice President Lyndon Johnson when he was Senate Democratic leader in 1957. He proposed it to the United Nations again in 1958 with the full blessing of President Eisenhower.

It was on November 17, 1958, that Eisenhower requested Johnson to go before the UN as a spokesman for the U.S.A. and call for "the cooperative endeavors toward peaceful uses of outer space." This policy had also been stipulated in a joint resolution by Congress.

"On the goal of dedicating outer space to peaceful purposes for the benefit of all mankind, there are no differences within our government, between our parties, or among our people," Johnson told the UN.

In contrast, some of the brass hats seem to think the Lord created the heavens for their war games.

Mysterious Prayer

There was a moment of quiet drama on the Senate floor the other day when Senator Ken Keating, the white-maned New York Republican, was called on unexpectedly to substitute for the missing chaplain.

Keating delivered a short, inspiring, impromptu prayer, but one line left his fellow Senators agape.

"Wilt Thou be with all the members of the Senate and their families," intoned Keating, "particularly with those who may now be impaired in health or suffering in some manner unknown to their colleagues."

The Senators began asking each other whom Keating had in mind. He refused to identify anyone, except to say he knew privately of two Senators who appear to be in good health but who have need of divine succor.

Real Discrimination

Senate Secretary Vera Rudolph, who works for the Commerce Committee, had an answer the other day for a Negro visitor who had been decrying discriminatory practices against his race.

"I don't think you have it so bad," she said. "I'm an Indian. We used to own the country."

Sen. Ellender's Africa

Sen. Allen Ellender of Louisiana is now getting back at those who criticized his junket through "Darkest Africa."

The Senator is retaliating good-naturedly by inviting all critics to the new Senate Office Building to see the movie reels of his African trip. An assistant stands at the door to see who is present and the Senator himself narrates the film.

"You hired a good narrator," quipped Assistant Secretary of State "Soapy" Williams, the former governor of Michigan now in charge of U. S. African affairs.

"Hey there," replied the Senator from the bayou country.

The pictures were excellent, of professional quality and show some fascinating scenes. The Senator from Louisiana was barred from three African nations because he said Africa was not ready for independence. But in the others he was careful to feature himself in various shots to prove he was there. You see Ellender viewing tribal dances, Ellender in the middle of a classroom of small Negroes, Ellender in front of a log and Ellender in the public square.

The Senator has his own barbs regarding the waste of foreign aid in certain countries such as the Ivory Coast and the superior quality of French colonial administration over the British.

"Did you invite the British ambassador?" asked Soapy Williams.

"No," replied Ellender, "but I invited every African ambassador."

None were in the room.

"I expect they're in New York," comforted Williams. "Most of them double as ambassadors to the U. N."

Kefauver Still Achieves

Sen. Estes Kefauver is continuing to accomplish in death what he failed to achieve in life. He is forcing a clean-up of conflicts of interest in the federal judiciary.

After Joseph Borkin, the former Justice Department attorney published his sensational book, "The Corrupt Judge," Kefauver introduced legislation which would require judges to file any corporate connections; also list their financial holdings with the chief U. S. judge of their circuit. Though the legislation has not yet passed, the Judicial Conference headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, recently issued a directive that federal judges not hold office in corporations for profit.

As a result, U. S. Judge Archie O. Dawson of New York has now resigned as director of the giant Portland Cement Company. Previously, John C. Knox, senior U. S. judge in Manhattan, had resigned as a trustee for the Union Dime Savings Bank.

Another U. S. judge, Casper Platt in eastern Illinois, is director and vice president of the American Savings and Loan Association in Danville. Judge Platt is now absent on a vacation but indications are he will resign when he returns.

GOP Neglecting Issues For Personalities

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — There's something baffling, to say the least, in various conversations one hears nowadays in political circles concerning Senator Barry Goldwater and other possible candidates for the Republican Presidential nomination. It's the oft-repeated question: "Can he win?"

The query somehow reflects a perhaps unintentional appraisal of the actual strength of President Kennedy among the voters. Even the way the question is asked indicates, as a rule, a feeling that the White House incumbent will be a hard man to beat. In fact, there are some Republican observers who privately express doubts whether Mr. Kennedy can really be defeated.

A few months ago this was a rather prevailing view. But, in recent weeks, the tide has seemed to turn, and there are many who now are convinced that Mr. Kennedy can be beaten for re-election.

As for the nomination, a poll just published by "U.S. News & World Report" shows that 71 per cent of the chairmen of Republican state committees who replied to its survey favor Senator Goldwater and that 56 per cent of the Republican National Committeemen who replied also favor him. Among the Republican senators and representatives, 56 per cent of the replies were for Mr. Goldwater.

Over the week end, former President Eisenhower was quoted as having said that Senator Goldwater's views were "unclear" to him, and this was interpreted by some observers not as a statement of tactful neutrality but as a symptom of disapproval. Such comments give rise to further discussions as to whether the Eisenhower support is essential for the victory of a candidate. Ike's support of Richard Nixon didn't prevent a Kennedy victory in 1960, nor would the endorsement of Senator Goldwater by former President Eisenhower today insure the Arizona Senator's victory either at the Republican National Convention or at the polls in November 1964.

There seems to be too much emphasis nowadays on personalities and labels and not enough on issues. Yet basic issues count for more than personalities. This writer, for example, never accepted the thesis that General Eisenhower's personal popularity won him either the nomination or the election. He won the nomination in 1952 because a majority of the convention delegates believed the oft-repeated statement that "Taft couldn't win." The General's position on major issues was relatively unknown at the time to most of the delegates. The election itself that year was won because the country disapproved of the Truman Administration on the three issues of "Korea, communism and corruption," and the Republican Party united behind Mr. Eisenhower.

In 1956, however, a situation existed that is somewhat parallel to what may happen in 1964. The Democrats seven years ago had not made an impressive case against the Eisenhower Administration, and the country, moreover, was in a state of relative contentment on the economic side. This always produces a "no change" psychology.

Today, the Republican speakers have not yet made a convincing case against the Kennedy Administration. They have spent so much of their time arguing about "conservatives" and "liberals," "radical right" and "radical left," that they have not gotten across to the country just why there should be a change of administration in Washington.

Senator Goldwater has probably said more against the Kennedy Administration than any of the other men mentioned for the Republican nomination. But he has been promptly assailed not so much by Democrats as by Republicans who would like somebody else nominated. All this has furnished grist for the Democratic Party's mill.

What arguments have the Republicans neglected? Government funds, for instance, are being used more for political purposes today than perhaps in any other period in recent history, but the Republicans have not made a crusade on this issue. The alliance between the administration and the labor unions has been conspicuous and has had its effect on the economic life of the country, resulting in costly strikes or wage rises that are higher than can be absorbed by increased prices. The Republican speakers have not tackled the issue with any vigor, nor have they revealed the manner in which labor-union members finance campaigns and how the union leaders insist that senators and representatives who get such benefits should support their legislation. The economic future of the country is related to a balanced budget and a sound dollar, but the voters have not begun to understand the implications of continuing deficits in the treasury.

International policies are a risky basis for political campaigns because conditions can change overnight. The chances are that, in the next campaign, the Republicans, while taking advantage of every opportunity to attack the handling of the Cuban problem and other aspects of foreign policy, will really try to win the election on the basis of domestic issues, particularly on the economic side.

If the voters are in the mood for a change of administration, the personality of a candidate or, for instance, his so-called pulling power on television will be secondary. The verdict will hinge on whether the country has decided that almost anyone nominated by the Republican Party would be better than the incumbent. The Republicans, in short, have not yet begun to make their case for a change of administration.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

GLOOMY — The current mood of liberal Republicans in Washington is one of gloomy depression. They can't see how Sen. Barry Goldwater can be stopped from capturing the GOP presidential nomination next year.

Despite the efforts of these leaders, the "stop Goldwater" movement hasn't gotten off the ground. Principal reason for this is the failure of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to get any steam behind his own renewed drive for Republican Convention delegates.

Republican liberals were hopeful that Rockefeller would win over at least sufficient delegate pledges which, when added to those tied to favorite sons and those unpledged, would keep Goldwater from going into the convention with a clear majority in his pocket.

Rockefeller appears to be rejected by much of the rank and file Republican vote that would have supported him except for his divorce and remarriage. As of now, his last hope is to garner some impressive vote totals in states that have early presidential primary elections. But, according to liberal Republicans who watch such things, even this is a forlorn and long-odds hope.

Meanwhile, Goldwater goes merrily along, making speeches and advocating his conservative, anti-big-city philosophy that has made him so personally popular in large sections of the West and South.

These portents of which way the political winds are blowing will of themselves add to Goldwater's strength if something unforeseen doesn't inject itself into the politcal situation. It's an old political axiom that you can't beat someone with no one. Politicians like to be on the winning side. And if something doesn't happen soon, they'll jump on the bandwagon just to be aboard although they know he'll have a tough time winning against Kennedy in November 1964.

New Literary Form

By John Crosby

LONDON

Lord Beaverbrook's Express is the only newspaper to my knowledge which has reviewed Lord Denning's report (on Christine Keeler and all that) as literature, which is the way it should be reviewed. But the Express reviewer missed the point. He inspected the book as if it were a novel, which it isn't. It's as if the first critic had reviewed "Tom Jones" as an epic poem and decided it wasn't a very good one.

"Tom Jones" was a whole new literary form and so is Lord Denning's report. Every time I come to England, there is another of these pale blue reports emblazoned with the lion and the unicorn, "presented to Parliament by the Prime Minister by command of Her Majesty" (you can't beat those auspices), sold in Her Majesty's Stationery Office. The last time it was the Vassall report—crammed with sexuality, intrigue, espionage, violence, lords and ladies, buffoons, high adventures, low comedy, and mystery.

I don't know how the novelists are going to compete with this sensational new literary form and as a matter of fact they aren't. Lord Denning's report sold 100,000 copies in the first couple of days, which "Gone With the Wind" never managed to do. The novel is a fairly recent development in literature and perhaps it's on the way out. The Parliamentary report (or Congressional) is more attuned to the realities of modern communications. It's more actual, more a throb with the pulse of life. And nothing ever got the advance publicity, including "Cleopatra."

Lord Denning plunges you right into the affair: This is paragraph one. Chapter 1:

"The story must start with Stephen Ward, aged 50. The son of a clergyman, by profession he was an osteopath. His skill was considerable and he included among his patients many well-known people. He was also an accomplished portrait artist . . . He had a quick and easy manner of conversation which attracted some but repelled others. It pleased him to meet people in high places, and he was prone to exaggerate his acquaintanceship with them. Yet he was utterly immoral . . . In money matters he was improvident . . . Finally, he admired the Soviet regime and sympathized with the Communists."

As characterization the first three paragraphs will stand comparison with a good many of the characters you encounter in Thackeray's "Vanity Fair." The whole report reads a bit like "Vanity Fair." We read "Vanity Fair" to find out what life was like in the nineteenth century and Fielding to find out how society operated in the eighteenth century. But the Denning report is a much better mirror of our times for the average reader in the twenty-fifth century than John Osborne or Jack Kerouas or Ionesco or any other contemporary writer I know.

It shows what is important in our society — power and publicity —and how to get them. There's a sub-heading on "Name Dropping," which, I imagine, would be of enormous value to anthropologists in the twenty-fifth century. When you finish the work, you know a great deal about how the British government is supposed to operate but doesn't.

It shows the erosion of Christine's character by publicity and greed: it shows how men panic under stress just as they do in war novels, making mistakes that plunge themselves and their country into terrible trials, just as you find in the best of literature.

The progression of a little drop of scandal to a roaring cataract is all there in the chapter headings. "She (Christine) Tells It To Mr. John Lewis" (at a cocktail party), "She Tells It To the Press," "She Tells the Police." (That's the way it goes, the press first, then the police.) Then, as the cataract gets worse, "The Lawyers Are Called In," "The Solicitor-General Comes in." "The Matter Is Raised in the House (of Commons)," finally "The Prime Minister."

It's modern tragedy with a strong Gothic element of comedy as is the modern style. And there are no heroes. And that's very much in the modern tradition, too.

Annoying Noises Linger In Meniere's Disease

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

A 58-year old Brooklyn man had a rude awakening about three weeks ago. He writes: "I got up from bed and discovered I could not hear. I was so dizzy it was impossible to stand, my left ear was ringing, and I was perspiring profusely. The doctor said it is Meniere's disease and gave me some pills. I'm improving except that the noise in the left ear is still present. Tell me, doctor, is there a cure for this disease?"

The majority get well but there is no way of predicting whether there will be a recurrence. Dizziness may last 5 minutes and disappear forever or come and go over a period of weeks or months. Hearing may be distorted and distressing sounds are noted in the affected ear, which are described as grinding, roaring, humming, or an interplay of whistles and bells. Nausea and vomiting also occur when dizziness is marked.

The labyrinth of the ear is involved in Meniere's syndrome. This structure plays a role in maintaining balance in addition to functioning as part of the hearing apparatus. The cause of Meniere's is not known except that the circulation is disturbed or there is increased tension of the fluid going through the semicircular canals. In some instances, symptoms are preceded by a cold, whereas in others a toxic state exists. The individual may sway like an intoxicated person.

Vertigo often is relieved by motion sickness remedies such as Dramamine, Bonine, and Marezine as well as by older drugs such as Benadryl, atropine, or scopolamine. Nicotinic acid or other vasodilators help improve circulation.

Diuretics, such as those used to treat dropsy, are of value in decreasing excessive fluid within the ear canals. This is the rationale for omitting salt from the diet. Dizziness usually disappears first. The hearing aspects are less distressing at the time but often prove more annoying in the long run, as our Brooklyn reader has discovered.

If symptoms do not respond to conservative treatment, surgery is available. More recently, ultrasonic surgery has been used to destroy the involved structures.

Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on Meniere's disease if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

SMILING INFANT

Mrs. D. writes: Babies first smile at the mother when they are 1 or 2 months old, I am told. What, then, makes them smile in their sleep before this age?

REPLY

The facial muscles, like other muscles, contract during sleep. What appears to be a smile occurs when the corners of the mouth go up.

TENDER TO THE TOUCH

I. Z. writes: Why do my flesh and bones get painful when they are in contact with anything? This occurs especially if my legs and feet touch the chair.

REPLY

This is a puzzling situation. It may be that the skin is overly sensitive because of neuritis.

TOMORROW: Atrophied nasal membranes.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

P. G. Wodehouse, extolling the virtues of the once perfect, but now practically extinct English butlers, tells about one who presided over a mansion in Ireland. One day a gang of Sinn Feiners descended upon the place, and battered down the front door with axes. Inside the butler awaited them to tell them austerely, "His Lordship is not at home." They wrecked the house from cellar to attic, and finally set fire to it. On leaving, they found the butler still standing statuesquely in the hall. Flames were everywhere, and ceilings were crashing down, but the butler stopped the mob to ask, "Who shall I say called, gentlemen?"

The volunteer fire department in a certain Westchester community suffers from a chronic lack of funds. This year there's a genuine crisis. "Now, when the fire alarm goes off," mourns the Chief, "we have to rush down to Hertz or Avis and rent a truck!"

A famous trainer at the Cain Hoy stables was asked his master plan for winning races. "It's easy enough," nodded the trainer. "All a jockey has to do is get his horse out in front at the starting gate—and keep improving his position from there on."

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

Many American cities report tree leaves are falling two weeks earlier than usual. The bright side of this is that maybe we'll—for once—get our raking chores finished before it's time to haul out the snow shovel.

Singing can raise one's blood pressure, we read. Our experience is that it can also do the same for the person who has to listen to it.

A wedding was recently performed in an Italian cave, 441 feet below the surface. Oddly enough, the happy couple weren't trying to keep their marriage a dark secret.

A team of British experimenters are trying to create larger hogs by making the grunters stretch in order to reach their food. Horrible thought: supposing all that exercise just makes the porkers skinnier, and their meat a lot tougher?

One of Tasmania's oddest creatures is the pseudo-lizard—nature item. Sounds like a refugee from the Land of Make-Believe.

Having noted that all those TV comedians are back on the tube after their summer vacation, Milt, the sterling printer, says there's nothing we can do about it but grin and bear it.

What Will Come Of Valachi's Story?

Joseph Valachi is different than scores of hoodlums who have appeared before Congressional committees and clammed. Valachi is an eager informer who sings loud and long. But he is serving a life sentence for murder and, he says, a $100,000 tag has been put on his head by the Cosa Nostra, so perhaps he thinks he has everything to gain and nothing to lose.

He has been spilling information on the activities of the syndicates that control organized crime in the United States to government interrogators for a year. What is surprising is that a simple soldier in the ranks of Cosa Nostra, as he describes himself, could know so many details, including dates and names. Doesn't anybody in that unsavory crowd ever button his lip?

This outfit obviously has violated just about every law on the books time without number, so how could a new law prove effective in wiping it out? Valachi has provided enlightenment and promising leads, as the government says. But law enforcers already possessed abundant knowledge of the methods and personnel of the criminal enterprises that reap fortunes from narcotics, gambling, prostitution and bootlegging. Relatively few important gang leaders have been successfully prosecuted and the crime collectives continue to flourish.

Before Valachi's testimony can bear fruit, the government must still get him before a grand jury and then before a court, and alive on both occasions. And who wants to bet that much will come of it all? What is involved here is not crime alone, but crime linked to corrupt big city politics.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

You Have To Be Rich

Some ten years ago William Buckley, now the well-known editor of that conservative fortnightly of opinion, National Review, raised the roof by suggesting that college undergraduates were being indoctrinated in a new orthodoxy, that of the collectivist "liberal" Left. His basic idea was that, under the guise of "freedom of inquiry," students were being subtly propagandized by professors who had come of distinctly Leftist intellectual age in the disaster period of the Nineteen Thirties.

Mr. Buckley's thesis was based on his own observations and experiences as a college newspaper editor at Yale. It was rejected in many quarters with considerable heat. But in subsequent years scientifically conducted opinion polls attested to the existence of a new Leftist orthodoxy. And the timed emergence of conservative clubs on several campuses, promptly labeled the "right-wing radicalism," was still another indication that the "orthodoxy" of the vast majority of students was "liberal."

Now, as the Right-Left controversy bids fair to erupt from the campus to become the leading issue in a national election, the editors of Mr. Buckley's National Review, in conjunction with the editors of Russell Kirk's "Educational Reviewer," have jointly sponsored a poll that has probed deeply into the political and religious attitudes of the undergraduate student bodies of twelve universities, ranging from big Yale in the East to big Stanford in the West, and from tiny Reed College in Portland, Oregon, to huge Indiana State University in Bloomington, Ind.

To make the poll a truly representative cross-section, the pulse-takers included Sarah Lawrence College, listed as "private, non-sectarian, women's, small, and progressive"; Marquette University, "private, Catholic-supported, co-educational, run by Jesuits"; the University of South Carolina, "state-supported, segregated"; Howard University, "predominantly Negro"; and Brandeis, "founded under Jewish auspices, but non-sectarian." Williams College was included because it is small and rich; Davidson, of North Carolina, because it is "private, Presbyterian-affiliated," and different in several other ways from state-supported Southern universities.

The results of the poll will not come as a surprise to people who were convinced by Mr. Buckley long ago, for they tend to prove all over again that the prevailing campus orthodoxy is "liberal-Left." It could have been taken for granted that "in all but two of the colleges tested," the significant change in undergraduate thinking after freshman year "has been in a liberal"—meaning a collectivist—direction. The exceptions to the rule, not so surprisingly, are Catholic Marquette of Milwaukee, Wisc., and Indiana State University, in the heart of conservative Indiana.

What is really interesting about the poll is not the overall conclusions, but the gradations revealed in special instances. Socialism—meaning an acceptance of "the position that advocates, at the minimum, government ownership of the basic industries—seems most rampant at the colleges which draw their student bodies from the children of rich parents. Thus the pollsters say that "the typical Williams and Sarah Lawrence parent is richer than the Yale man's and the Williams parent appears even more conservative than his Yale counterpart (Williams parents are about 75 per cent Republican, the heaviest Republican figure by far of any of the twelve colleges in the poll). Yet nearly a third of the students at Sarah Lawrence and Williams are socialists . . . thirty-one per cent of the Williams student body favor socialization of steel, railroads, et al . . ."

What this would seem to indicate is that the rich, as a class, do not believe in their system to the extent of seeing to it that their own children learn to take intellectual responsibility for administering inherited steel mills and railroads. Apparently, if the capitalist system is saved, it will be by the sons and daughters of the poor and the moderately affluent. Only eighteen per cent of the Yale students are advocates of government ownership of major industries, as compared to the thirty-one per cent at richer Williams.

Another interesting facet of the poll is that Yale is the only well-to-do school at which "more than seventy per cent of the students would prefer war with the Soviet Union to surrender." In general, "the poorer students" everywhere are more "firmly anti-Communist than wealthier students." The Negro students of Howard, for example, are far readier to go to war with the Soviets rather than surrender than are the far wealthie undergraduates of Sarah Lawrence, Brandeis, and Reed.

Did someone say that you have to grow up on New York's Park Avenue to be a real proletarian? It certainly looks that way.

Practicing For The Big Roundup

Johnson, With Ike's Blessing, First Urged U.S.-Russian Space Effort

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Some military men have short memories. Subrosa brass-hat sniping at President Kennedy's plan for a Russian and an American to reach the moon simultaneously overlook the fact that Kennedy was not the first to propose outer space cooperation.

It was first proposed by Vice President Lyndon Johnson when he was Senate Democratic leader in 1957. He proposed it to the United Nations again in 1958 with the full blessing of President Eisenhower.

It was on November 17, 1958, that Eisenhower requested Johnson to go before the UN as a spokesman for the U.S.A. and call for "the cooperative endeavors toward peaceful uses of outer space." This policy had also been stipulated in a joint resolution by Congress.

"On the goal of dedicating outer space to peaceful purposes for the benefit of all mankind, there are no differences within our government, between our parties, or among our people," Johnson told the UN.

In contrast, some of the brass hats seem to think the Lord created the heavens for their war games.

Mysterious Prayer

There was a moment of quiet drama on the Senate floor the other day when Senator Ken Keating, the white-maned New York Republican, was called on unexpectedly to substitute for the missing chaplain.

Keating delivered a short, inspiring, impromptu prayer, but one line left his fellow Senators agape.

"Wilt Thou be with all the members of the Senate and their families," intoned Keating, "particularly with those who may now be impaired in health or suffering in some manner unknown to their colleagues."

The Senators began asking each other whom Keating had in mind. He refused to identify anyone, except to say he knew privately of two Senators who appear to be in good health but who have need of divine succor.

Real Discrimination

Senate Secretary Vera Rudolph, who works for the Commerce Committee, had an answer the other day for a Negro visitor who had been decrying discriminatory practices against his race.

"I don't think you have it so bad," she said. "I'm an Indian. We used to own the country."

Sen. Ellender's Africa

Sen. Allen Ellender of Louisiana is now getting back at those who criticized his junket through "Darkest Africa."

The Senator is retaliating good-naturedly by inviting all critics to the new Senate Office Building to see the movie reels of his African trip. An assistant stands at the door to see who is present and the Senator himself narrates the film.

"You hired a good narrator," quipped Assistant Secretary of State "Soapy" Williams, the former governor of Michigan now in charge of U. S. African affairs.

"Hey there," replied the Senator from the bayou country.

The pictures were excellent, of professional quality and show some fascinating scenes. The Senator from Louisiana was barred from three African nations because he said Africa was not ready for independence. But in the others he was careful to feature himself in various shots to prove he was there. You see Ellender viewing tribal dances, Ellender in the middle of a classroom of small Negroes, Ellender in front of a log and Ellender in the public square.

The Senator has his own barbs regarding the waste of foreign aid in certain countries such as the Ivory Coast and the superior quality of French colonial administration over the British.

"Did you invite the British ambassador?" asked Soapy Williams.

"No," replied Ellender, "but I invited every African ambassador."

None were in the room.

"I expect they're in New York," comforted Williams. "Most of them double as ambassadors to the U. N."

Kefauver Still Achieves

Sen. Estes Kefauver is continuing to accomplish in death what he failed to achieve in life. He is forcing a clean-up of conflicts of interest in the federal judiciary.

After Joseph Borkin, the former Justice Department attorney published his sensational book, "The Corrupt Judge," Kefauver introduced legislation which would require judges to file any corporate connections; also list their financial holdings with the chief U. S. judge of their circuit. Though the legislation has not yet passed, the Judicial Conference headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, recently issued a directive that federal judges not hold office in corporations for profit.

As a result, U. S. Judge Archie O. Dawson of New York has now resigned as director of the giant Portland Cement Company. Previously, John C. Knox, senior U. S. judge in Manhattan, had resigned as a trustee for the Union Dime Savings Bank.

Another U. S. judge, Casper Platt in eastern Illinois, is director and vice president of the American Savings and Loan Association in Danville. Judge Platt is now absent on a vacation but indications are he will resign when he returns.

GOP Neglecting Issues For Personalities

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — There's something baffling, to say the least, in various conversations one hears nowadays in political circles concerning Senator Barry Goldwater and other possible candidates for the Republican Presidential nomination. It's the oft-repeated question: "Can he win?"

The query somehow reflects a perhaps unintentional appraisal of the actual strength of President Kennedy among the voters. Even the way the question is asked indicates, as a rule, a feeling that the White House incumbent will be a hard man to beat. In fact, there are some Republican observers who privately express doubts whether Mr. Kennedy can really be defeated.

A few months ago this was a rather prevailing view. But, in recent weeks, the tide has seemed to turn, and there are many who now are convinced that Mr. Kennedy can be beaten for re-election.

As for the nomination, a poll just published by "U.S. News & World Report" shows that 71 per cent of the chairmen of Republican state committees who replied to its survey favor Senator Goldwater and that 56 per cent of the Republican National Committeemen who replied also favor him. Among the Republican senators and representatives, 56 per cent of the replies were for Mr. Goldwater.

Over the week end, former President Eisenhower was quoted as having said that Senator Goldwater's views were "unclear" to him, and this was interpreted by some observers not as a statement of tactful neutrality but as a symptom of disapproval. Such comments give rise to further discussions as to whether the Eisenhower support is essential for the victory of a candidate. Ike's support of Richard Nixon didn't prevent a Kennedy victory in 1960, nor would the endorsement of Senator Goldwater by former President Eisenhower today insure the Arizona Senator's victory either at the Republican National Convention or at the polls in November 1964.

There seems to be too much emphasis nowadays on personalities and labels and not enough on issues. Yet basic issues count for more than personalities. This writer, for example, never accepted the thesis that General Eisenhower's personal popularity won him either the nomination or the election. He won the nomination in 1952 because a majority of the convention delegates believed the oft-repeated statement that "Taft couldn't win." The General's position on major issues was relatively unknown at the time to most of the delegates. The election itself that year was won because the country disapproved of the Truman Administration on the three issues of "Korea, communism and corruption," and the Republican Party united behind Mr. Eisenhower.

In 1956, however, a situation existed that is somewhat parallel to what may happen in 1964. The Democrats seven years ago had not made an impressive case against the Eisenhower Administration, and the country, moreover, was in a state of relative contentment on the economic side. This always produces a "no change" psychology.

Today, the Republican speakers have not yet made a convincing case against the Kennedy Administration. They have spent so much of their time arguing about "conservatives" and "liberals," "radical right" and "radical left," that they have not gotten across to the country just why there should be a change of administration in Washington.

Senator Goldwater has probably said more against the Kennedy Administration than any of the other men mentioned for the Republican nomination. But he has been promptly assailed not so much by Democrats as by Republicans who would like somebody else nominated. All this has furnished grist for the Democratic Party's mill.

What arguments have the Republicans neglected? Government funds, for instance, are being used more for political purposes today than perhaps in any other period in recent history, but the Republicans have not made a crusade on this issue. The alliance between the administration and the labor unions has been conspicuous and has had its effect on the economic life of the country, resulting in costly strikes or wage rises that are higher than can be absorbed by increased prices. The Republican speakers have not tackled the issue with any vigor, nor have they revealed the manner in which labor-union members finance campaigns and how the union leaders insist that senators and representatives who get such benefits should support their legislation. The economic future of the country is related to a balanced budget and a sound dollar, but the voters have not begun to understand the implications of continuing deficits in the treasury.

International policies are a risky basis for political campaigns because conditions can change overnight. The chances are that, in the next campaign, the Republicans, while taking advantage of every opportunity to attack the handling of the Cuban problem and other aspects of foreign policy, will really try to win the election on the basis of domestic issues, particularly on the economic side.

If the voters are in the mood for a change of administration, the personality of a candidate or, for instance, his so-called pulling power on television will be secondary. The verdict will hinge on whether the country has decided that almost anyone nominated by the Republican Party would be better than the incumbent. The Republicans, in short, have not yet begun to make their case for a change of administration.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

GLOOMY — The current mood of liberal Republicans in Washington is one of gloomy depression. They can't see how Sen. Barry Goldwater can be stopped from capturing the GOP presidential nomination next year.

Despite the efforts of these leaders, the "stop Goldwater" movement hasn't gotten off the ground. Principal reason for this is the failure of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to get any steam behind his own renewed drive for Republican Convention delegates.

Republican liberals were hopeful that Rockefeller would win over at least sufficient delegate pledges which, when added to those tied to favorite sons and those unpledged, would keep Goldwater from going into the convention with a clear majority in his pocket.

Rockefeller appears to be rejected by much of the rank and file Republican vote that would have supported him except for his divorce and remarriage. As of now, his last hope is to garner some impressive vote totals in states that have early presidential primary elections. But, according to liberal Republicans who watch such things, even this is a forlorn and long-odds hope.

Meanwhile, Goldwater goes merrily along, making speeches and advocating his conservative, anti-big-city philosophy that has made him so personally popular in large sections of the West and South.

These portents of which way the political winds are blowing will of themselves add to Goldwater's strength if something unforeseen doesn't inject itself into the politcal situation. It's an old political axiom that you can't beat someone with no one. Politicians like to be on the winning side. And if something doesn't happen soon, they'll jump on the bandwagon just to be aboard although they know he'll have a tough time winning against Kennedy in November 1964.

New Literary Form

LONDON

Lord Beaverbrook's Express is the only newspaper to my knowledge which has reviewed Lord Denning's report (on Christine Keeler and all that) as literature, which is the way it should be reviewed. But the Express reviewer missed the point. He inspected the book as if it were a novel, which it isn't. It's as if the first critic had reviewed "Tom Jones" as an epic poem and decided it wasn't a very good one.

"Tom Jones" was a whole new literary form and so is Lord Denning's report. Every time I come to England, there is another of these pale blue reports emblazoned with the lion and the unicorn, "presented to Parliament by the Prime Minister by command of Her Majesty" (you can't beat those auspices), sold in Her Majesty's Stationery Office. The last time it was the Vassall report—crammed with sexuality, intrigue, espionage, violence, lords and ladies, buffoons, high adventures, low comedy, and mystery.

I don't know how the novelists are going to compete with this sensational new literary form and as a matter of fact they aren't. Lord Denning's report sold 100,000 copies in the first couple of days, which "Gone With the Wind" never managed to do. The novel is a fairly recent development in literature and perhaps it's on the way out. The Parliamentary report (or Congressional) is more attuned to the realities of modern communications. It's more actual, more a throb with the pulse of life. And nothing ever got the advance publicity, including "Cleopatra."

Lord Denning plunges you right into the affair: This is paragraph one. Chapter 1:

"The story must start with Stephen Ward, aged 50. The son of a clergyman, by profession he was an osteopath. His skill was considerable and he included among his patients many well-known people. He was also an accomplished portrait artist . . . He had a quick and easy manner of conversation which attracted some but repelled others. It pleased him to meet people in high places, and he was prone to exaggerate his acquaintanceship with them. Yet he was utterly immoral . . . In money matters he was improvident . . . Finally, he admired the Soviet regime and sympathized with the Communists."

As characterization the first three paragraphs will stand comparison with a good many of the characters you encounter in Thackeray's "Vanity Fair." The whole report reads a bit like "Vanity Fair." We read "Vanity Fair" to find out what life was like in the nineteenth century and Fielding to find out how society operated in the eighteenth century. But the Denning report is a much better mirror of our times for the average reader in the twenty-fifth century than John Osborne or Jack Kerouas or Ionesco or any other contemporary writer I know.

It shows what is important in our society — power and publicity —and how to get them. There's a sub-heading on "Name Dropping," which, I imagine, would be of enormous value to anthropologists in the twenty-fifth century. When you finish the work, you know a great deal about how the British government is supposed to operate but doesn't.

It shows the erosion of Christine's character by publicity and greed: it shows how men panic under stress just as they do in war novels, making mistakes that plunge themselves and their country into terrible trials, just as you find in the best of literature.

The progression of a little drop of scandal to a roaring cataract is all there in the chapter headings. "She (Christine) Tells It To Mr. John Lewis" (at a cocktail party), "She Tells It To the Press," "She Tells the Police." (That's the way it goes, the press first, then the police.) Then, as the cataract gets worse, "The Lawyers Are Called In," "The Solicitor-General Comes in." "The Matter Is Raised in the House (of Commons)," finally "The Prime Minister."

It's modern tragedy with a strong Gothic element of comedy as is the modern style. And there are no heroes. And that's very much in the modern tradition, too.

Annoying Noises Linger In Meniere's Disease

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

A 58-year old Brooklyn man had a rude awakening about three weeks ago. He writes: "I got up from bed and discovered I could not hear. I was so dizzy it was impossible to stand, my left ear was ringing, and I was perspiring profusely. The doctor said it is Meniere's disease and gave me some pills. I'm improving except that the noise in the left ear is still present. Tell me, doctor, is there a cure for this disease?"

The majority get well but there is no way of predicting whether there will be a recurrence. Dizziness may last 5 minutes and disappear forever or come and go over a period of weeks or months. Hearing may be distorted and distressing sounds are noted in the affected ear, which are described as grinding, roaring, humming, or an interplay of whistles and bells. Nausea and vomiting also occur when dizziness is marked.

The labyrinth of the ear is involved in Meniere's syndrome. This structure plays a role in maintaining balance in addition to functioning as part of the hearing apparatus. The cause of Meniere's is not known except that the circulation is disturbed or there is increased tension of the fluid going through the semicircular canals. In some instances, symptoms are preceded by a cold, whereas in others a toxic state exists. The individual may sway like an intoxicated person.

Vertigo often is relieved by motion sickness remedies such as Dramamine, Bonine, and Marezine as well as by older drugs such as Benadryl, atropine, or scopolamine. Nicotinic acid or other vasodilators help improve circulation.

Diuretics, such as those used to treat dropsy, are of value in decreasing excessive fluid within the ear canals. This is the rationale for omitting salt from the diet. Dizziness usually disappears first. The hearing aspects are less distressing at the time but often prove more annoying in the long run, as our Brooklyn reader has discovered.

If symptoms do not respond to conservative treatment, surgery is available. More recently, ultrasonic surgery has been used to destroy the involved structures.

Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on Meniere's disease if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

SMILING INFANT

Mrs. D. writes: Babies first smile at the mother when they are 1 or 2 months old, I am told. What, then, makes them smile in their sleep before this age?

REPLY

The facial muscles, like other muscles, contract during sleep. What appears to be a smile occurs when the corners of the mouth go up.

TENDER TO THE TOUCH

I. Z. writes: Why do my flesh and bones get painful when they are in contact with anything? This occurs especially if my legs and feet touch the chair.

REPLY

This is a puzzling situation. It may be that the skin is overly sensitive because of neuritis.

TOMORROW: Atrophied nasal membranes.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

P. G. Wodehouse, extolling the virtues of the once perfect, but now practically extinct English butlers, tells about one who presided over a mansion in Ireland. One day a gang of Sinn Feiners descended upon the place, and battered down the front door with axes. Inside the butler awaited them to tell them austerely, "His Lordship is not at home." They wrecked the house from cellar to attic, and finally set fire to it. On leaving, they found the butler still standing statuesquely in the hall. Flames were everywhere, and ceilings were crashing down, but the butler stopped the mob to ask, "Who shall I say called, gentlemen?"

The volunteer fire department in a certain Westchester community suffers from a chronic lack of funds. This year there's a genuine crisis. "Now, when the fire alarm goes off," mourns the Chief, "we have to rush down to Hertz or Avis and rent a truck!"

A famous trainer at the Cain Hoy stables was asked his master plan for winning races. "It's easy enough," nodded the trainer. "All a jockey has to do is get his horse out in front at the starting gate—and keep improving his position from there on."

Roasting On Rotisserie Has Many Possibilities

Cooking in the wide outdoors has captured the fancy of fresh air fans across the country. Who can resist the wonderful flavor of meat prepared over the coals? Luckily, modern barbecue equipment streamlines preparation tasks and makes it possible to grill a wide range of foods.

If your grill has a rotisserie attachment, you can add many roasts to your list of outdoor foods: Beef rib eye roast, rolled rib, rolled rump roast (high quality), pork rolled loin roast, smoked ham roll, and lamb rolled leg or shoulder. Spareribs may also be barbecued on the revolving spit. Add a tumbling basket to your rotisserie, and many more foods may be prepared.

Next time you're pondering which of these meat cuts to choose, select a boneless pork roast. Since pork takes so well to fruit sauces and glazes, you can give the roast special appeal with a honey-orange glaze. Brush it on the meat during the last ½ hour of cooking. Remember to roast pork to an internal temperature of 185° F.

To make the glaze, simply melt 2 tablespoons butter and add ¼ cup frozen orange juice concentrate and ½ cup honey.

Rotisserie Cooking Tips

Roasts should be as regular in shape as possible. Insert the rod, lengthwise, through the center of the roast and test for balance by rotating in the palms of your hands.

Insert prongs into meat and tighten screws. You may wish to secure the meat with string as well. The roast should turn only with the rod.

A meat thermometer is a necessity because of the many variables in outdoor cooking time. Insert the thermometer at a slight angle, so the tip is near the center of the roast but not resting in fat, on bone or on the rotisserie rod.

Be sure to start the fire far enough in advance so that the briquets are covered with a light gray ash when cooking begins. Arrange lighted briquets at the rear of fire bowl and knock off the gray ash. Place a drip pan under the meat.

For even, moderate temperature, start with a small amount of briquets and add more as needed. After cooking starts, adjust the position of the drip pan to catch juices.

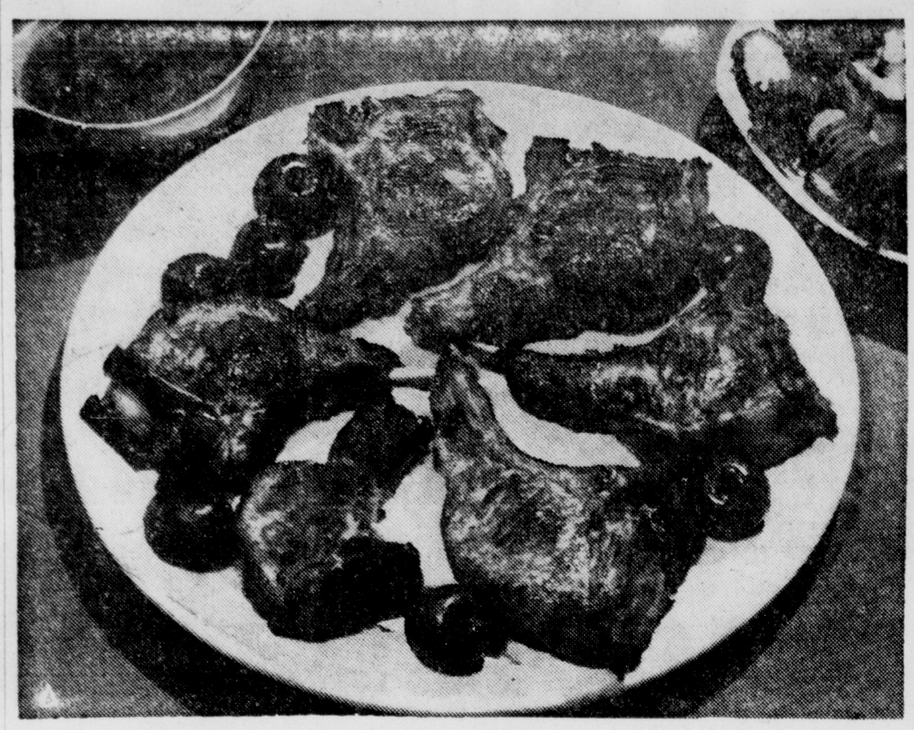
Pork Chops Have Gourmet Touch



There's a tasty surprise revealed within these plump pork chops. It's a Mozzarella cheese stuffing that's specially seasoned with a touch of oregano, basil and soy sauce. The chops require about 1 hour cooking time in a covered frying-pan.

An old Oriental saying goes, "No day is well spent without a guest in the home." Why put it off? Why not invite those friends over for dinner now?

Here's a dinner main dish that boasts a gourmet touch, yet is quite simple to prepare. Certainly it does not involve long preparation. It is Cheese-Stuffed Pork Chops.

The stuffing, is a savory combination of Mozzarella cheese mixed with fine soft bread crumbs and artfully seasoned with oregano, basil and soy sauce.

For stuffing pork rib chops are best. Cutting the pork chop for stuffing is a simple matter. Just remember to cut the pocket along the bone of the chop.

Use a sharp knife and cut a pocket in each chop, making sure you don't cut through the fat edge.

Fill the pocket with stuffing, then brown first and cook slowly in a covered fryingpan on the range or in a moderate oven (350° F.)

Numerous stuffings compliment the flavor of pork. Apple-raisin, prune and apricot, onion and bread are all favorites. Here's another idea. Stuff the chops with a caper combination.

Here's how to prepare the Caper stuffing. First, combine 2 cups of toasted fine bread crumbs (3 slices) with ¼ cup finely chopped onion.

To this mixture add ½ teaspoon prepared mustard, 2 tablespoons capers, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 egg and ½ cup milk.

Mix ingredients thoroughly, then fill the pockets of 6 rib pork chops cut 1 inch thick. Brown the chops on both sides, then cover and simmer for 1 hour.

Cheese-Stuffed Pork Chops

6 rib pork chops, cut 1 to 1½ inches thick with pockets for stuffing
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1½ cups grated Mozzarella cheese
¼ teaspoon leaf oregano
¼ teaspoon leaf basil
½ teaspoon soy sauce
1 tablespoon water
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup water

Combine bread crumbs, Mozzarella cheese, oregano, basil, soy sauce and 1 tablespoon water. Fill pockets in pork chops with stuffing. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season with salt and pepper. Add ¼ cup water and cover tightly. Simmer for 1 hour or until done. 6 servings.

Pastry with shredded coconut added to it is great to use as the sheel for a creamstyle pie filling.

Wise Shoppers Learn New Meat Cuts

To buy wisely, learn a new meat cut every time you go to your market. The average homemaker can name only a few popular cuts, leaving many she never prepares.

If you don't know a cut, ask your meat man. He'll be glad to help you. You'll be repaid in more interesting, thriftier meals to please your family.

Curry Burgers Extra Zesty

Give ground beef this seasoning if you want to use it for unusual flavors.

Cury Burgers

1 pound ground beef
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
1½ teaspoons curry powder
¾ teaspoon onion powder

Mix together the beef, salt, pepper, cury powder and onion powder.

Form into 3 large or 4 small patties. Brown rapidly on both sides in a small amount of fat or oil; reduce heat and cook to desired oneness, turning to cook evenly if necessary.

Remove from skillet; add a very little stock or water to pan and stir to get up drippings; make very hot and pour over burgers.

Roasting On Rotisserie Has Many Possibilities

Cooking in the wide outdoors has captured the fancy of fresh air fans across the country. Who can resist the wonderful flavor of meat prepared over the coals? Luckily, modern barbecue equipment streamlines preparation tasks and makes it possible to grill a wide range of foods.

If your grill has a rotisserie attachment, you can add many roasts to your list of outdoor foods: Beef rib eye roast, rolled rib, rolled rump roast (high quality), pork rolled loin roast, smoked ham roll, and lamb rolled leg or shoulder. Spareribs may also be barbecued on the revolving spit. Add a tumbling basket to your rotisserie, and many more foods may be prepared.

Next time you're pondering which of these meat cuts to choose, select a boneless pork roast. Stuffing For Roast Duck

For flavor and variety, make these additions to a prepared stuffing.

Menu

Roast Duck with Cornbread Stuffing
Oven Potatoes — Green Peas
Salad Bowl — Bread Tray
Ambrosia — Beverage

Cornbread Stuffing

¼ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
½ cup boiling water
2½ cups (an 8-ounce bag) dry corn bread stuffing
1 cup pared finely diced apple
½ cup light seedless raisins (rinsed in hot water and drained).

Allow butter and onion to stand over low heat in a medium saucepan until butter is melted and onion slightly toasted.

Add water, dry stuffing, apple and raisins; mix well. Use as stuffing (body cavity and neck skin) of a large duck.

The well-we've-heard-of-everything department flaked coconut is given a dunking in a cup of very strong coffee and then drained and used for a coconut pie shell!

October Plentiful Foods

The harvest season with its varied abundance will color Northeastern markets in the weeks to come. Shoppers will find a bright array of foods in plentiful supply in October, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, with sufficient variety available to satisfy many different eating needs of this busy time of year.

Biggest eye-catchers on the October list, says USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, will be grapes, rice and cheese.

The record large California grape crop will be moving to market in heavy volume, with the ever-popular Thompson Seedless and Flame Tokays in greatest evidence. Put them in the fruit bowl for snack and dessert use, but take advantage of their fine qualities in other tasty preparations—pies, fruit salads, compotes and garnishes.

It's been a good year for the nation's rice crop, too, with 6½ billion pounds to be harvested, about 29 percent more than average. There'll be plenty of rice to fill bowls to overflowing and for autumn casseroles, puddings, and foreign-style dishes, as well.

The first half of 1963 found the nation's cheese makers producing slightly more cheese than a year ago. You'll find all your favorite cheeses at the dairy counters to enjoy in full measure. Tried any new cheeses lately? It's a good idea.

Autumn means apples in abundance. Ample supplies are promised for October from this year's fine over 122 million bushel crop. The Western States are expected to do especially well. Apples for eating out-of-hand and in salads... apples for pies, pastries and other baked goods . . . apples for sauce, garnishes, and compotes . . . and apples for baking will all abound.

Another bumper cranberry crop is in sight — nearly 1⅓ million barrels, 9 percent above average, although slightly below last year. You'll find fresh cranberries now on the market to take home and use in those special tempting home-made cranberry preparations for which the season is noted. And for those who prefer the convenience products, there'll be lots of canned cranberry sauces and juice and cranberry and apple or other fruit combinations.

Fill up your potato bin! The nation's farmers are harvesting a fine fall potato crop—over 19 billion pounds, well above average. These are the good-keeping hardy potatoes that will serve us throughout the winter months to come. Potatoes may be prepared in hundreds of pleasing ways. Now's an especially good time to enjoy them.

Look to broiler-fryers for your main dish feature in the weeks ahead. There'll be even more of the young chickens at the markets than in October last year, when they were quite plentiful. And they'll again appeal to the budget-minded. It's a wise thought to fill up the freezer with a few birds.

Baked Nectarines With Biscuits

As a versatile dish to serve at breakfast, lunch or supper, slice fresh nectarines into a baking pan; dot with butter and drizzle with honey.

Arrange refrigerator biscuits over the top and sprinkle with cinnamon-sugar mixture. Bake according to directions on biscuit package.

Serve warm with sour cream or ice cream.

Canning, Freezing Popular In Homes

Although very few families produce their own fruits and vegetables, about half of those interviewed in a recent survey said they can and freeze fruits and a fourth can or freeze vegetables at home.

Instant Chow

NEW YORK (UPI) — One instant chow mein eliminates the time-consuming process of chopping fresh vegetables for the popular Chinese-American stew. One 3½-ounce can of the dehydrated product plus 3½ cups of water and 15 minutes heating yields 4 servings. (La Choy).

Always On Sundaes, For Ice Cream Treat

When you're serving buffet style, here's an idea that will win your family's favor.

For dessert, fill a well-chilled bowl with scoops of ice cream. Offer your family, or guests for that matter, a variety of sauces and let everyone make his own sundae.

Toppings and sauces of every kind are available in your foodstore. But it's a lot more fun to make your own sauces.

With an ample supply of ice cream and a variety of sauces, you'll always be ready instantly for dessert. And, a good thing, too, as your ice cream parlor will be popular with your children and all their friends.

You probably won't have any ice cream left when you serve it buffet style, but if you do, merely spoon it into a refrigerator tray and freeze until firm again. Cover with waxed paper or aluminum foil.

MARSHMALLOW PEPPERMINT SAUCE

Yield: 1 cup

2 tablespoons cream
1 cup marshmallow cream
¼ cup (4 4-inch sticks) crushed peppermint stick candy

Stir cream into marshmallow until smooth. Reserve 1 tablespoon candy; stir remainder into marshmallow. Serve on chocolate

Corn, Avocado Served Chilled

Mexican-style canned corn gets an added south-of-the-border touch with a semi-tropical avocado cut into cubes.

Drain whole kernel corn and combine with avocado cubes.

Marinate in refrigerator in an oil and vinegar dressing.

Serve chilled as a relish or heap on greens for a salad.

Ever stuff a breast of veal and braise it on top of the range?

Did You Ever Try A Soup Nog?

Did you ever taste a soup-nog? It's delicious, and so easy. In a saucepan heat five cans of condensed tomato soup with five cans of milk. Meanwhile, in a heatproof punch bowl beat five eggs to a froth. Slowly stir the heated soup mixture into the beaten egg, then sprinkle with nutmeg or cinnamon. Makes enough nog for two dozen 4-ounce servings. Ladle into punch cups and watch everyone go to town.

When you are planning on popping about three quarts of corn for a small-fry party, have about half a pound of peanuts on hand to mix with the popcorn.

The record large California grape crop will be moving to market in heavy volume, with the ever-popular Thompson Seedless and Flame Tokays in greatest evidence. Put them in the fruit bowl for snack and dessert use, but take advantage of their fine qualities in other tasty preparations—pies, fruit salads, compotes and garnishes.

It's been a good year for the nation's rice crop, too, with 6½ billion pounds to be harvested, about 29 percent more than average. There'll be plenty of rice to fill bowls to overflowing and for autumn casseroles, puddings, and foreign-style dishes, as well.

The first half of 1963 found the nation's cheese makers producing slightly more cheese than a year ago. You'll find all your favorite cheeses at the dairy counters to enjoy in full measure. Tried any new cheeses lately? It's a good idea.

Autumn means apples in abundance. Ample supplies are promised for October from this year's fine over 122 million bushel crop. The Western States are expected to do especially well. Apples for eating out-of-hand and in salads... apples for pies, pastries and other baked goods . . . apples for sauce, garnishes, and compotes . . . and apples for baking will all abound.

Another bumper cranberry crop is in sight — nearly 1⅛ million barrels, 9 percent above average, although slightly below last year. You'll find fresh cranberries now on the market to take home and use in those special tempting home-made cranberry preparations for which the season is noted. And for those who prefer the convenience products, there'll be lots of canned cranberry sauces and juice and cranberry and apple or other fruit combinations.

Fill up your potato bin! The nation's farmers are harvesting a fine fall potato crop—over 19 billion pounds, well above average. These are the good-keeping hardy potatoes that will serve us throughout the winter months to come. Potatoes may be prepared in hundreds of pleasing ways. Now's an especially good time to enjoy them.

Look to broiler-fryers for your main dish feature in the weeks ahead. There'll be even more of the young chickens at the markets than in October last year, when they were quite plentiful. And they'll again appeal to the budget-minded. It's a wise thought to fill up the freezer with a few birds.

Baked Nectarines With Biscuits

As a versatile dish to serve at breakfast, lunch or supper, slice fresh nectarines into a baking pan; dot with butter and drizzle with honey.

Arrange refrigerator biscuits over the top and sprinkle with cinnamon-sugar mixture. Bake according to directions on biscuit package.

Serve warm with sour cream or ice cream.

Canning, Freezing Popular In Homes

Although very few families produce their own fruits and vegetables, about half of those interviewed in a recent survey said they can and freeze fruits and a fourth can or freeze vegetables at home.

Instant Chow

NEW YORK (UPI) — One instant chow mein eliminates the time-consuming process of chopping fresh vegetables for the popular Chinese-American stew. One 3½-ounce can of the dehydrated product plus 3½ cups of water and 15 minutes heating yields 4 servings. (La Choy).

Always On Sundaes, For Ice Cream Treat

When you're serving buffet style, here's an idea that will win your family's favor.

For dessert, fill a well-chilled bowl with scoops of ice cream. Offer your family, or guests for that matter, a variety of sauces and let everyone make his own sundae.

Toppings and sauces of every kind are available in your foodstore. But it's a lot more fun to make your own sauces.

With an ample supply of ice cream and a variety of sauces, you'll always be ready instantly for dessert. And, a good thing, too, as your ice cream parlor will be popular with your children and all their friends.

You probably won't have any ice cream left when you serve it buffet style, but if you do, merely spoon it into a refrigerator tray and freeze until firm again. Cover with waxed paper or aluminum foil.

MARSHMALLOW PEPPERMINT SAUCE

Yield: 1 cup

2 tablespoons cream
1 cup marshmallow cream
¼ cup (4 4-inch sticks) crushed peppermint stick candy

Stir cream into marshmallow until smooth. Reserve 1 tablespoon candy; stir remainder into marshmallow. Serve on chocolate

Corn, Avocado Served Chilled

Mexican-style canned corn gets an added south-of-the-border touch with a semi-tropical avocado cut into cubes.

Drain whole kernel corn and combine with avocado cubes.

Marinate in refrigerator in an oil and vinegar dressing.

Serve chilled as a relish or heap on greens for a salad.

Ever stuff a breast of veal and braise it on top of the range?

Did You Ever Try A Soup Nog?

Did you ever taste a soup-nog? It's delicious, and so easy. In a saucepan heat five cans of condensed tomato soup with five cans of milk. Meanwhile, in a heatproof punch bowl beat five eggs to a froth. Slowly stir the heated soup mixture into the beaten egg, then sprinkle with nutmeg or cinnamon. Makes enough nog for two dozen 4-ounce servings. Ladle into punch cups and watch everyone go to town.

When you are planning on popping about three quarts of corn for a small-fry party, have about half a pound of peanuts on hand to mix with the popcorn.

Low-Calorie Pear Salad

Fresh Bartlett pears provide satisfying low-calorie eating.

For a salad with an Italian accent, dice or slice fresh pears and toss with assorted torn greens, chopped red onion, slivered salami and enough low-calorie Italian-style dressing to coat greens.

The Middle East inspires this calore-conscious fruit dessert: Top fresh pear halves with yogurt and sprinkle with grated nutmeg.

Keep fresh pears on hand for mid-morning or afternoon snacks. A medium-size fresh pear contains only 63 calories.

Offer both creamstyle cottage cheese and sour cream as a topping for baked potatoes; the former for the weight-watchers.

Scallop's Contributions To Mankind Artistic And Culinary

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI) — The scallop's contributions to mankind are both artistic and culinary.

The fan-shaped shell of the delicious marine bivalve appeared as decoration as early as 3,000 B.C., says the New Bedford (Mass.) Seafood Council. A Chilean archaelogical expedition unearthed a large shell of that period with interior carving.

The council, representing both producers and fishermen, added that primitive man's appetite for the scallop can be estimated from the large piles of empty shells found at excavated kitchen middens and in coastal mounds.

Aztec Indian women in old Mexico wore scallop shell pendants set with gold nuggets. In early Rome and ancient Greece, shell motifs appeared on such things as dishes, vases, coins and architecture.

By the 13th century, the design also was on many English coats-of-arms. Among those still extant are Sir Winston Churchill's and Sir Anthony Eden's.

English furniture makers in the 16th and 17th centuries incorporated the pattern into their designs. Botticelli's world-famous canvas, "Birth of Venus," shows the goddess rising from the sea in a scallop shell.

Badge Of St. James

The scallop is the Badge of St. James in the religious world, and appears on many statues of the apostle. The French name for scallops is coquilles St. Jacques, because pilgrims returning from Spain brought home scallop shells to prove they'd reached their destination. The first European scallops had been found off Spain's northwestern coast.

In the United States, coquilles St. Jacques generally indicates scallops in cream sauce containing white wine and mushrooms.

The French buy scallops in the shell and eat the entire body of the mollusk, including a tiny coral tongue U.S. mollusks lack.

Our scallops actually are only the adductor muscles, which open and close the shells. But they never are muscular in the sense of tough unless they are overcooked.

About 75 per cent of today's scallops are taken by the New Bedford fleet from nearby waters. These are sea scallops, available the year 'round in fresh, frozen and frozen pre-cooked form. The tiny bay scallop is seasonal.

Scallops may be served fried, broiled, sauteed, skewered, and in many kinds of sauces, salads, chowders and casseroles. A leading New York restaurant serves scallops seviche, the meat "cooked by marinating it in lime juice."

Scallop rarebit is delicious served on broiled tomato halves.

Halve, crosswise, 2 pounds of fresh or frozen defrosted sea scallops. Simmer 5 minutes in salted water. Drain. Set aside. Melt 1½ tablespoons of butter or margarine in top of double boiler. Over heat, stir in 1 (12 ounce) can of beer or ale. When beer is warm, place over double boiler base filled with hot water.

Stir in 1½ pounds of sharp cheddar cheese, grated. Cook, stirring, until cheese is melted. Pour a little cheese mixture into 2 small eggs, slightly beaten, then mix this into remaining cheese mixture. Add 1½ teaspoons each of Worcestershire sauce, and salt, 1 teaspoon of paprika, a pinch of cayenne, and ½ teaspoon of dry mustard. Add simmered scallops. Heat to serving temperature. Serve over 6 tomatoes, halved and broiled. Serves 6.

Half of a regular-size package of white or yellow cake mix may be used for an upside down cake baked in a 9-inch square cake pan.

Over heat, stir in 1 (12 ounce) can of beer or ale. When beer is warm, place over double boiler base filled with hot water.

Stir in 1½ pounds of sharp cheddar cheese, grated. Cook, stirring, until cheese is melted. Pour a little cheese mixture into 2 small eggs, slightly beaten, then mix this into remaining cheese mixture. Add 1½ teaspoons each of Worcestershire sauce, and salt, 1 teaspoon of paprika, a pinch of cayenne, and ½ teaspoon of dry mustard. Add simmered scallops. Heat to serving temperature. Serve over 6 tomatoes, halved and broiled. Serves 6.

Half of a regular-size package of white or yellow cake mix may be used for an upside down cake baked in a 9-inch square cake pan.

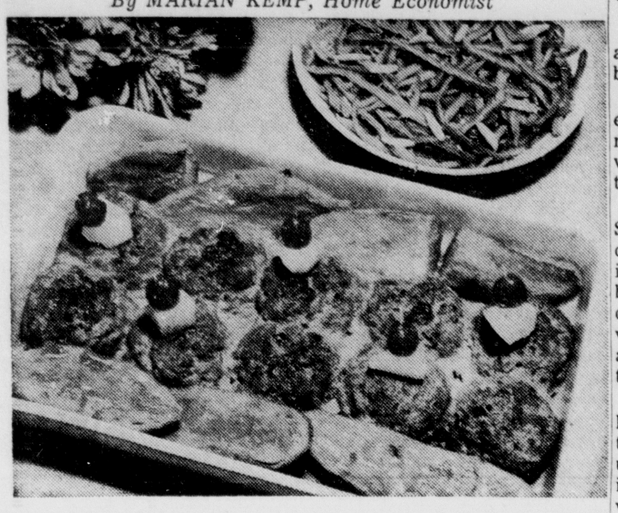
KITCHEN NOTES

By MARIAN KEMP, Home Economist



SWEET POTATOES like so many other foods know no season. When the fresh ones are not available, the cans of sweet potatoes may be found on the shelves in the super market.

The fresh potatoes are delicious baked, french fried or even raw when cut in thin strips. Canned "sweets" may be used in casseroles or any recipe calling for mashed sweet potatoes. If you are looking for something different to spring on the family, how about sweet potato pancakes.

CANDIED SWEET POTATOES AND HAM BALLS

1 egg water
½ cup evaporated milk
1½ cups soft, stale bread crumbs
1 teaspoon dry mustard
2 cups ground cooked ham
4 sweet potatoes, cooked, peeled and halved
¾ cup brown sugar, packed
¼ cup vinegar

Beat egg lightly; add ⅓ cup water, evaporated milk, crumbs, ½ teaspoon mustard and ham. Mix well and shape in 10-12 balls. Put in large shallow baking dish, making one layer only. Arrange potatoes around edge. Mix sugar, ½ teaspoon mustard, ¼ cup water and vinegar. Pour over ham balls and potatoes. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) about 45 minutes, basting several times with the syrup in bottom of dish. Makes 4 servings.

LOUISIANA PANCAKES

1½ cups sifted flour
3½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1¼ cups mashed, cooked sweet potatoes
2 eggs, beaten
1½ cups milk
¼ cup butter, melted

Sift dry ingredients into bowl. Combine remaining ingredients and add to flour; mix only until blended. Drop by spoonfuls onto hot greased griddle and cook till browned, turning once. Makes 24.

SCALLOPED SWEET POTATOES AND PINEAPPLE

6 medium sweet potatoes, cooked and peeled
1 can (13½ oz.) pineapple chunks, drained
⅓ cup pineapple syrup
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ cup maple syrup
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted

Slice sweet potatoes and arrange alternate layers of potatoes and pineapple in a shallow 1½ quart baking dish. Mix remaining ingredients, bring to boil and boil rapidly 3 minutes. Pour over ingredients in dish. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) about 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Apple Tarts Best Served Warm

Bake this tart shortly before serving because it's best warm.

Apple Tart

1½ cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or margarine
4 ounces cream cheese
3 cups drained canned apple slices
½ cup sour cream
½ cup confectioners sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Sift together the flour and salt. Stir butter and cream cheese together until blended; work in sifted dry ingredients. Roll out ⅛-inch thick.

Fit and pat into a 9-inch pie plate; make a slightly high fluted edge but not on rim of plate. Arrange apple slices in a circuar overlapping pattern over pastry; spoon over sour cream.

Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Bake in hot (400 degrees Fahrenheit) oven 10 minutes; continue baking in moderate (375 degrees Fahrenheit) oven for 20 minutes or until pastry is browned.

Serve juice warm, sprinkling with extra confectioners sugar.

When you are popping corn for youngsters, add salt and butter as usual, then put aside a portion for the oldsters and sprinkle that with paprika and grated Parmesan or Romano cheese. Serve at once.

Get A Good Travel Breakfast

Don't do it on an empty stomach. Start each day with a good breakfast.

If you like to get on the road early, pack your breakfast the night before and eat it along the way—when and where you want to.

Extension nutritionists at Ohio State University suggest you take dry cereals for out-of-the-box eating. Or how about sandwiches for breakfast? Of eggs, meat, cheese or peanut butter. Any of these will provide the protein you need at breakfast time. Then complete the meal with fruit and milk.

While on the road, be sure to keep cold things cold and hot things hot. Use disposable eating utensils so there's no dishwashing. And have a happy, healthful vacation.

Ever serve creamed chicken, turkey or tuna over cooked spinach? Good flavor combination!

Week's Food Economies

October has been designated "Eggtober" by the poultry industry. Eggs are one of the standby foods that should be available at all times in the family refrigerator. This is also the time of increased receipts of season produce, says Virginia L. McLuckie, food economist in the Baltimore office of the Department of Markets, University of Maryland.

Small size eggs are the best buy. When these eggs are packed in cartons they are sized according to weight. Those called small must weigh at least 18 ounces to the dizen, the medium size 21 ounces and large eggs 24 ounces. When the small sizes are in more generous supply they are lower priced, they give you more egg for the money on a pound basis.

The poultry industry also furnishes another best buy in fryer chickens. Stuff and bake a whole fryer for dinner soon.

Smoked pork shoulder is recommended as a good meat buy.

Best buys in vegetables includes two members of the cabbage clan now available in greater supply, cabbage and cauliflower. Most of the fall cauliflower comes from Long Island. The crop reaches peak supply in October, then tapers off until December. In order to keep the flowerets or head white, farmers periodically gather the long outer leaves together, tying them together to make a shaded growing condition. Each time the tying is done with a different color string so the farmer will know the order in which to harvest his crop as some plants mature sooner than others. Look for creamy white heads of cauliflower with fresh bright green outer leaves.

Cabbage, frome New Jersey and New York, is low in price. Cabbage family vegetables are mild-flavored when properly cooked in a small amount of water until just tender.

The fruit counter best buys are apples and tokay grapes. Grapefruit receipts are increasing.

Corn And Beans Pantryshelf Dish

Whether you're at a summer cottage or in the city, you may have need of this quick vegetable dish from the pantry shelf.

Menu

Minute Steaks Packaged Potatoes
Quick Corn and Beans
Bread Tray
Sliced Tomato Salad
Fruit and Cookies Beverage

Quick Corn And Beans

1 can (1 pound, 1 ounce) creamstyle golden bantam corn
1 can (8 ounces) cut green beans teaspoon nutmeg
White pepper to taste

In a 1-quart saucepan that you can bring to the table, mix corn, beans, nutmeg and pepper. Heat gently, stirring occasionally until piping hot.

Makes four to six servings.

Both veal and pork chops are good braised in cream of mushroom soup.

Kabobs Fun To Prepare And More Fun To Eat

A meal on a skewer . . . that describes kabobs. They're fun to grill, fun to eat!

Almost any meat tender enough to cook by dry heat is suitable for kabobs. Along with the meat cubes you could add many different combinations of fruits and vegetables.

Here's one delicious arrangement . . . beef steak cubes, tomato wedges, green pepper slices and fresh mushrooms. A tart barbecue sauce is brushed on the kabobs as they grill.

Beef sirloin steak or other beef roasting or broiling cuts could be used. Cut the meat in 1½-inch cubes. The vegetables or fruit pieces should be of the correct size so that they will be cooked or heated through when the meat is done.

Turn the kabobs occasionally while they grill so they will brown evenly on all sides. Cooking time for beef kabobs is about 15 to 20 minutes.

Refrigerate the extar barbecue sauce for future use. It could also be used as a marinade.

Tart Barbecue Sauce

1 cup soy sauce
1 cup salad oil
¾ cup lemon juice
1 clove garlic, cut in half

Mix together soy sauce, oil and lemon juice. Add garlic. Brush meat with sauce, during cooking, as desired. Yield: Approximately 2½ cups.

Cookie Sugar Topping

If you want a sugar topping on rolled-and-cut cookies, brush the dough with lightly beaten egg white before sprinkling on cookies. On some drop cookie doughs, the sugar will stick without adding the egg white. Colored sugar makes a pretty topping for vanilla cookies.

Peace Corps Needs 9,000

The Peace Corps estimates that it will require at least 9,000 volunteers to meet the requests of host country governments in 1964.

Interested persons are advised to submit an early application if they want to be considered for either a February or June appointment. An application form may be obtained from the Peace Corps, Division of Recruiting, Washington, D. C. 20525. Special literature will be sent to those indicating the particular area of their skill and when they would probably be available.

The greatest demand is for teachers for secondary, elementary schools, colleges and universities and in the fields of physical, vocational and adult education.

Nurses of all kinds are needed, as well as volunteers to fill posts as medical, laboratory and X-ray technicians, doctors, dentists and sanitarians.

Most frequently requested agricultural skills include agricultural extension, irrigation, farm mechanics, animal husbandry, agricultural engineering, poultry, dairying and soil conservation.

The Peace Corps is interested in volunteers who have recently retired and also those eligible for a leave of absence from their present employment.

Parents File Suit For Boy's Injury

Terrance Lee Broadwater, a minor, by Alice Broadwater and Freeman M. Broadwater, his parents and next friends, Lonaconing, has filed suit in Allegany County Circuit Court against Richard Cutter of Midland.

Young Broadwater, then a 16-year-old boy, was a passenger in an automobile owned and operated by Cutter, which ran off Route 36 near Gilmore on July 4, 1962. The boy was thrown against the windshield, was hospitalized about 10 days with a concussion, multiple lacerations, contusions and abrasions.

Three Local Youths Placed On Probation

Three local youths who were picked up last week in connection with the theft of $150 worth of fishing equipment yesterday were found guilty of being delinquent minors and placed on probation by Juvenile Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin.

The youths, two 13-year-old boys and a 12-year-old girl, were charged with being delinquent minors in the theft of fishing gear from Robert Rinehart, 610 Memorial Avenue.

Forest Festival Will Open Today

ELKINS, W. Va. (UPI) — A pageant, climaxed by a mock battle between forces, will be among highlights of the Mountain State Forest Festival opening here Thursday.

The pageant, "A State is Born," will be given Friday in the outdoor amphitheater of Davis and Elkins College. The spectacle depicts in drama, dance and music, the history of the Tygart Valley in the Civil War period.

Among other features of the 27th annual festival will be the crowning of Miss Ann Bradt, Martinsburg, as Queen Sylvia XXIII by Gov. W. W. Barron; a concert by Metropolitan Opera star Eleanor Steber, Wheeling native, and an address by Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall.

Miss Steber will sing during the coronation ceremony Friday.

OSLO, Norway (AP) — King Olav V in a speech from the throne Wednesday told Norway's Storting (Parliament) the government will introduce a law making vacations of at least four weeks compulsory.

Peace Corps Needs 9,000

The Peace Corps estimates that it will require at least 9,000 volunteers to meet the requests of host country governments in 1964.

Interested persons are advised to submit an early application if they want to be considered for either a February or June appointment. An application form may be obtained from the Peace Corps, Division of Recruiting, Washington, D. C. 20525. Special literature will be sent to those indicating the particular area of their skill and when they would probably be available.

The greatest demand is for teachers for secondary, elementary schools, colleges and universities and in the fields of physical, vocational and adult education.

Nurses of all kinds are needed, as well as volunteers to fill posts as medical, laboratory and X-ray technicians, doctors, dentists and sanitarians.

Most frequently requested agricultural skills include agricultural extension, irrigation, farm mechanics, animal husbandry, agricultural engineering, poultry, dairying and soil conservation.

The Peace Corps is interested in volunteers who have recently retired and also those eligible for a leave of absence from their present employment.

Revenues On Rise

LONDON (UPI)—Britain's gold and dollar reserves rose by $22.4 million in September to $2.735 billion at the end of the month, the Treasury said Wednesday.

There were no special payments or other factors in the month. In financial quarters the gain in the reserves in a season which can sometimes be unfavorable for sterling was considered good, although a rise had been looked for.

Sliding-door closets are excellent accident preventers, the Construction Research Bureau advises homebuilders.

Nine Guardsmen Earn Promotions

FROSTBURG — Nine members of Company A, 115th Armor, 29th Infantry, Maryland National Guard, have been promoted, according to First Lt. William B. Wood, commanding officer.

James D. Hyde and John R. Nine were promoted from private E3 to specialist E4. Edward E. Bean, Curtis E. Gomer, Leroy C. Gomer, Virgil Loar, Anthony McKenzie, Bernard Weitzell and Stanley Weslow were promoted from private first class E2 to private first class E3.

Maplehurst Club Plans Entertainment

FROSTBURG—Las Vegas Night will be held at Maplehurst Country Club, Saturday beginning with a dance at 9 p. m. The music will be furnished by John Ritchie and his instrumental quartet. Two floor shows will be presented with John Diamond as master of ceremonies. Special entertainment will be provided throughout the evening. Charles Pinto is chairman of the affair.

Life At Light

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Four Coast Guardmen live a somewhat monkish life on Mile Rock light station just outside the Golden Gate.

After 22 days duty, they get 8 days shore leave.

A compressed air fog horn blasts every 27 seconds.

"Believe is or not, you get used to it," said Ed Herden.

He and his companions, Jerry Lundemann, Joe Sotto and Jack Schofield, all had the same gripe: They can't contact their wives or girl friends by telephone.

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 308 The Union Army had adequate numbers of artillery pieces for the sieges of Vicksburg and Port Hudson begun in May 1863. Supply of artillery in the North was never an acute problem. Fred A. Shannon attests in his definitive study, "The Organization and Administration of the Union Army, 1861-65." "There were only 7,892 cannon issued to the Army during the period of over five years, from 1861 to 1865, whereas during the same period over 4,000,000 small arms were issued."

Union arsenals also provided a good many of the Confederate cannon. E. P. Alexander, the West Point graduate and professor who became chief of artillery for Longstreet, noted in his memoirs: "Gradually we captured Federal guns to supply most of our needs." However, as he added, "We were handicapped by our own ammunition until the close of the war." Southern arsenals lacked the metals, furnaces and machinery for turning out dependable shot in the quantities such as are shown [right] piled up for the Union mortars and cannon in the background. Confederates were never able to make as big captures as this array would have been.

Still the Union, as well as the Rebel forces, had a problem with artillery: protecting the gunners. New, longer range small arms frequently out-ranged the cannon, and sharpshooters could wipe out entire cannon crews. Infantry units had to be assigned as artillery supports to keep artillery firing in support of other infantry.

Have A Check Written On Wildcat Skin? It's Legal

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—You can write a check on almost anything—and get it cashed.

During the football season, for instance, the University of Arizona Wildcats played the Air Force Academy.

Bruce Grossetta, a cadet from Tucson, had eight fellow students stay with his family for the weekend of the game.

His father, retired Air Force Col. Anthony V. Grossetta, bet each of the cadets $1 that Arizona would win.

When the Air Force won 20-6 Grossetta paid off his debt with an $8 check drawn on the Southern Arizona Bank of Tucson—and written on the skin of a wildcat, perfectly legal.

In Phoenix, Canadian vacationist T. F. Herzod of Edmonton, Alta., received a parking ticket he didn't think was justified.

In payment he drew a $1 check on the Royal Bank of Canada—carefully etched on a prickly pear cactus—and sent it to Phoenix City Treasurer Alice Mosier.

Miss Mosier deposited the cactus check with the Valley National Bank. Then bank president J. E. Patrick wrote Herzod saying, "Sorry you got stuck with a parking ticket but I can assure you a few people have been needled as a result."

Gilbert F. Bradley, vice president and manager of the downtown Valley National Bank in Tucson, says checks can be—and have been—written on handkerchiefs, cigarette paper and a dozen other substances.

A Canadian bank, he says, received a check written on a hard-boiled egg. "How they canceled it I'll never know."

Bradley tells of another bank receiving a check written on boilerplate with a blowtorch. The bank on which it was drawn had the last word. They canceled the check with another blowtorch and deducted the cost from his account as an extra service.

There was a lumberman in the Northwest who, as a gag, paid off his lumberjacks in checks written on shingles.

"The bank had to build an entirely new filing cabinet for that joker," Bradley reported.

And dozens of people have done what Robert McCormuck of Ballston, N. Y., did when he got a bill for $163.39 for school taxes. He literally gave them the shirt off his back, by writing the check in payment on the back of his shirt.

Like all the others, it was negotiable.

Road Builders Will Imbed Steel Bars

WASHINGTON (AP) — The annoying cross joints built into highways to allow for expansion in hot weather are eliminated in a new, experimental method of road building.

Contraction or expansion is controlled by steel reinforcing bars laid about mid-depth in the concrete with the ends of the bars overlapping. The bars also add durability to the roadway.

The surface, called CRCP for continuous reinforced concrete pavement, now is being used in Texas and Mississippi. It is soon to be tried in 12 other states—Oregon, California, Indiana, Illinois, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Maryland, Maine, Wisconsin, North Dakota and Connecticut.

According to H. A. Radzikowski, chief of the development division, office of research, of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, CRCP has a special advantage for highways built over marshy areas where good foundations are expensive to construct. He said the high-strength steel in the pavement tends to compensate for a base that is not fully compacted.

More Germans Staying Home

By CARL FLICK-STEGER

BONN, Germany (AP) —Unemployment and immigration restrictions in countries like Canada and Australia, plus full employment and a rising standard of living at home, have sharply cut down overseas emigration from West Germany.

Emigration reached a peak of 82,000 in 1956. It has been dropping each year since then and last year hit a low of 12,000. Altogether some 772,000 Germans left their homeland since World War II to settle in other countries.

The United States has been the most popular goal, with about 378,000 emigrants going there. Canada is second with 230,000.

During the past three years Australia has moved up behind Canada to place third with 79,000 German immigrants.

Dickerson Church Announces Program

FROSTBURG — The annual Men's Day will be observed at Dickerson A.M.E. Church, on Sunday with Sunday School at 10 a.m. and morning worship at 11 a.m. followed with Holy Communion. Rev. E. H. Purnell, pastor, will preside.

At 3 p.m., Rev. John F. Gordon of Ebenezer Baptist Church, Cumberland will give the welcome address. Brother Howard Skidmore of the Trinity Assembly of God Church, Midlothian will be guest speaker and will be accompanied here by several friends.

Finnigan's Hollywood

BY JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Sal Mineo is producing his own motion picture on a budget that other filmmakers would consider peanuts.

Sal's budget is helped by one factor that producers don't have. Most of his actors don't even know they're in Mineo's picture. Therefore he doesn't have to pay inflated salaries.

Forgetting about himself, Sal only has one actor on salary. The rest of his cast are youngsters sitting on the beach, unaware that Mineo is filming them.

"I only work on the film when I get a few weeks off," he said. "The picture is about young people in love, growing up. And it was shot by a young person. We went on location to Sacramento and Catalina Island. But mostly it was shot on different beaches around here."

Mineo's production staff is best described as a one man operation—himself. He rents the equipment, writes the script and operates the camera. If there's any sweeping up to be done, Sal handles that chore too.

"It started the picture off as an experiment," said Mineo, estimating that he's spend $3,000 so far on the picture. "I was interested in some cameras and started shooting pictures at the beach where I lived. I'm just shooting what happens. I feel this is good training ground for me because I want to be a director."

Mineo has postponed filming of his minor epic until next December. He's going back to work in John Ford's movie "Cheyenne Autumn."

When his work on "Autumn" is completed, sometime in December, Sal will be back at the beach filming pretty girls.

"I have absolutely no idea what I'll do with the film when it's completed," he says "have had some offers from theater managers interested in showing it."

Most actors, members of an industry riddled with ego, couldn't produce a motion picture without starring in it. Mineo seems to have risen above the temptation to star, content to be producer, writer, director and general handyman. All that work should satisfy anybody's ego, even an actor's.

Like many movie producers, Mineo casts a friend in the picture—his dog. Sal and the dog are companions, pals who travel across country to movie locations when Mineo is working.

"I almost forget he's a dog," says Sal, expressing an attitude held in Hollywood only by Mineo and Lassie's fans.

Revenues On Rise

LONDON (UPI)—Britain's gold and dollar reserves rose by $22.4 million in September to $2.735 billion at the end of the month, the Treasury said Wednesday.

There were no special payments or other factors in the month. In financial quarters the gain in the reserves in a season which can sometimes be unfavorable for sterling was considered good, although a rise had been looked for.

Life At Light

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Four Coast Guardmen live a somewhat monkish life on Mile Rock light station just outside the Golden Gate.

After 22 days duty, they get 8 days shore leave.

A compressed air fog horn blasts every 27 seconds.

"Believe is or not, you get used to it," said Ed Herden.

He and his companions, Jerry Lundemann, Joe Sotto and Jack Schofield, all had the same gripe: They can't contact their wives or girl friends by telephone.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 308 The Union Army had adequate numbers of artillery pieces for the sieges of Vicksburg and Port Hudson begun in May 1863. Supply of artillery in the North was never an acute problem. Fred A. Shannon attests in his definitive study, "The Organization and Administration of the Union Army, 1861-65." "There were only 7,892 cannon issued to the Army during the period of over five years, from 1861 to 1865, whereas during the same period over 4,000,000 small arms were issued."

Union arsenals also provided a good many of the Confederate cannon. E. P. Alexander, the West Point graduate and professor who became chief of artillery for Longstreet, noted in his memoirs: "Gradually we captured Federal guns to supply most of our needs." However, as he added, "We were handicapped by our own ammunition until the close of the war." Southern arsenals lacked the metals, furnaces and machinery for turning out dependable shot in the quantities such as are shown [right] piled up for the Union mortars and cannon in the background. Confederates were never able to make as big captures as this array would have been.

Still the Union, as well as the Rebel forces, had a problem with artillery: protecting the gunners. New, longer range small arms frequently out-ranged the cannon, and sharpshooters could wipe out entire cannon crews. Infantry units had to be assigned as artillery supports to keep artillery firing in support of other infantry.

Have A Check Written On Wildcat Skin? It's Legal

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—You can write a check on almost anything—and get it cashed.

During the football season, for instance, the University of Arizona Wildcats played the Air Force Academy.

Bruce Grossetta, a cadet from Tucson, had eight fellow students stay with his family for the weekend of the game.

His father, retired Air Force Col. Anthony V. Grossetta, bet each of the cadets $1 that Arizona would win.

When the Air Force won 20-6 Grossetta paid off his debt with an $8 check drawn on the Southern Arizona Bank of Tucson—and written on the skin of a wildcat, perfectly legal.

In Phoenix, Canadian vacationist T. F. Herzod of Edmonton, Alta., received a parking ticket he didn't think was justified.

In payment he drew a $1 check on the Royal Bank of Canada—carefully etched on a prickly pear cactus—and sent it to Phoenix City Treasurer Alice Mosier.

Miss Mosier deposited the cactus check with the Valley National Bank. Then bank president J. E. Patrick wrote Herzod saying, "Sorry you got stuck with a parking ticket but I can assure you a few people have been needled as a result."

Gilbert F. Bradley, vice president and manager of the downtown Valley National Bank in Tucson, says checks can be—and have been—written on handkerchiefs, cigarette paper and a dozen other substances.

A Canadian bank, he says, received a check written on a hard-boiled egg. "How they canceled it I'll never know."

Bradley tells of another bank receiving a check written on boilerplate with a blowtorch. The bank on which it was drawn had the last word. They canceled the check with another blowtorch and deducted the cost from his account as an extra service.

There was a lumberman in the Northwest who, as a gag, paid off his lumberjacks in checks written on shingles.

"The bank had to build an entirely new filing cabinet for that joker," Bradley reported.

And dozens of people have done what Robert McCormuck of Ballston, N. Y., did when he got a bill for $163.39 for school taxes. He literally gave them the shirt off his back, by writing the check in payment on the back of his shirt.

Like all the others, it was negotiable.

More Germans Staying Home

By CARL FLICK-STEGER

BONN, Germany (AP) —Unemployment and immigration restrictions in countries like Canada and Australia, plus full employment and a rising standard of living at home, have sharply cut down overseas emigration from West Germany.

Emigration reached a peak of 82,000 in 1956. It has been dropping each year since then and last year hit a low of 12,000. Altogether some 772,000 Germans left their homeland since World War II to settle in other countries.

The United States has been the most popular goal, with about 378,000 emigrants going there. Canada is second with 230,000.

During the past three years Australia has moved up behind Canada to place third with 79,000 German immigrants.

Road Builders Will Imbed Steel Bars

WASHINGTON (AP) — The annoying cross joints built into highways to allow for expansion in hot weather are eliminated in a new, experimental method of road building.

Contraction or expansion is controlled by steel reinforcing bars laid about mid-depth in the concrete with the ends of the bars overlapping. The bars also add durability to the roadway.

The surface, called CRCP for continuous reinforced concrete pavement, now is being used in Texas and Mississippi. It is soon to be tried in 12 other states—Oregon, California, Indiana, Illinois, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Maryland, Maine, Wisconsin, North Dakota and Connecticut.

According to H. A. Radzikowski, chief of the development division, office of research, of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, CRCP has a special advantage for highways built over marshy areas where good foundations are expensive to construct. He said the high-strength steel in the pavement tends to compensate for a base that is not fully compacted.

Finnigan's Hollywood

BY JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Sal Mineo is producing his own motion picture on a budget that other filmmakers would consider peanuts.

Sal's budget is helped by one factor that producers don't have. Most of his actors don't even know they're in Mineo's picture. Therefore he doesn't have to pay inflated salaries.

Forgetting about himself, Sal only has one actor on salary. The rest of his cast are youngsters sitting on the beach, unaware that Mineo is filming them.

"I only work on the film when I get a few weeks off," he said. "The picture is about young people in love, growing up. And it was shot by a young person. We went on location to Sacramento and Catalina Island. But mostly it was shot on different beaches around here."

Mineo's production staff is best described as a one man operation—himself. He rents the equipment, writes the script and operates the camera. If there's any sweeping up to be done, Sal handles that chore too.

"It started the picture off as an experiment," said Mineo, estimating that he's spend $3,000 so far on the picture. "I was interested in some cameras and started shooting pictures at the beach where I lived. I'm just shooting what happens. I feel this is good training ground for me because I want to be a director."

Mineo has postponed filming of his minor epic until next December. He's going back to work in John Ford's movie "Cheyenne Autumn."

When his work on "Autumn" is completed, sometime in December, Sal will be back at the beach filming pretty girls.

"I have absolutely no idea what I'll do with the film when it's completed," he says "have had some offers from theater managers interested in showing it."

Most actors, members of an industry riddled with ego, couldn't produce a motion picture without starring in it. Mineo seems to have risen above the temptation to star, content to be producer, writer, director and general handyman. All that work should satisfy anybody's ego, even an actor's.

Like many movie producers, Mineo casts a friend in the picture—his dog. Sal and the dog are companions, pals who travel across country to movie locations when Mineo is working.

"I almost forget he's a dog," says Sal, expressing an attitude held in Hollywood only by Mineo and Lassie's fans.

Gas Company Has Preview At Lonaconing

New Facility To Be Shown

LONACONING — Employes of Columbia Gas of Maryland and their families last night got a preview of the new business office and shops of the public utility located here.

They toured the building, saw the equipment displays, heard a brief talk by District Manager John S. Wilson, and saw a film about natural gas operations, entitled "These Are My People."

Community leaders, county officials and members of the press have been invited to inspect and tour the facility between 4:30 and 6 p. m. today. In the group will be mayors and city officials from the dozen communities served by the new maintenance center, including Frostburg, Lonaconing, Westernport, Barton, Midland, Shaft, Mt. Savage, Grantsville, Bloomington and Luke.

Paul Kuzmich, a Columbia vice president from Pittsburgh, will address the group preceding a showing of the film. The evening will conclude with a buffet dinner served at the site.

Open house for the general public will be from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., Friday, October 4. Visitors will be eligible for small prizes. Favors will be distributed to everyone by gas company business promotion personnel and Betty Newton, the home service director from Cumberland.

Columbia's new building was completed in mid-August and operations were begun from there August 26. The $75,000 structure is the headquarters for gas service in an area serving 3,650 customers. The gas company will not own its new Lonaconing office, but will lease it from Gasco Realty, Inc.

E. E. Painter, foreman, is in charge of the new building and its operations. He explained, "The company had to acquire the new building to meet operating requirements that were changed by the realignment of our West Virginia and Maryland properties two years ago."

Dairy Cattle Judging Champs

W. Va. Arranges Dedication Of Centennial Park

KEYSER — Two local girls, dressed in costumes similar to those worn a century ago, will be escorts during the dedication of the 100th roadside park between Thomas and Parsons, W. Va. on Sunday.

They are Lilli-Pat Golden, age 10, and her six-year-old sister, Elizabeth Irene Golden, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James Golden and granddaughters of former Mineral County Circuit Court Judge and Mrs. E. A. See.

One of the girls will be escort to Gov. W. W. Barron of West Virginia and the other will be escort to Burl A. Sawyers, commissioner of the W. Va. State Road Commission.

The dedication program will begin at 1 p. m. (EST). Named the "Centennial Roadside Park" in honor of the state's 100th birthday, the park is located along U. S. Route 219 between Parsons and Thomas.

Other state officials are expected to attend the dedication ceremonies.

F. G. Linaburg Is Promoted

KEYSER — Frederick G. Linaburg, who has worked for the G. C. Murphy Company since 1960, was promoted to the position of warehouse manager at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Linaburg was born here in 1937, the son of Mrs. Madaline Linaburg. He attended public schools and graduated from Keyser High School in 1955. He enlisted in the Navy during 1955 and served aboard the aircraft carrier USS Ticonderoga as an evaporator technician. He was honorably discharged in 1958.

His wife is the former Mary Boyce of Keyser. They have one daughter, Sandra Kay, who is three months old.

The contest was conducted by the Keyhisco staff which will feature the various winners in a photographic layout in the annual.

Black Bear Is Killed By W. Va. Hunters

MOOREFIELD — A 300-pound sheep killing black bear was killed by a hunting party last Tuesday on the upper end of Branch Mountain on property belonging to the W. R. Grace and Co. The marauding bear was responsible for killing of some 40 sheep in the area with Grover Funkhouser one of the farmers suffering the heaviest loss.

The hunting party consisted of 15 hunters and 15 dogs and lasted from nine in the morning until the bear was bagged about two in the afternoon. The dogs had driven the animal up on a ledge of rocks in a rugged and isolated section. The bear was removed down the run across the new Stump's Run Dam and through Charlie Riggleman's roadway.

Annual Bohrer Reunion Held

PAW PAW — The annual reunion was held at the home of the late Anthony Bohrer. Mrs. John Bohrer, chairman, was assisted by Mrs. E. L. Gillum and Mrs. Leo Manning.

Owen Preston, minister of Paw Paw Church of the Brethren, gave the scripture reading and prayer. Readings, "Our Heritage" by Linda Nelson and "The Simple Things" by Betty Baker were presented. Music and song selections were offered by Nancy Waters, Sharon Myers, Willard and Charlotte Nelson, Marie Bohrer and the Ira Bohrer family of Hedgesville.

Howard Waters, minister of Church of Christ, Paw Paw, spoke. Elizabeth Arnold presented a poem.

The program was closed by the singing of "Blest Be the Tide that Binds," and Irvin Whitacre, minister of Church of the Brethren offered prayer.

The oldest person attending the reunion was Elijah Ross who celebrated his eighty-fifth birthday. Drusilla Gillum was cited for being the oldest grandchild of the late Anthony Bohrer.

Mineral County PTA Council To Meet Friday

KEYSER — Plans have been announced for the first meeting of the Mineral County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations to be held at Short Gap on Friday at 7:30 p. m.

E. M. Welshonce, assistant superintendent of schools, will be the main speaker and will discuss various facets of the special school levy which will be presented to the citizens of Mineral County for a vote on October 22.

W. E. Michael, president of the Council, said that it is important that every member of each PTA in the county understand the levy and what it means to the schools of the county and they are urged to be present at the meeting.

Lester C. Anderson, Piedmont, president of the Citizens Committee of Mineral County, will also be present and give a brief progress report concerning the work of his group.

W. Va. To Finish Paintings Of All Chief Executives

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Mrs. Naomi Hosterman, Charleston, has been commissioned to paint the portraits of three West Virginia governors to complete the statehouse collection of paintings of West Virginia's chief executives.

The West Virginia Centennial Commission said Mrs. Hosterman has been commissioned to paint the portraits of Daniel D. T. Farnsworth, Upshur County, second governor; John Jeremiah Jacob, Hampshire County, fourth governor, and William M. O. Dawson, Preston County, 12th governor.

Portraits of three other early West Virginia governors, which also had been missing from the collection, were presented to the state last May. All three were from Wood County.

The only other portrait missing, that of Gov. M. M. Neely, 21st governor, has been commissioned to another artist and will be completed before the end of the Centemial year.

Mt. Bow Club Plans Practice

FROSTBURG — Donald Pressman of the Mountain City Bow Club has announced that the club will hold indoor archery shooting this winter if enough people show an interest. He said that any one interested in shooting is to call him at OV 9-9710 and give their name. They will be notified of the decision of the club.

PSC Students Invited To Reception

College Staff Affair Tonight

KEYSER—Students of Potomac State College will be guests of the college staff tonight at the annual reception. Invitations have been extended to special students as well as regular enrollees.

Guests are to report first to the lounge of Friend Hall, newest residence for women, where they will be greeted by one group of faculty members. Miss Nancy Manning will meet students as they enter and the Misses Cheryl Madiera and Blanche Turner will have the guest books. Ray McManis, president of the student body, will head this first receiving line.

The students progress next to Memorial Hall's lounge, where William Jenkins will be on hand to direct them to the receiving line which will be headed by C. J. Fetchero, Sophomore Class president. A second group of staff members will constitute the receiving line.

Robert Diaco will greet the guests as they arrive at the Science Hall. Here Miss Betty Kapp, secretary of the Sophomore Class will head the receiving line which will be made up of a third group of the college staff.

Members of Sigma Phi Omega Honor Society will be aids for the serving of refreshments in the assembly room of the Science Hall.

A fourth group of members of the college staff, with Kevin Ryan heading the line, will greet students as they arrive at the college gymnasium where dancing to the music of the college stage band will conclude the evening. Charles E. Whitehill directs the band.

Trash Permits Are Available At Frostburg

FROSTBURG — William Vogtman, city clerk, has announced that trash permits for 1963-64 have been received at the city hall and will be on sale for the month of October.

Tags from the new permits must be displayed on November 1 and no trash will be collected after that date unless the new stickers are affixed to garbage and trash cans.

The new permits may be purchased at the city tax collectors office on the first floor of the city building. The cost is $10.00 for the year, Nov. 1, 1963 through October 31, 1964.

The new program of a combined garbage and trash collection was put into effect one year ago and according to Vogtman has proved very successful. Trash is collected twice weekly; Monday and Thursday in the west end of town and Tuesday and Thursday in the East end. A new "packer" type truck and body were purchased last year which greatly increased the efficiency of the collections.

Vogtman has cautioned residents not to display both stickers on cans and not to display the new one until November 1. Residents have also been asked to place containers with refuse in them at the curb. No containers will be carried from the yard to the truck by the city workmen.

Assisting Bowers are William D. Bender, vice president; Mrs. John Young, secretary, and Mrs. Fern Epstein, treasurer.

Harold Garrett, principal, discussed testing at the last PTA meeting. The attendance award was won by Ita Stark's room.

A Halloween social will be held October 25.

Wider Interest Seen In Music At Keyser High

Eighty Enroll For Mixed Chorus

KEYSER — Eighty members have enrolled in the Mixed Chorus at Keyser High School this year for what is believed to be the largest choral group in the history of the institution.

The chorus, which is under the direction of Mrs. E. E. Church, will perform for the regional convention of the West Virginia Education Association at Potomac State College on Thursday, October 10.

Included in the program will be a Fred Waring number especially arranged for teenagers: "Comin' Thru the Rye," and the rendition of a folk tune made popular by the New Christy Minstrels, "Green, Green." The girls are also planning to do a special number.

Because of the increase in the number taking Chorus the classroom had to be moved to larger quarters and instead of standard desks, folding chairs and risers are being used.

Another course added to the classes of the music department this year is one in organ also being taught by Mrs. Church. Fourteen students are presently enrolled.

Gas Company Has Preview At Lonaconing

New Facility To Be Shown

LONACONING — Employes of Columbia Gas of Maryland and their families last night got a preview of the new business office and shops of the public utility located here.

They toured the building, saw the equipment displays, heard a brief talk by District Manager John S. Wilson, and saw a film about natural gas operations, entitled "These Are My People."

Community leaders, county officials and members of the press have been invited to inspect and tour the facility between 4:30 and 6 p. m. today. In the group will be mayors and city officials from the dozen communities served by the new maintenance center, including Frostburg, Lonaconing, Westernport, Barton, Midland, Shaft, Mt. Savage, Grantsville, Bloomington and Luke.

Paul Kuzmich, a Columbia vice president from Pittsburgh, will address the group preceding a showing of the film. The evening will conclude with a buffet dinner served at the site.

Open house for the general public will be from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., Friday, October 4. Visitors will be eligible for small prizes. Favors will be distributed to everyone by gas company business promotion personnel and Betty Newton, the home service director from Cumberland.

Columbia's new building was completed in mid-August and operations were begun from there August 26. The $75,000 structure is the headquarters for gas service in an area serving 3,650 customers. The gas company will not own its new Lonaconing office, but will lease it from Gasco Realty, Inc.

E. E. Painter, foreman, is in charge of the new building and its operations. He explained, "The company had to acquire the new building to meet operating requirements that were changed by the realignment of our West Virginia and Maryland properties two years ago."

Planning Unit Session Postponed

Black Bear Is Killed By W. Va. Hunters

MOOREFIELD — A 300-pound sheep killing black bear was killed by a hunting party last Tuesday on the upper end of Branch Mountain on property belonging to the W. R. Grace and Co. The marauding bear was responsible for killing of some 40 sheep in the area with Grover Funkhouser one of the farmers suffering the heaviest loss.

The hunting party consisted of 15 hunters and 15 dogs and lasted from nine in the morning until the bear was bagged about two in the afternoon. The dogs had driven the animal up on a ledge of rocks in a rugged and isolated section. The bear was removed down the run across the new Stump's Run Dam and through Charlie Riggleman's roadway.

Annual Bohrer Reunion Held

PAW PAW — The annual reunion was held at the home of the late Anthony Bohrer. Mrs. John Bohrer, chairman, was assisted by Mrs. E. L. Gillum and Mrs. Leo Manning.

Owen Preston, minister of Paw Paw Church of the Brethren, gave the scripture reading and prayer. Readings, "Our Heritage" by Linda Nelson and "The Simple Things" by Betty Baker were presented. Music and song selections were offered by Nancy Waters, Sharon Myers, Willard and Charlotte Nelson, Marie Bohrer and the Ira Bohrer family of Hedgesville.

Howard Waters, minister of Church of Christ, Paw Paw, spoke. Elizabeth Arnold presented a poem.

The program was closed by the singing of "Blest Be the Tide that Binds," and Irvin Whitacre, minister of Church of the Brethren offered prayer.

The oldest person attending the reunion was Elijah Ross who celebrated his eighty-fifth birthday. Drusilla Gillum was cited for being the oldest grandchild of the late Anthony Bohrer.

Mineral County PTA Council To Meet Friday

KEYSER — Plans have been announced for the first meeting of the Mineral County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations to be held at Short Gap on Friday at 7:30 p. m.

E. M. Welshonce, assistant superintendent of schools, will be the main speaker and will discuss various facets of the special school levy which will be presented to the citizens of Mineral County for a vote on October 22.

W. E. Michael, president of the Council, said that it is important that every member of each PTA in the county understand the levy and what it means to the schools of the county and they are urged to be present at the meeting.

Lester C. Anderson, Piedmont, president of the Citizens Committee of Mineral County, will also be present and give a brief progress report concerning the work of his group.

W. Va. To Finish Paintings Of All Chief Executives

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Mrs. Naomi Hosterman, Charleston, has been commissioned to paint the portraits of three West Virginia governors to complete the statehouse collection of paintings of West Virginia's chief executives.

The West Virginia Centennial Commission said Mrs. Hosterman has been commissioned to paint the portraits of Daniel D. T. Farnsworth, Upshur County, second governor; John Jeremiah Jacob, Hampshire County, fourth governor, and William M. O. Dawson, Preston County, 12th governor.

Portraits of three other early West Virginia governors, which also had been missing from the collection, were presented to the state last May. All three were from Wood County.

The only other portrait missing, that of Gov. M. M. Neely, 21st governor, has been commissioned to another artist and will be completed before the end of the Centennial year.

Koufax Sets Series Strikeout Record As Dodgers Take Opener, 5-2

Sandy Whiffs 15 Yanks, Tops Erskine's Mark

Roseboro Clouts Three-Run Homer Off Ford In 2nd

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Sandy Koufax set a World Series record by striking out 15 New York Yankees Wednesday and won the opener 5-2 by the margin of John Roseboro's three-run homer off Whitey Ford in the second inning.

Koufax and his assorted pitching rivals, from Ford through Stan Williams and Steve Hamilton made this the greatest strikeout game in Series history by fanning a total of 25 victims.

Bill Skowron, an ex - Yankee playmate who was traded to the Dodgers for Williams last winter, tormented his old mates by driving in the first and last runs against Ford.

When Harry Bright, a Yankee pinch hitter, struck out to end the game, becoming Koufax's 15th victim, a deep throated roar arose from the crowd of 69,000.

Retires First 14

The 27-year-old Dodger dandy who won 25 and set a strikeout record of 306 in the regular National League season blew down the first 14 Yankees. Not until Elston Howard singled to right with two gone in the fifth did the Yanks have a hit. In fact they didn't have a loud foul up to that time.

Although the Yanks bunched three of their six hits in that fifth inning they couldn't score until Tom Tresh hammered a two-run homer into the lower stands in left field seats in the eighth inning.

Koufax simply was superb most of the way on this warm, summery afternoon. He wobbled briefly in the fifth, and again in the sixth when he walked two.

Just after Sandy had tied the record by fanning Bobby Richardson for the third time in the eighth inning, Tresh unloaded his homer on the first pitch.

Of Koufax' first 10 strikeouts, eight came from the first four men in the Yankee batting order. In addition to the three for Richardson, he fanned Tony Kubek, Mickey Mantle and Tresh twice each and got Joe Pepitone, Roger Maris, Elston Howard and pinch-hitters Hector Lopez, Phil Linz and Bright once each.

Duel Disintegrates

This much - advertised duel of ace southpaws between Koufax and Ford disintegrated into a rout in the early stages when the Dodgers clubbed Ford for four big runs in the second.

To add insult to injury the home run by Roseboro, the bespectacled Dodger catcher, was his first all year off a left-handed pitcher.

Frank Howard, the 6-foot-7 inch Dodger giant, started Ford to his downfall with a tremendous double that bounced once and hit the wall in left center about 460 feet from the plate.

Skowron, who hit only .203 after being shipped to the Dodgers last winter after 10 years at Yankee Stadium, singled sharply up the middle. In came Howard with the first run.

Dick Tracewski, a .226 hitter playing second because Jim Gilliam had to shift to third to fill in for injured Ken McMullen, followed with a single to center.

Roseboro Ruins Ford

Roseboro then ruined Ford with a high fly ball, fair by about 10 feet, that glanced off the facade in right and dropped into the lower stands for a three-run homer.

Skowron helped boost that lead to 5-0 in the third. Gilliam opened with a single to center but was forced at second by Willie Davis. Tommy Davis came through with his first of three straight hits on a hit-and-run play, and Willie moved to third. Skowron lined a single to left, scoring Willie Davis with the fifth and final Dodger run of the day.

After that early clobbering of Ford, the chief remaining drama was provided by Koufax in his bids, first for a no-hitter and finally for the strikeout record.

Bright finally became the record victim in the last of the ninth and Koufax topped the mark established by Carl Erskine of the Dodgers against the Yanks 10 years ago to the day.

Ties Cooper's Record

Sandy struck out the first five men he faced, tying a Series record set by Mort Cooper of the St. Louis Cardinals against the Yanks in 1943.

Incidentally, that total strikeout mark of 25 topped the total of 22 by the St. Louis Cardinals and Browns by Mort Cooper and Denny Galehouse in the only all-St. Louis Series in 1944.

The Yanks were greatly impressed by Koufax. Manager Ralph Houk said Al Downing, 13-5, his young lefty, would work the second game Thursday.

"Roseboro's hit was the big one," said Houk. "We just didn't hit. That was all."

Johnny Podres, 14-12, will work for the Dodgers in hopes of a clean sweep at Yankee Stadium before the two clubs move West for Saturday's third game.

DUGOUT GREETINGS FOR ROSEBORO—Los Angeles Dodgers manager Walt Alston (24) comes up on the dugout steps to welcome catcher Johnny Roseboro (8) after the latter had crashed a second inning three-run homer in the first 1963 World Series game at Yankee Stadium yesterday. Maury Wills (30) shakes Roseboro's hand. Moose Skowron (14) and Dick Tracewski (44), both of whom scored on the homer, trot to the dugout. Clapping hands at left is coach Leo Durocher, and the player between Durocher and Alston is Ron Fairly. Roseboro's blast gave the Dodgers a 4-0 lead and they went on to score a 5-2 victory over the favored New Yorkers. (AP Photofax)

Questions About Racial Problem Prompted Liston To End Tour

Champ Also Says British Schedule Was Too Hectic

By JACK BACON
United Press International

DENVER (UPI)—Heavyweight champion Sonny Liston said Wednesday he broke off his tour of Great Britain last month because of a combination of fatigue and embarrassment by constant questioning about American race problems.

Liston, appearing at a formal news conference, said he made the statement that his daughter's illness prompted his return home only as an excuse.

Liston also said there had been no change in his relationship with Jack Nilon, his "adviser" although the champion indicated there had been some disagreement.

However, Liston said he was going to Philadelphia Wednesday night to see Nilon. He said this meeting would determine whether and when he would resume his European tour.

The champion told newsmen he was misunderstood when he was quoted as saying he was "ashamed to be back in America" because of the bombing of a Negro church in Birmingham, Ala.

"I said I was ashamed of the way America was acting," Liston said.

The champion said his British schedule was too hectic to maintain.

"With the appearance dates getting so tight, I couldn't get any sleep," Liston said. "I had a tremendous headache from all the questions and I just decided to come back home. I didn't bother to ask anybody—I just told the people traveling with me, 'My daughter's sick. We're going home.'"

Liston said the questioning abroad was "real bad, after the bombings." He said it "was a shame and it was embarrassing because of the fine way I was being treated in Europe."

"When I got back here in Denver was real tired and I didn't feel like talking to anyone," Liston said. Liston arrived in Denver the night of Sept. 18 and had refused until Wednesday to discuss publicly the reasons for the return.

"I didn't know anyone would be at the airport and I didn't have anything ready to stay to anyone. But the first question asked of me when I got off the plane was, 'What do you think of the Alabama bombings?'

"And I tell you quite frankly, I blew up. . .if I hurt anybody's feelings, I'm sorry."

He said he would fight Cassius Clay "whenever the government lets us make some money." The champion previously called off a tentatively scheduled fight with Clay this year because he said most of the money would go for taxes.

Lane To Meet Ortiz In Dec.

Michigan Returns As WBA Member

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) —Kenny Lane will meet Carlos Ortiz in December for the embroiled lightweight boxing crown, the World Boxing Association announced Wednesday.

At the same time, WBA President Ed Lassman of Miami Beach announced that the state of Michigan — thrown out of the WBA for staging an unsanctioned lightweight championship fight last August—has been brought back into the fold.

The move was seen as a momentous one for the trouble-ridden WBA and the fight game.

Lassman said Ortiz accepted an offer of $50,000 plus $2,500 expenses or 40 per cent of the gate to meet Lane in Los Angeles on a date in December to be announced later. Lane, longtime top contender who took part in Michigan's unsanctioned fight, accepted $10,000, he said.

Lassman said the contract would be signed "momentarily."

The trouble over Michigan's action's erupted last Aug. 20 during the WBA convention here, and caused a wide split among delegates.

Michigan matched Lane against Paulie Armstead of Los Angeles, current number three contender, in a 15-round fight at Muskegon billed as a world championship bout. Lane won a unanimous decision.

The WBA refused to sanction the fight, reprimanded Lane and kicked Michigan out.

The organization recognized Ortiz as lightweight king.

Lassman said he had been working to breach the split ever since he was named WBA head at the convention.

Speedy Scot Heads Kentucky Futurity Field

Seeks Trotting's Triple Crown

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Speedy Scot, trying to become the second horse ever to win trotting's triple crown, headed a field of eight entered Wednesday for the Kentucky Futurity.

The $60,861 Futurity is set for Friday at the Lexington Trots Association track. The race is for 3-year-olds and is for the best two-of-three mile dashes.

Speedy Scot, winner of the Yonkers Futurity and the Hambletonian, the first two jewels in the crown, was entered as a combination with Captain's Boy, from Castleton Farm, Lexington.

Others in the futurity field are lis, Glidden Hanover, Cheer Honey and Elma.

Only Scott Frost has won all three jewels of the crown since it was initiated nine years ago. A. C.'s Viking won the first two last year, but lost to Safe Mission in the Futurity.

Florlis' times in the first heat of the Hambletonian — 1:57 3-5 — was the fastest of any hopeful for the Futurity until last week when Speedy Scot blazed a 1:56 4-5-mile in preparing for the big one.

Coach Would Trade Horse For Player

WINNIPEG, Man. (UPI) — Wanted: a hockey player in exchange for a horse.

That's the way Jake Milford hopes to beef up his hockey team.

Milford is general manager of the Brandon Wheat Kings, the defending provincial junior hockey champions, during the winter season. During the rest of the year his main interest is horse racing.

Milford wants to trade a race horse for hockey player Wayne (Porky) Kitchen, who plays for another team in the league.

Officials of the St. Boniface Canadians, for whom Kitchen plays, may not go for the deal, but Milford is keeping his fingers crossed.

Yankees First

Kubek went down swinging on a 1 and 2 pitch. Richardson struck out swinging at a blazing fast ball. Tresh was called out on strikes on a 2 and 2 pitch. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Dodgers Second

T. Davis grounded out on Ford's second pitch, Kubek to Pepitone. F. Howard drove Ford's third pitch against the centerfield fence at the 457-foot mark for a double. Skowron singled to center, scoring F. Howard. Tracewski singled to center, Skowron stopping at second. Roseboro hit a 0-1 pitch into the right field stands near the foul line for a home run, scoring Skowron and Tracewski ahead of him and putting the Dodgers in front, 4-0. It was Roseboro's first World Series home run. Koufax flied to Maris. Wills was called out on strikes. Four runs, four hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees Second

Mantle was called out on strikes. Maris also struck out, making it five in a row for Koufax. That tied the series record for strikeouts for the start of a series game. It was set by Mort Cooper of the Cardinals against the Yankees in 1943. Roseboro made a one-handed catch of E. Howard's foul by the Yankees' dugout. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Dodgers Third

Yankees Third

Pepitone struck out. Boyer grounded out, Koufax who deflected the ball to Tracewski who threw to Skowron at first. Ford fouled to Gilliam on the first pitch. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Dodgers Fourth

Roseboro struck out. Koufax was given a big ovation for his superlative pitching as he came to bat. He grounded out, Boyer to Pepitone. Wills lined to Ford. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees Fourth

Kubek struck out for the second time. So did Richardson. Tresh also struck out, the second time in a row the top three batters for the Yankees went down on strikes. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Dodgers Fifth

Gilliam walked on four straight pitches. W. Davis sacrificed Gilliam to second, Ford to Richardson, who covered first. T. Davis beat out a ground ball off Ford's glove for an infield hit, Gilliam going to third. F. Howard grounded out, Ford to Pepitone, Gilliam holding third, T. Davis going to second on the play. Skowron was purposely passed, filling the bases. Tracewski forced T. Davis at third, Boyer unassisted. No runs, one hit, no errors, three left.

Yankees Fifth

Mantle struck out for the second straight time. Maris fouled to Roseboro. E. Howard lined Koufax's first pitch to right for a single. It was the first New York hit. Pepitone also singled to right, E. Howard stopping at second. Boyer singled off Tracewski's glove, filling the bases. Tracewski made a good stop to keep the ball from going into center field. Hector Lopez batted for Ford and struck out. No runs, three hits, no errors, three left.

Dodgers Sixth

Williams went in to pick for the Yankees. Roseboro grounded out, Richardson to Pepitone. Koufax flied to Mantle. Wills grounded out, Kubek to Pepitone. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees Sixth

Kubek grounded out, William to Skowron. Richardson walked on a three and two pitch. Tresh walked on four straight pitches, Richardson going to second. Mantle flied to Tracewski who raced into mid right field to make the catch, the runners holding their bases. Maris popped to Wills behind second base. No runs, no hits, no errors, two left.

Dodgers Seventh

Yankees Seventh

Fairly went to right field for the Dodgers. E. Howard struck out, Koufax' 12th strikeout. Pepitone fouled to Roseboro. It was Roseboro's 15th put out, setting a new series record for a catcher. The previous mark of 14 was set by Mickey Cochrane and Roy Campanella in 1929 and 1953. Boyer popped to Wills. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Dodgers Eighth

Skowron struck out. Tracewski grounded out, Kubek to Pepitone. Roseboro struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees Eighth

Linz batted for Williams and struck out. It was Koufax's 13th strikeout. It was the 22nd strikeout in the game, tying a series record set in 1944 by the old St. Louis Browns and the St. Louis Cardinals. Kubek beat out a ground ball to Wills at deep short for an infield hit. Richardson struck out. It was Koufax's 14th strikeout, tying the series record set by Carl Erskine of the Dodgers 10 years ago this day against the Yankees. Tresh hit the first pitch into the left field stands, close to the foul line, for a home run, scoring Kubek ahead of him and making the score Dodgers 5, Yankees 2. Mantle walked. Musial Performs First Official Act As Cardinal VP

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stan (The Man) Musial performed his first "official" act as Vice President of the St. Louis Cardinals when he tossed out the first ball Wednesday to open the 1963 World Series at Yankee Stadium.

The 42-year-old Musial, who retired as an active player with the Cardinals last Sunday following 22 seasons, recieved a rousing ovation from nearly 70,000 fans as he cocked his left arm and threw the ball to Yankee catcher Elston Howard.

Howard returned the ball to Musial as a souvenir.

Musial watched the game from a box seat near the Yankee dugout. He was flanked on one side by Yankee Hall of Famer Joe DiMaggio and on the other by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

Dodgers' Victory Drops Series Odds To Even Money

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Los Angeles Dodgers' opening victory over the favored New York Yankees Wednesday dropped the man-to-man betting on the best-of-seven series to "even money."

Before Wednesday's 5-2 Los Angeles win, the Yankees had been favored for the series at 7½ to 5. Wednesday night the professional range was announced "11-10 and pick 'em," which is "even money" man to man.

However, New York is favored to take Thursday's second game at Yankee Stadium, 7-5. The betting is 10-1 the Dodgers will not take the next four.

Koufax Sets Series Strikeout Record As Dodgers Take Opener, 5-2

Sandy Whiffs 15 Yanks, Tops Erskine's Mark

Roseboro Clouts Three-Run Homer Off Ford In 2nd

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Sandy Koufax set a World Series record by striking out 15 New York Yankees Wednesday and won the opener 5-2 by the margin of John Roseboro's three-run homer off Whitey Ford in the second inning.

Koufax and his assorted pitching rivals, from Ford through Stan Williams and Steve Hamilton made this the greatest strikeout game in Series history by fanning a total of 25 victims.

Bill Skowron, an ex - Yankee playmate who was traded to the Dodgers for Williams last winter, tormented his old mates by driving in the first and last runs against Ford.

When Harry Bright, a Yankee pinch hitter, struck out to end the game, becoming Koufax's 15th victim, a deep throated roar arose from the crowd of 69,000.

Retires First 14

The 27-year-old Dodger dandy who won 25 and set a strikeout record of 306 in the regular National League season blew down the first 14 Yankees. Not until Elston Howard singled to right with two gone in the fifth did the Yanks have a hit. In fact they didn't have a loud foul up to that time.

Although the Yanks bunched three of their six hits in that fifth inning they couldn't score until Tom Tresh hammered a two-run homer into the lower stands in left field seats in the eighth inning.

Koufax simply was superb most of the way on this warm, summery afternoon. He wobbled briefly in the fifth, and again in the sixth when he walked two.

Just after Sandy had tied the record by fanning Bobby Richardson for the third time in the eighth inning, Tresh unloaded his homer on the first pitch.

Of Koufax' first 10 strikeouts, eight came from the first four men in the Yankee batting order. In addition to the three for Richardson, he fanned Tony Kubek, Mickey Mantle and Tresh twice each and got Joe Pepitone, Roger Maris, Elston Howard and pinch-hitters Hector Lopez, Phil Linz and Bright once each.

Duel Disintegrates

This much - advertised duel of ace southpaws between Koufax and Ford disintegrated into a rout in the early stages when the Dodgers clubbed Ford for four big runs in the second.

To add insult to injury the home run by Roseboro, the bespectacled Dodger catcher, was his first all year off a left-handed pitcher.

Frank Howard, the 6-foot-7 inch Dodger giant, started Ford to his downfall with a tremendous double that bounced once and hit the wall in left center about 460 feet from the plate.

Skowron, who hit only .203 after being shipped to the Dodgers last winter after 10 years at Yankee Stadium, singled sharply up the middle. In came Howard with the first run.

Dick Tracewski, a .226 hitter playing second because Jim Gilliam had to shift to third to fill in for injured Ken McMullen, followed with a single to center.

Roseboro Ruins Ford

Roseboro then ruined Ford with a high fly ball, fair by about 10 feet, that glanced off the facade in right and dropped into the lower stands for a three-run homer.

Skowron helped boost that lead to 5-0 in the third. Gilliam opened with a single to center but was forced at second by Willie Davis. Tommy Davis came through with his first of three straight hits on a hit-and-run play, and Willie moved to third. Skowron lined a single to left, scoring Willie Davis with the fifth and final Dodger run of the day.

After that early clobbering of Ford, the chief remaining drama was provided by Koufax in his bids, first for a no-hitter and finally for the strikeout record.

Bright finally became the record victim in the last of the ninth and Koufax topped the mark established by Carl Erskine of the Dodgers against the Yanks 10 years ago to the day.

Ties Cooper's Record

Sandy struck out the first five men he faced, tying a Series record set by Mort Cooper of the St. Louis Cardinals against the Yanks in 1943.

Incidentally, that total strikeout mark of 25 topped the total of 22 by the St. Louis Cardinals and Browns by Mort Cooper and Denny Galehouse in the only all-St. Louis Series in 1944.

The Yanks were greatly impressed by Koufax. Manager Ralph Houk said Al Downing, 13-5, his young lefty, would work the second game Thursday.

"Roseboro's hit was the big one," said Houk. "We just didn't hit. That was all."

Johnny Podres, 14-12, will work for the Dodgers in hopes of a clean sweep at Yankee Stadium before the two clubs move West for Saturday's third game.

BIG DUTCHMAN

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — James Lee Kaat of the Minnesota Twins is known to his teammates as "Big Dutchman" and "Kitty Cat."

DUGOUT GREETINGS FOR ROSEBORO—Los Angeles Dodgers manager Walt Alston (24) comes up on the dugout steps to welcome catcher Johnny Roseboro (8) after the latter had crashed a second inning three-run homer in the first 1963 World Series game at Yankee Stadium yesterday. Maury Wills (30) shakes Roseboro's hand. Moose Skowron (14) and Dick Tracewski (44), both of whom scored on the homer, trot to the dugout. Clapping hands at left is coach Leo Durocher, and the player between Durocher and Alston is Ron Fairly. Roseboro's blast gave the Dodgers a 4-0 lead and they went on to score a 5-2 victory over the favored New Yorkers. (AP Photofax)

Questions About Racial Problem Prompted Liston To End Tour

Champ Also Says British Schedule Was Too Hectic

By JACK BACON
United Press International

DENVER (UPI)—Heavyweight champion Sonny Liston said Wednesday he broke off his tour of Great Britain last month because of a combination of fatigue and embarrassment by constant questioning about American race problems.

Liston, appearing at a formal news conference, said he made the statement that his daughter's illness prompted his return home only as an excuse.

Liston also said there had been no change in his relationship with Jack Nilon, his "adviser" although the champion indicated there had been some disagreement.

However, Liston said he was going to Philadelphia Wednesday night to see Nilon. He said this meeting would determine whether and when he would resume his European tour.

The champion told newsmen he was misunderstood when he was quoted as saying he was "ashamed to be back in America" because of the bombing of a Negro church in Birmingham, Ala.

"I said I was ashamed of the way America was acting," Liston said.

The champion said his British schedule was too hectic to maintain.

"With the appearance dates getting so tight, I couldn't get any sleep," Liston said. "I had a tremendous headache from all the questions and I just decided to come back home. I didn't bother to ask anybody—I just told the people traveling with me, 'My daughter's sick. We're going home.'"

Liston said the questioning abroad was "real bad, after the bombings." He said it "was a shame and it was embarrassing because of the fine way I was being treated in Europe."

"When I got back here in Denver was real tired and I didn't feel like talking to anyone," Liston said. Liston arrived in Denver the night of Sept. 18 and had refused until Wednesday to discuss publicly the reasons for the return.

"I didn't know anyone would be at the airport and I didn't have anything ready to stay to anyone. But the first question asked of me when I got off the plane was, 'What do you think of the Alabama bombings?'

"And I tell you quite frankly, I blew up. . .if I hurt anybody's feelings, I'm sorry."

He said he would fight Cassius Clay "whenever the government lets us make some money." The champion previously called off a tentatively scheduled fight with Clay this year because he said most of the money would go for taxes.

Lane To Meet Ortiz In Dec.

Michigan Returns As WBA Member

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) —Kenny Lane will meet Carlos Ortiz in December for the embroiled lightweight boxing crown, the World Boxing Association announced Wednesday.

At the same time, WBA President Ed Lassman of Miami Beach announced that the state of Michigan — thrown out of the WBA for staging an unsanctioned lightweight championship fight last August—has been brought back into the fold.

The move was seen as a momentous one for the trouble-ridden WBA and the fight game.

Lassman said Ortiz accepted an offer of $50,000 plus $2,500 expenses or 40 per cent of the gate to meet Lane in Los Angeles on a date in December to be announced later. Lane, longtime top contender who took part in Michigan's unsanctioned fight, accepted $10,000, he said.

Lassman said the contract would be signed "momentarily."

The trouble over Michigan's action's erupted last Aug. 20 during the WBA convention here, and caused a wide split among delegates.

Michigan matched Lane against Paulie Armstead of Los Angeles, current number three contender, in a 15-round fight at Muskegon billed as a world championship bout. Lane won a unanimous decision.

The WBA refused to sanction the fight, reprimanded Lane and kicked Michigan out.

The organization recognized Ortiz as lightweight king.

Lassman said he had been working to breach the split ever since he was named WBA head at the convention.

Speedy Scot Heads Kentucky Futurity Field

Seeks Trotting's Triple Crown

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Speedy Scot, trying to become the second horse ever to win trotting's triple crown, headed a field of eight entered Wednesday for the Kentucky Futurity.

The $60,861 Futurity is set for Friday at the Lexington Trots Association track. The race is for 3-year-olds and is for the best two-of-three mile dashes.

Speedy Scot, winner of the Yonkers Futurity and the Hambletonian, the first two jewels in the crown, was entered as a combination with Captain's Boy, from Castleton Farm, Lexington.

Others in the futurity field are lis, Glidden Hanover, Cheer Honey and Elma.

Only Scott Frost has won all three jewels of the crown since it was initiated nine years ago. A. C.'s Viking won the first two last year, but lost to Safe Mission in the Futurity.

Florlis' times in the first heat of the Hambletonian — 1:57 3-5 — was the fastest of any hopeful for the Futurity until last week when Speedy Scot blazed a 1:56 4-5-mile in preparing for the big one.

Coach Would Trade Horse For Player

WINNIPEG, Man. (UPI) — Wanted: a hockey player in exchange for a horse.

That's the way Jake Milford hopes to beef up his hockey team.

Milford is general manager of the Brandon Wheat Kings, the defending provincial junior hockey champions, during the winter season. During the rest of the year his main interest is horse racing.

Milford wants to trade a race horse for hockey player Wayne (Porky) Kitchen, who plays for another team in the league.

Officials of the St. Boniface Canadians, for whom Kitchen plays, may not go for the deal, but Milford is keeping his fingers crossed.

Yankees First

Kubek went down swinging on a 1 and 2 pitch. Richardson struck out swinging at a blazing fast ball. Tresh was called out on strikes on a 2 and 2 pitch. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Dodgers Second

T. Davis grounded out on Ford's second pitch, Kubek to Pepitone. F. Howard drove Ford's third pitch against the centerfield fence at the 457-foot mark for a double. Skowron singled to center, scoring F. Howard. Tracewski singled to center, Skowron stopping at second. Roseboro hit a 0-1 pitch into the right field stands near the foul line for a home run, scoring Skowron and Tracewski ahead of him and putting the Dodgers in front, 4-0. It was Roseboro's first World Series home run. Koufax flied to Maris. Wills was called out on strikes. Four runs, four hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees Second

Mantle was called out on strikes. Maris also struck out, making it five in a row for Koufax. That tied the series record for strikeouts for the start of a series game. It was set by Mort Cooper of the Cardinals against the Yankees in 1943. Roseboro made a one-handed catch of E. Howard's foul by the Yankees' dugout. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Dodgers Third

Gilliam singled to center. W. Davis forced Gilliam at second, Richardson to Kubek. T. Davis singled to right. W. Davis going to third. F. Howard fouled to E. Howard, the runners holding their bases. Skowron singled to left center, scoring W. Davis, T. Davis going to third. Tracewski forced Skowron at second, Boyer to Richardson. One run, three hits, no errors, two left.

Yankees Third

Pepitone struck out. Boyer grounded out, Koufax who deflected the ball to Tracewski who threw to Skowron at first. Ford fouled to Gilliam on the first pitch. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Dodgers Fourth

Roseboro struck out. Koufax was given a big ovation for his superlative pitching as he came to bat. He grounded out, Boyer to Pepitone. Wills lined to Ford. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees Fourth

Kubek struck out for the second time. So did Richardson. Tresh also struck out, the second time in a row the top three batters for the Yankees went down on strikes. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Dodgers Fifth

Gilliam walked on four straight pitches. W. Davis sacrificed Gilliam to second, Ford to Richardson, who covered first. T. Davis beat out a ground ball off Ford's glove for an infield hit, Gilliam going to third. F. Howard grounded out, Ford to Pepitone, Gilliam holding third, T. Davis going to second on the play. Skowron was purposely passed, filling the bases. Tracewski forced T. Davis at third, Boyer unassisted. No runs, one hit, no errors, three left.

Yankees Fifth

Mantle struck out for the second straight time. Maris fouled to Roseboro. E. Howard lined Koufax's first pitch to right for a single. It was the first New York hit. Pepitone also singled to right, E. Howard stopping at second. Boyer singled off Tracewski's glove, filling the bases. Tracewski made a good stop to keep the ball from going into center field. Hector Lopez batted for Ford and struck out. No runs, three hits, no errors, three left.

Dodgers Sixth

Williams went in to pitch for the Yankees. Roseboro grounded out, Richardson to Pepitone. Koufax flied to Mantle. Wills grounded out, Kubek to Pepitone. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees Sixth

Kubek grounded out, William to Skowron. Richardson walked on a three and two pitch. Tresh walked on four straight pitches, Richardson going to second. Mantle flied to Tracewski who raced into mid right field to make the catch, the runners holding their bases. Maris popped to Wills behind second base. No runs, no hits, no errors, two left.

Dodgers Seventh

Gilliam was called out on strikes. W. Davis also struck out. T. Davis singled to right. T. Davis stole second. F. Howard struck out. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Yankees Seventh

Fairly went to right field for the Dodgers. E. Howard struck out, Koufax' 12th strikeout. Pepitone fouled to Roseboro. It was Roseboro's 15th put out, setting a new series record for a catcher. The previous mark of 14 was set by Mickey Cochrane and Roy Campanella in 1929 and 1953. Boyer popped to Wills. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Dodgers Eighth

Skowron struck out. Tracewski grounded out, Kubek to Pepitone. Roseboro struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees Eighth

Linz batted for Williams and struck out. It was Koufax's 13th strikeout. It was the 22nd strikeout in the game, tying a series record set in 1944 by the old St. Louis Browns and the St. Louis Cardinals. Kubek beat out a ground ball to Wills at deep short for an infield hit. Richardson struck out. It was Koufax's 14th strikeout, tying the series record set by Carl Erskine of the Dodgers 10 years ago this day against the Yankees. Tresh hit the first pitch into the left field stands, close to the foul line, for a home run, scoring Kubek ahead of him and making the score Dodgers 5, Yankees 2. Mantle walked. Alston went out to the mound and conferred with Koufax. He left Koufax in. Maris grounded out, Tracewski to Skowron. Two runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

Dodgers Ninth

Hamilton went in to pitch for the Yankees. Koufax struck out. Wills flied to Maris. Gilliam grounded out, Kubek to Pepitone. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees Ninth

E. Howard lined to Tracewski. Pepitone singled to right. Boyer flied to W. Davis. Bright batted for Hamilton. Bright struck out. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Musial Performs First Official Act As Cardinal VP

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stan (The Man) Musial performed his first "official" act as Vice President of the St. Louis Cardinals when he tossed out the first ball Wednesday to open the 1963 World Series at Yankee Stadium.

The 42-year-old Musial, who retired as an active player with the Cardinals last Sunday following 22 seasons, recieved a rousing ovation from nearly 70,000 fans as he cocked his left arm and threw the ball to Yankee catcher Elston Howard.

Howard returned the ball to Musial as a souvenir.

Musial watched the game from a box seat near the Yankee dugout. He was flanked on one side by Yankee Hall of Famer Joe DiMaggio and on the other by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

Dodgers' Victory Drops Series Odds To Even Money

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Los Angeles Dodgers' opening victory over the favored New York Yankees Wednesday dropped the man-to-man betting on the best-of-seven series to "even money."

Before Wednesday's 5-2 Los Angeles win, the Yankees had been favored for the series at 7½ to 5. Wednesday night the professional range was announced "11-10 and pick 'em," whch is "even money" man to man.

However, New York is favored to take Thursday's second game at Yankee Stadium, 7-5. The betting is 10-1 the Dodgers will not take the next four.

Golf's 'Big Three' Competing In $125,000 Whitemarsh Open Event

Tourney Serves As Tuneup For Ryder Matches

Chestnut Hill's Tough Course To Boros' Liking

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHESTNUT HILL, Pa. (AP)—Golf's "big three" of Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Julius Boros will lure most of the gallery and probably grab the top money in the $125,000 Whitemarsh Open Golf Tournament that starts Thursday.

The 72-hole event continues through Sunday at the 6,807-yard, par 72 Valley Country Club Course with only the World Series and a hundred football games, college and pro, to vie for public interest.

The first prize of $26,000, biggest on the Professional Golfers Association tour, has lured the best of the golfing tourists, including Gary Player of South Africa and New Zealand's British Open king, left-handed Bob Charles.

Premium On Accuracy

The tournament also serves as a tuneup for the Ryder Cup matches next week in Atlanta. The tight course, with its 120 traps and premium on driving accuracy, is expected to afford no special advantage to long hitters such as Palmer and Nicklaus.

"It's a course for the position player, the fellow who can control the ball, said the home pro, Sam Penecale.

"Julius Boros should play it well. So should Tony Lema, Gary Player and Gene Littler," said Penecale.

Boros, at 43 winner of two U.S. Open crowns and recently selected PGA Player of the Year, is recognized as golf's finest technician with the wedge. He stands a good chance to add to his honors, although, as usual, he is second choice behind Palmer and Nicklaus.

Leads Money Winners

Palmer is the year's leading money winner, with a record $100,000 plus, but both Nicklaus and Boros are pressing him. Nicklaus, whose last big victory was in the rich World Series of Golf which isn't figured in the official money winning list, has won the Masters and PGA crowns this year while Boros is the Open king.

The tourney lost a touch of glamor and nostalgia when Ben Hogan withdrew Tuesday because of pressing business matters in Texas. The old Hawk, a four-time winner of the U.S. Open and still a formidable player, said he had been unable to practice during the past few weeks.

Ex-Athletics Catcher Dies

Perkins Played In 1,171 Games

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Ralph (Cy) Perkins, a catcher for the Philadelphia Athletics for 15 years and a member of their pennant winning teams of 1929 and 1930, died Wednesday at a convalescent home here. He was 68.

Perkins, hailed as the man who taught Mickey Cochrane to catch without injuring his hands, previously was a virus patient in Chestnut Hill Hospital.

Perkins played 1,171 major league games, including one year with Detroit. He also was coach for three champions — the New York Yankees of 1932, the Detroit Tigers of 1935 and the Philadelphia Phillies of 1950.

He was a top-flight catcher, but a weak hitter and was not speedy. He took pride in his hands and fingers, uninjured in the long baseball campaigns.

Burial will be in Gloucester, Mass.

Gophers Hopeful Harren Can Play Against Cadets

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)— A bad knee belonging to Minnesota's No. 1 left halfback posed a threat to the team's running game Wednesday, but team physicians said they were hopeful Dick Harren would be able to play against Army Saturday.

Harren, a sparkling sophomore from St. Paul, missed all of last season because of the injury. During the off-season he underwent surgery to correct the weakness and coach Murray Warmath thought the knee had healed.

The injury showed up after the Gophers, loss last Saturday to Nebraska and Harren was sidelined from practice Wednesday.

Another injury plagued Warmath, who has the squad working mostly today on defensing Army pass plays, as No. 2 right end Aaron Brown showed up with an ankle injury. However, team doctors said Aaron, injured Tuesday, should be able to play Saturday.

Al Harris, sophomore from Port Arthur, Texas, took Harren's place in the lineup, and John Rajala, Anoka, Minn., sophomore, was in for Brown.

St. Louis Hawks 'Growing Own Team,' Says Owner

NBA Team Clicks With Young, Unknown Players

By RICHARD LAY
United Press International

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — "We're growing our own team," said Ben Kerner, dedicated owner of the St. Louis Hawks and member of that all but extinct breed—basketball tycoon.

The one-man owner of the Hawks, a team that has won five Western Division titles and a world championship in eight seasons in St. Louis, put it this way when asked why he got into basketball:

"I'm in it because it's all I've got. What else would I do if I wasn't in basketball."

Kerner, one of the pioneers of the pro game, began his career when he and a partner bought the Buffalo Bisons of the old National League in the mid-1940s, leaving a sports advertising business behind.

After a brief stay in the tri-cities area of Illinois Kerner, who had bought out his partner, moved the team to Milwaukee.

"We moved to Milwaukee two years before the Braves came," Kerner said. "When they came in they monopolized the sports business." The result was a search for greener pastures and the decision to move to St. Louis.

Gave Up The Game

Kerner, a bachelor, never played basketball after high school. A knee injury when he tried out for the team at Canisius College ended his career.

He recalled that after Canisius, he attended Buffalo Law School for a half year. But, then his father died.

"If dad had lived I wouldn't have been in the publishing business or sports," Kerner said. "I would have been a lawyer."

The most recent setback was the depressing 1961-62 season, when for the first time since moving to St. Louis the Hawks finished out of the playoffs.

A testimonial to the astute basketball knowledge and business instinct acquired by Kerner during his almost two decades in the game, was the complete revamping of the team during the summer, with stars Cliff Hagan and Bob Pettit and Len Wilkins the only survivors on the new club.

"I have to feel good about the way it came out," he said. "We came in with actually 10 new players, we tore the team apart and yet missed by only one game getting into the series with the Boston Celtics.

Builds From Within

"We came in with a lot of young unheard of players like Zelmo Beaty, John Barnhill. . .our improvement had to come from within, we didn't have the superstars like Baylor and West," he said.

It was just before the disappointing season that Kerner said he was offered a deal to incorporate the club. The franchise he said was valued at $2.5 million. Under the terms, Kerner would retain 60 per cent of the team's stock and continue as head man in the organization.

"But I decided it was a bad idea," Kerner said. "I would have operated with a board of directors, having to answer for the things I was doing. It was the greatest decision I ever made. The following year was the worst we ever had. We finished out of the playoffs for the first time, it certainly would have been unbearable."

Kerner, who maintains he has the best coach in the NBA in Harry Gallatin, also claims "We're just one man away from a great team" and is optimistically looking ahead to the coming season.

Sain Will Miss Series Because Of Broken Jaw

NEW YORK (UPI) — Johnny Sain, pitching coach for the New York Yankees, will miss the entire World Series because of a broken jaw, it was announced Wednesday.

Sain suffered the injury at a downtown restaurant Tuesday night when he attempted to halt an altercation.

He was taken to Lenox Hill Hospital where his jaw was wired.

Bedford Road Picks Pitcher-Shortstop

Gary Martin, who pitched and played shortstop for the Red Sox in the Dapper Dan Little League this past season, was the number one draft choice as the ten managers of Hot Stove League teams selected 139 players for next year Tuesday night at City Hall.

Bedford Road Optimists, last-place finishers in the Hot Stove League in 1963, got first choice and selected Martin in the first round.

Bobby Deremer, another pitcher-infielder for the Red Sox, was picked up in the first round by B'nai B'rith. Deremer was the third player chosen in the draft, and the Tigers' Glenn Cross was second. He was selected by the Elks.

It was announced at Tuesday's meeting that the local Hot Stove League may become affiliated with the national organization next season.

The date for the annual league dinner was set for Thursday, October 24, at St. Mary's Church Hall.

Members of the dinner committee are Cedric Miller, Bert Lawler, Art Delozier and Raymond Gephart. The program committee is headed by Reatus Spiker, and other members include John Daum, Carl Phillips, Patsy Algieri, James McGee, Robert Ziler, John Reynolds and Herman Snoots.

Draft choices follow:

JAYCEES—Mervin Uhl, Frank Snyder, David Light, Carl Hockenberry, Willard Rice, Gary Hull, Craig Courtney, Randall Spriggs, Nelson Carroll, Eddie Plummer, Charles Bolinger, Kurt Muller and Larry Sloan.

SALVATION ARMY—James Crump, Larry McCoy, William Shiply, Gary Wilkins, Victor Chaney, Herbert Roby, Ronald Kunis, Randy Sherwood, Evan John, Chucky Bucy, William Greeu Jr., R. Scott Carroll and Michael Seibert.

49ers Activate Fullback Lind

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The San Francisco Forty Niners announced Wednesday they have placed fullback Mike Lind on the active list. He has been out with injuries since prior to the season opener.

Lind is a 220 pound halfback from Notre Dame, and was the fifth round draft choice of the club in 1962.

The Forty Niners now have 36 men on the active list, one short of the limit.

Florida A&M Leads Nation's Small Colleges

Delaware Second In UPI Balloting

NEW YORK (UPI) — Florida A&M unbeaten in 19 straight regular season games including its only game this season, was named the nation's No. 1 small college football team Wednesday in the first weekly ratings by the United Press International Board of Coaches.

The Rattlers whipped Lincoln College (Mo.) 44-6 last weekend to regain the top position they occupied most of last season before losing out in the final three weeks to Southern Mississippi, since graduated to the major college level. Florida A&M received seven first place votes.

Delaware, 30-0 victor over Lehigh in its opener last week and ninth in the final UPI ratings last season, received two first place ballots and enough points to rank second.

Northern Illinois, paced by quarterback George Bork who has broken nearly every national collegiate passing mark, held third place, receiving three first place votes. Bork has completed 73 passes for 104 yards and 14 touchdowns in the Huskies' three victories this season.

Each week of the season the 35-man UPI coaches board — made up of five coaches from each of the nation's seven geographical sections — will pick the top 10 teams. Points are awarded on a basis of 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 for votes from first place through 10th.

Lenoir-Rhyne (2-0), fourth last season, retained that position this week, gathering two first place votes. Central Oklahoma (2-0), third last season, rated fifth; Montana State, 10th last year, and Wittenberg and Eastern Carolina tied for ninth.

Pittsburg State (Kan.), Omaha and Tennessee Tech headed the second 10 followed in order by South Dakota State, Massachusetts and Central Michigan. Middle Tennessee State and East Texas State were tied for 17th, followed by Humboldt State and Butler.

A total of 92 colleges drew at least one point in this week's balloting. At the end of the season UPI will present the winner of the national small college football title with a permanent trophy.

Bruhn Gives Badgers Fundamentals Drill

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—True to his word Wisconsin football coach Milt Bruhn dished up a practice session of pure fundamentals Wednesday.

The backs went through the rigors of one-on-one tackling while quarterback Harold Brandt spent most of the afternoon in passing drills.

Bruhn had said earlier in the week with an open date coming up this Saturday, he was going to send the team through a lot of practice of fundamentals.

With the fundamentals in hand, Bruhn then sent his first three units against a Purdue defense.

Brandt seemed to be throwing the ball with more authority, but sophomore Dave Fronek was overshooting his mark. Fronek split his time between offense and defense.

McPeak Reshuffles Redskins' Defense

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Coach Bill McPeak of the Washington Redskins re-shuffled his defensive unit Wednesday after learning that wingback Johnny Sample not only will be unable to play against New York Sunday but may be out for as long as six weeks.

Sample, injured when the Redskins beat Los Angeles two weeks ago, will be examined again Thursday by team physician George Resta to determine whether an operation is necessary. Dr. Resta said X-rays revealed that Sample's torn knee ligament is not mending properly.

McPeak also is faced with the possibility that Claude Crabb, Sample's replacement, is a doubtful starter against the pass-minded Giants. McPeak shifted Dick James, a standout at offensive halfback thus far this season, to defensive safety and put safety Jim Steffen in the wingback spot.

The wave of injuries in the secondary will leave the offensive halfback duties up to veteran Bill Barnes with inexperienced Leroy Jackson in reserve. Speedster Frank Budd is being groomed for possible use as a safety.

Eight Cross Country Teams To Open 1963 Season Today

Three Meets Set At Fort Cumberland And Maplehurst

Eight area high schools will have varsity cross country teams this year, and all of them will begin competition today in meets scheduled for the Fort Cumberland Golf Course layout here and the Maplehurst course in Frostburg.

Fort Hill will meet Romney, and Paw Paw will oppose Oldtown in separate tests at Fort Cumberland. Allegany, Beall and Elk Garden will engage in a triangular meet at Frostburg.

Beall defeated Romney by four points last year to win the area championship, but the Pioneer harriers came back to beat the Mountaineers for the Potomac Valley Conference title by a four-point margin.

Valley is making its cross country debut this season and will be coached by Calvin James, while Victor McKay has replaced Harry Lennox as Allegany mentor.

Other 1963 coaches are John Fatkin, Fort Hill; Enordo (Moose) Arnone, Beall; Edgar (Barney) Tucker, Oldtown; Paul Kalbaugh, Elk Garden; Louis Close, Paw Paw, and Roger Parker, Romney.

The county meet is scheduled for October 24 and the area meet will be held November 7, both at Fort Cumberland. On Thursday, October 31, Allegany and Fort Hill will compete in the CVAL meet at Martinsburg while Beall, Romney, Elk Garden and Paw Paw are participating in the PVC meet at Fort Cumberland. Oldtown and Valley will oppose each other on that day.

The cross country season will wind up on Saturday, November 16, with the Maryland State Meet at Hereford.

Marshall End Files Fingertips

Practice Improves Cure's Receiving

By ROBERT M. GORNALL

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (UPI) — Safecrackers and Marshall University's Jim Cure have at least one thing in common—they file their fingertips for greater sensitivity.

Cure, leading pass receiver in major college football, has been filing the tips of his fingers since his high school days when he did it accidentally.

The speedy pass receiver, who has 11 receptions for 124 yards—he was fifth in the nation last year with 46 catches for 666 yards — says fingertip filing doesn't hurt and makes him "feel the ball better."

"It makes your hands clamp down on it," he added.

Besides being fifth in the nation last year, Cure set a new Mid-American Conference record with 26 snags for 374 yards. He also was an all-conference selection.

Marshall Coach Charlie Snyder summed up Cure's talents this way:

"Jim is a great pass receiver, has good speed, better hands and a lot of desire."

Cure, double and triple-teamed last year against Morehead and Miami (Ohio) University, "cuts extremely well for an end and has great faking ability," Snyder said.

The 6-1, 184-pound junior, who came here as a halfback, isn't a sloucy in the speed department either, running the 100-yard dash in 10.4 and the 40-yard dash with full equipment in 4.9 seconds.

Snyder said Cure is All-America material, but added he had a "long way to go."

Cure said he would recommend the "filing procedure" to any college end, explaining that last year he advised the other Marshall end Bobby Venters to give it a try.

"He tried it and ended up second top receiver on the team," Cure said, "and he still does it."

Venters, another junior, grabbed 13 passes for 187 yards last year, averaging 14.3 yards a carry.

Snyder likes Venters too, saying he was a "good receiver," but explained, "we have not thrown to him as much as Cure."

Marshall has its hopes up high for a good season this year, after finishing 4-6 last year. This season got off to a bad start losing to Morehead.

Yanks Awed By Koufax

Tresh Says Curve Best He's Seen

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees are impressed—yes, and downright awed by Sandy Koufax.

"He has the best curve ball I have ever seen," said Tom Tresh, who accounted for both Yankee runs with his homer in the eighth of the opening World Series game.

"When you hit his fast ball, it seems easy. When you don't it seems hard."

"I thought he pitched real well the whole game," said Manager Ralph Houk, smoking a big cigar reflectively after his Yankees were beaten by the Dodgers 5-2.

"No, I didn't give my batters any advice. I give them credit for knowing what to do. No, they don't make comments when they come back to the dugout after striking out. That's Little League stuff. No, they didn't describe what Koufax was throwing. They didn't need to do it. You could see for yourself. No, he doesn't pitch like anyone in our league."

In short, there was agreement that Koufax was superb.

There was one die-hard, Joe Pepitone. Joe came up in the ninth with one out and Koufax needing one more strikeout to set a new Series record of 15.

"I looked out there and I just thought I don't want you breaking any record when I'm up here," said Joe. He got a single to right, but Koufax got his record by striking out Harry Bright to end the game.

Houk wouldn't even acknowledge that the Yankees had Koufax on the hook in the fifth when they loaded the bases on three hits.

"You don't get as good a pitcher as him on the hook that quick," said Houk. He then struck out Hector Lopez for the third out.

Houk said the defeat did not change his plans — Al Downing goes Thursday as expected.

Bert Coan Works Out With Chiefs

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Bert Coan, former Kansas University football star, Wednesday worked out with the Kansas City Chiefs.

Coan was with the San Diego Chargers last season, but became a free agent this year when the Chargers asked waivers on him and he was not claimed.

The speedy halfback, who broke his leg during his junior year at Kansas, has been bothered ever since with the leg. However, he said Wednesday the leg was fine.

Coan has a chance of making the Chiefs' squad, but it was generally believed that he most likely will become a member of the taxi squad.

Ward Enters Riverside Race

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — Rodger Ward, twice winner of the Indianapolis 500 Classic, Wednesday entered the Oct. 13 Riverside Grand Prix for sports cars—the event in which he suffered three broken vertebrae last year.

Ward tried out a new Cooper-Chevy last week at the Northwest Grand Prix in Kent, Wash., and finished second behind Lloyd Ruby. The car was entered by Nickey Chevrolet of Chicago.

An accident during qualifications last October on the Riverside International Raceway sent Ward to the hospital where he was fitted with a torso cast. He spent six days in the hospital.

Already entered in the $35,000, 200-mile race are defending titlist Roger Penske, 1963 Grand Prix Champion Jimmy Clark, 1962 Grand Prix Champ Graham Hill, 1963 Indianapolis 500 winner Parnelli Jones, and others.

Golf's 'Big Three' Competing In $125,000 Whitemarsh Open Event

Tourney Serves As Tuneup For Ryder Matches

Chestnut Hill's Tough Course To Boros' Liking

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHESTNUT HILL, Pa. (AP)—Golf's "big three" of Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Julius Boros will lure most of the gallery and probably grab the top money in the $125,000 Whitemarsh Open Golf Tournament that starts Thursday.

The 72-hole event continues through Sunday at the 6,807-yard, par 72 Valley Country Club Course with only the World Series and a hundred football games, college and pro, to vie for public interest.

The first prize of $26,000, biggest on the Professional Golfers Association tour, has lured the best of the golfing tourists, including Gary Player of South Africa and New Zealand's British Open king, left-handed Bob Charles.

Premium On Accuracy

The tournament also serves as a tuneup for the Ryder Cup matches next week in Atlanta. The tight course, with its 120 traps and premium on driving accuracy, is expected to afford no special advantage to long hitters such as Palmer and Nicklaus.

"It's a course for the position player, the fellow who can control the ball, said the home pro, Sam Penecale.

"Julius Boros should play it well. So should Tony Lema, Gary Player and Gene Littler," said Penecale.

Boros, at 43 winner of two U.S. Open crowns and recently selected PGA Player of the Year, is recognized as golf's finest technician with the wedge. He stands a good chance to add to his honors, although, as usual, he is second choice behind Palmer and Nicklaus.

Leads Money Winners

Palmer is the year's leading money winner, with a record $100,000 plus, but both Nicklaus and Boros are pressing him. Nicklaus, whose last big victory was in the rich World Series of Golf which isn't figured in the official money winning list, has won the Masters and PGA crowns this year while Boros is the Open king.

The tourney lost a touch of glamor and nostalgia when Ben Hogan withdrew Tuesday because of pressing business matters in Texas. The old Hawk, a four-time winner of the U.S. Open and still a formidable player, said he had been unable to practice during the past few weeks.

Ex-Athletics Catcher Dies

Perkins Played In 1,171 Games

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Ralph (Cy) Perkins, a catcher for the Philadelphia Athletics for 15 years and a member of their pennant winning teams of 1929 and 1930, died Wednesday at a convalescent home here. He was 68.

Perkins, hailed as the man who taught Mickey Cochrane to catch without injuring his hands, previously was a virus patient in Chestnut Hill Hospital.

Perkins played 1,171 major league games, including one year with Detroit. He also was coach for three champions — the New York Yankees of 1932, the Detroit Tigers of 1935 and the Philadelphia Phillies of 1950.

He was a top-flight catcher, but a weak hitter and was not speedy. He took pride in his hands and fingers, uninjured in the long baseball campaigns.

Burial will be in Gloucester, Mass.

Gophers Hopeful Harren Can Play Against Cadets

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)— A bad knee belonging to Minnesota's No. 1 left halfback posed a threat to the team's running game Wednesday, but team physicians said they were hopeful Dick Harren would be able to play against Army Saturday.

Harren, a sparkling sophomore from St. Paul, missed all of last season because of the injury. During the off-season he underwent surgery to correct the weakness and coach Murray Warmath thought the knee had healed.

The injury showed up after the Gophers, loss last Saturday to Nebraska and Harren was sidelined from practice Wednesday.

Another injury plagued Warmath, who has the squad working mostly today on defensing Army pass plays, as No. 2 right end Aaron Brown showed up with an ankle injury. However, team doctors said Aaron, injured Tuesday, should be able to play Saturday.

Al Harris, sophomore from Port Arthur, Texas, took Harren's place in the lineup, and John Rajala, Anoka, Minn., sophomore, was in for Brown.

St. Louis Hawks 'Growing Own Team,' Says Owner

NBA Team Clicks With Young, Unknown Players

By RICHARD LAY
United Press International

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — "We're growing our own team," said Ben Kerner, dedicated owner of the St. Louis Hawks and member of that all but extinct breed—basketball tycoon.

The one-man owner of the Hawks, a team that has won five Western Division titles and a world championship in eight seasons in St. Louis, put it this way when asked why he got into basketball:

"I'm in it because it's all I've got. What else would I do if I wasn't in basketball."

Kerner, one of the pioneers of the pro game, began his career when he and a partner bought the Buffalo Bisons of the old National League in the mid-1940s, leaving a sports advertising business behind.

After a brief stay in the tri-cities area of Illinois Kerner, who had bought out his partner, moved the team to Milwaukee.

"We moved to Milwaukee two years before the Braves came," Kerner said. "When they came in they monopolized the sports business." The result was a search for greener pastures and the decision to move to St. Louis.

Gave Up The Game

Kerner, a bachelor, never played basketball after high school. A knee injury when he tried out for the team at Canisius College ended his career.

He recalled that after Canisius, he attended Buffalo Law School for a half year. But, then his father died.

"If dad had lived I wouldn't have been in the publishing business or sports," Kerner said. "I would have been a lawyer."

The most recent setback was the depressing 1961-62 season, when for the first time since moving to St. Louis the Hawks finished out of the playoffs.

A testimonial to the astute basketball knowledge and business instinct acquired by Kerner during his almost two decades in the game, was the complete revamping of the team during the summer, with stars Cliff Hagan and Bob Pettit and Len Wilkins the only survivors on the new club.

"I have to feel good about the way it came out," he said. "We came in with actually 10 new players, we tore the team apart and yet missed by only one game getting into the series with the Boston Celtics.

Builds From Within

"We came in with a lot of young unheard of players like Zelmo Beaty, John Barnhill. . .our improvement had to come from within, we didn't have the superstars like Baylor and West," he said.

It was just before the disappointing season that Kerner said he was offered a deal to incorporate the club. The franchise he said was valued at $2.5 million. Under the terms, Kerner would retain 60 per cent of the team's stock and continue as head man in the organization.

"But I decided it was a bad idea," Kerner said. "I would have operated with a board of directors, having to answer for the things I was doing. It was the greatest decision I ever made. The following year was the worst we ever had. We finished out of the playoffs for the first time, it certainly would have been unbearable."

Kerner, who maintains he has the best coach in the NBA in Harry Gallatin, also claims "We're just one man away from a great team" and is optimistically looking ahead to the coming season.

Sain Will Miss Series Because Of Broken Jaw

NEW YORK (UPI) — Johnny Sain, pitching coach for the New York Yankees, will miss the entire World Series because of a broken jaw, it was announced Wednesday.

Sain suffered the injury at a downtown restaurant Tuesday night when he attempted to halt an altercation.

He was taken to Lenox Hill Hospital where his jaw was wired.

Bedford Road Picks Pitcher-Shortstop

Gary Martin, who pitched and played shortstop for the Red Sox in the Dapper Dan Little League this past season, was the number one draft choice as the ten managers of Hot Stove League teams selected 139 players for next year Tuesday night at City Hall.

Bedford Road Optimists, last-place finishers in the Hot Stove League in 1963, got first choice and selected Martin in the first round.

Bobby Deremer, another pitcher-infielder for the Red Sox, was picked up in the first round by B'nai B'rith. Deremer was the third player chosen in the draft, and the Tigers' Glenn Cross was second. He was selected by the Elks.

It was announced at Tuesday's meeting that the local Hot Stove League may become affiliated with the national organization next season.

The date for the annual league dinner was set for Thursday, October 24, at St. Mary's Church Hall.

Members of the dinner committee are Cedric Miller, Bert Lawler, Art Delozier and Raymond Gephart. The program committee is headed by Reatus Spiker, and other members include John Daum, Carl Phillips, Patsy Algieri, James McGee, Robert Ziler, John Reynolds and Herman Snoots.

Draft choices follow:

49ers Activate Fullback Lind

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The San Francisco Forty Niners announced Wednesday they have placed fullback Mike Lind on the active list. He has been out with injuries since prior to the season opener.

Lind is a 220 pound halfback from Notre Dame, and was the fifth round draft choice of the club in 1962.

The Forty Niners now have 36 men on the active list, one short of the limit.

Florida A&M Leads Nation's Small Colleges

Delaware Second In UPI Balloting

NEW YORK (UPI) — Florida A&M unbeaten in 19 straight regular season games including its only game this season, was named the nation's No. 1 small college football team Wednesday in the first weekly ratings by the United Press International Board of Coaches.

The Rattlers whipped Lincoln College (Mo.) 44-6 last weekend to regain the top position they occupied most of last season before losing out in the final three weeks to Southern Mississippi, since graduated to the major college level. Florida A&M received seven first place votes.

Delaware, 30-0 victor over Lehigh in its opener last week and ninth in the final UPI ratings last season, received two first place ballots and enough points to rank second.

Northern Illinois, paced by quarterback George Bork who has broken nearly every national collegiate passing mark, held third place, receiving three first place votes. Bork has completed 73 passes for 104 yards and 14 touchdowns in the Huskies' three victories this season.

Each week of the season the 35-man UPI coaches board — made up of five coaches from each of the nation's seven geographical sections — will pick the top 10 teams. Points are awarded on a basis of 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 for votes from first place through 10th.

Lenoir-Rhyne (2-0), fourth last season, retained that position this week, gathering two first place votes. Central Oklahoma (2-0), third last season, rated fifth; Montana State, 10th last year, and Wittenberg and Eastern Carolina tied for ninth.

Pittsburg State (Kan.), Omaha and Tennessee Tech headed the second 10 followed in order by South Dakota State, Massachusetts and Central Michigan. Middle Tennessee State and East Texas State were tied for 17th, followed by Humboldt State and Butler.

A total of 92 colleges drew at least one point in this week's balloting. At the end of the season UPI will present the winner of the national small college football title with a permanent trophy.

Bruhn Gives Badgers Fundamentals Drill

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—True to his word Wisconsin football coach Milt Bruhn dished up a practice session of pure fundamentals Wednesday.

The backs went through the rigors of one-on-one tackling while quarterback Harold Brandt spent most of the afternoon in passing drills.

Bruhn had said earlier in the week with an open date coming up this Saturday, he was going to send the team through a lot of practice of fundamentals.

With the fundamentals in hand, Bruhn then sent his first three units against a Purdue defense.

Brandt seemed to be throwing the ball with more authority, but sophomore Dave Fronek was overshooting his mark. Fronek split his time between offense and defense.

McPeak Reshuffles Redskins' Defense

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Coach Bill McPeak of the Washington Redskins re-shuffled his defensive unit Wednesday after learning that wingback Johnny Sample not only will be unable to play against New York Sunday but may be out for as long as six weeks.

Sample, injured when the Redskins beat Los Angeles two weeks ago, will be examined again Thursday by team physician George Resta to determine whether an operation is necessary. Dr. Resta said X-rays revealed that Sample's torn knee ligament is not mending properly.

McPeak also is faced with the possibility that Claude Crabb, Sample's replacement, is a doubtful starter against the pass-minded Giants. McPeak shifted Dick James, a standout at offensive halfback thus far this season, to defensive safety and put safety Jim Steffen in the wingback spot.

The wave of injuries in the secondary will leave the offensive halfback duties up to veteran Bill Barnes with inexperienced Leroy Jackson in reserve. Speedster Frank Budd is being groomed for possible use as a safety.

Eight Cross Country Teams To Open 1963 Season Today

Three Meets Set At Fort Cumberland And Maplehurst

Eight area high schools will have varsity cross country teams this year, and all of them will begin competition today in meets scheduled for the Fort Cumberland Golf Course layout here and the Maplehurst course in Frostburg.

Fort Hill will meet Romney, and Paw Paw will oppose Oldtown in separate tests at Fort Cumberland. Allegany, Beall and Elk Garden will engage in a triangular meet at Frostburg.

Beall defeated Romney by four points last year to win the area championship, but the Pioneer harriers came back to beat the Mountaineers for the Potomac Valley Conference title by a four-point margin.

Valley is making its cross country debut this season and will be coached by Calvin James, while Victor McKay has replaced Harry Lennox as Allegany mentor.

Other 1963 coaches are John Fatkin, Fort Hill; Enordo (Moose) Arnone, Beall; Edgar (Barney) Tucker, Oldtown; Paul Kalbaugh, Elk Garden; Louis Close, Paw Paw, and Roger Parker, Romney.

The county meet is scheduled for October 24 and the area meet will be held November 7, both at Fort Cumberland. On Thursday, October 31, Allegany and Fort Hill will compete in the CVAL meet at Martinsburg while Beall, Romney, Elk Garden and Paw Paw are participating in the PVC meet at Fort Cumberland. Oldtown and Valley will oppose each other on that day.

The cross country season will wind up on Saturday, November 16, with the Maryland State Meet at Hereford.

Marshall End Files Fingertips

Practice Improves Cure's Receiving

By ROBERT M. GORNALL

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (UPI) — Safecrackers and Marshall University's Jim Cure have at least one thing in common—they file their fingertips for greater sensitivity.

Cure, leading pass receiver in major college football, has been filing the tips of his fingers since his high school days when he did it accidentally.

The speedy pass receiver, who has 11 receptions for 124 yards—he was fifth in the nation last year with 46 catches for 666 yards — says fingertip filing doesn't hurt and makes him "feel the ball better."

"It makes your hands clamp down on it," he added.

Besides being fifth in the nation last year, Cure set a new Mid-American Conference record with 26 snags for 374 yards. He also was an all-conference selection.

Marshall Coach Charlie Snyder summed up Cure's talents this way:

"Jim is a great pass receiver, has good speed, better hands and a lot of desire."

Cure, double and triple-teamed last year against Morehead and Miami (Ohio) University, "cuts extremely well for an end and has great faking ability," Snyder said.

The 6-1, 184-pound junior, who came here as a halfback, isn't a sloucy in the speed department either, running the 100-yard dash in 10.4 and the 40-yard dash with full equipment in 4.9 seconds.

Snyder said Cure is All-America material, but added he had a "long way to go."

Cure said he would recommend the "filing procedure" to any college end, explaining that last year he advised the other Marshall end Bobby Venters to give it a try.

"He tried it and ended up second top receiver on the team," Cure said, "and he still does it."

Venters, another junior, grabbed 13 passes for 187 yards last year, averaging 14.3 yards a carry.

Snyder likes Venters too, saying he was a "good receiver," but explained, "we have not thrown to him as much as Cure."

Marshall has its hopes up high for a good season this year, after finishing 4-6 last year. This season got off to a bad start losing to Morehead.

Yanks Awed By Koufax

Tresh Says Curve Best He's Seen

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees are impressed—yes, and downright awed by Sandy Koufax.

"He has the best curve ball I have ever seen," said Tom Tresh, who accounted for both Yankee runs with his homer in the eighth of the opening World Series game.

"When you hit his fast ball, it seems easy. When you don't it seems hard."

"I thought he pitched real well the whole game," said Manager Ralph Houk, smoking a big cigar reflectively after his Yankees were beaten by the Dodgers 5-2.

"No, I didn't give my batters any advice. I give them credit for knowing what to do. No, they don't make comments when they come back to the dugout after striking out. That's Little League stuff. No, they didn't describe what Koufax was throwing. They didn't need to do it. You could see for yourself. No, he doesn't pitch like anyone in our league."

In short, there was agreement that Koufax was superb.

There was one die-hard, Joe Pepitone. Joe came up in the ninth with one out and Koufax needing one more strikeout to set a new Series record of 15.

"I looked out there and I just thought I don't want you breaking any record when I'm up here," said Joe. He got a single to right, but Koufax got his record by striking out Harry Bright to end the game.

Houk wouldn't even acknowledge that the Yankees had Koufax on the hook in the fifth when they loaded the bases on three hits.

"You don't get as good a pitcher as him on the hook that quick," said Houk. He then struck out Hector Lopez for the third out.

Houk said the defeat did not change his plans — Al Downing goes Thursday as expected.

Bert Coan Works Out With Chiefs

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Bert Coan, former Kansas University football star, Wednesday worked out with the Kansas City Chiefs.

Coan was with the San Diego Chargers last season, but became a free agent this year when the Chargers asked waivers on him and he was not claimed.

The speedy halfback, who broke his leg during his junior year at Kansas, has been bothered ever since with the leg. However, he said Wednesday the leg was fine.

Coan has a chance of making the Chiefs' squad, but it was generally believed that he most likely will become a member of the taxi squad.

Ward Enters Riverside Race

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — Rodger Ward, twice winner of the Indianapolis 500 Classic, Wednesday entered the Oct. 13 Riverside Grand Prix for sports cars—the event in which he suffered three broken vertebrae last year.

Ward tried out a new Cooper-Chevy last week at the Northwest Grand Prix in Kent, Wash., and finished second behind Lloyd Ruby. The car was entered by Nickey Chevrolet of Chicago.

An accident during qualifications last October on the Riverside International Raceway sent Ward to the hospital where he was fitted with a torso cast. He spent six days in the hospital.

Curtis Seeking To Move Bryant Trial Out Of Ala.

Publishers Say Finding Impartial Jury Impossible

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — The Curtis Publishing Co. tried to convince a federal judge Wednesday it would be impossible to gather an impartial jury anywhere in the state to hear a $10 million libel suit by Alabama Football Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant against the Saturday Evening Post.

Attorneys for the magazine asked Judge H. H. Groomes to name some city outside Alabama as the site for the trial which is expected to be held late next winter. Bryant's lawyers disputed the Post's claims and asked that the trial be held here.

After hearing arguments that took up most of the day, Groomes said he would issue a ruling sometime this month. He gave attorneys 10 days in which to file briefs supporting their case.

Bryant is suing the Post because of an article, "The Story of a College Football Fix," that accused him of conspiring with former Georgia Coach Wallace Butts to rig the 1962 Georgia-Alabama football game. Alabama, a 17-point favorite, won the game 35-0.

Butts won a $3.06 million judgement from the Post in a similar suit last August in Atlanta. The magazine has asked for a new trial.

Post Attorney Eric Embry showed the judge five bound volumes which he said contained newspaper stories attacking the magazine.

"The amount of press attacks against this magazine," Embry said, "was described by one Mobile (Ala.) writer as having bested World War II for front page news." He did not identify the writer.

"No jury would feel free to decide this case in favor of the defendant (Curtis)," the lawyer said.

The lawyer contended that Bryant's popularity in Alabama, as a successful football coach and celebrity, puts him in the status of a "public hero."

"There is a widespread opinion throughout Alabama," he said, "that the judgment in this case should be so large as to put the defendant out of business."

Rice's Speed, Size Has Engle Worried

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) —Penn State Coach Rip Engle lamented Wednesday night that his "green bunch of kids" will give up considerable size and speed when they play Rice Saturday at Beaver Stadium.

"Rice is a terrific team," Engle said, "superior in size and speed. They're so big and fast."

Engle said the Nittany Lions, who have won their first two games, are "a little ahead of where we thought we'd be. We got by two, but I don't know how many more we'll get by. We've got a lot of sore spots."

Engle said the Lions have moved to a new practice field and the change has resulted in a "couple of poor practices. We haven't oriented ourselves to our new surroundings."

Rice, whom State defeated last year 18-7, stopped LSU 21-12 last Saturday in its season opener.

Italian Champion To Fight Ortega

ROME (UPI) — Italian Middleweight Champion Nino Benevenuti, who beat Argentinas Victor Zalazar last week, will meet Mexico's Gaspar Ortega Oct. 18.

Ortega, is getting a 5,000-dollar purse for the fight at Romes Sports Palace. He is expected in Rome Oct. 13 or 14 with manager Nick Corby.

WVU Spends Time On Defensive Drills

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — The West Virginia University football team continued Wednesday to spend most of its time on defensive drills in hopes of stopping the speedy Oregon team the Mountaineers meet Saturday.

Coach Gene Corum said Oregon "has speed to burn" and added "they'll go wide, inside or over you."

Corum also said he has been drilling his linemen to avoid getting trapped on inside runs, a favorite Oregon play.

Officer-Pro Gridder Bellino Transferred

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Joe Bellino, the former Navy All-America who has joined the Providence Steamrollers of the Atlantic Coast League, may miss the club's next game with Springfield because of his Navy duties.

Bellino, a Navy lieutenant, is being transferred from the Newport Navy Base to Charleston, S.C. He expects to be able to play in future Steamroller games, flying here from Charleston for the weekend on a pass.

Red Auerbach Fined $500 By New NBA President

Celtics' Coach Refuses To Leave After Ejection

NEW YORK (UPI) — Walter Kennedy, in his first act as new president of the National Basketball Association, Wednesday fined coach Red Auerbach of the Boston Celtics $500 "for conduct contrary to NBA rules."

Auerbach refused to leave the arena at Oceanside, Long Island, Tuesday night, after being ejected by referee Mendy Rudolph from an exhibition game against the New York Knickerbockers.

"I am following the NBA established rules which call for an automatic fine of $500 for any violation of Rule 3, Section 3, of the official NBA rules," said Kennedy.

"In effect, this rule calls for automatic expulsion of any coach who incurs two technical fouls. Further, the rule specifically states that any coach so expelled is not permitted to remain in any part of the auditorium or the stands where his team is playing," Kennedy added.

In Rudolph's official report to the league office, he stated that during the game Auerbach called a time out and advanced on the court towards the referee, which is in violation of the rules.

Rudolph warned Auerbach, who refused to leave the court, and Rudolph then called a technical foul. The referee warned Auerbach that he must leave the playing surface,and upon the coach's refusal to do so, Rudolph called a second technical foul.

This called for automatic expulsion and departure from the playing surface, Kennedy stressed.

After the technical foul shots had been taken, Rudolph stated that Auerbach was still sitting on the Boston bench. Auerbach refused to obey Rudolph's instructions to leave, but finally did so, taking his entire team with him.

After a delay of about two minutes, the Boston team returned to the floor and play was resumed.

Rudolph, in his report, went on to indicate that Auerbach sat in the stands for the remainder of the game.

Eastern Grid Powers Likely To Lose Prestige This Week

Army And Navy Invade Big Ten; Lions Host Rice

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eastern football is likely to lose some of its newly-won prestige this weekend.

Army and Navy invade the Big Ten. Penn State is host to rugged Rice. At least two of those three eastern leaders are in for trouble.

High-scoring Navy is picked to escape with its record intact against Michigan but the guess here is that inexperienced but speedy Minnesota will top Army and Rice will bring down Penn State. Pittsburgh, another eastern leader, is a solid choice to flatten California.

Crystal-balling the favorites in alphabetical order:

Air Force 20, Southern Methodist 14—Isaacson holding a hot hand.

Alabama 28, Vanderbilt 6 — Could be worse.

Arkansas 14, Texas Christian 7 —Shootin' starts for real.

Auburn 20, Kentucky 10—Jimmy Sidle the key.

Clemson 17, North Carolina State 14—Either way on this one.

Georgia 14, South Carolina 7—Not much to choose.

Georgia Tech 17, Louisiana State 7—Tech has more punch.

Iowa 14, Washington 13—Against the oddsmakers.

Kansas 21, Wyoming 6 — Gayle Sayers hard to handle.

Mississippi 28, Houston 13 — Rebs are rolling now.

Minnesota 13, Army 10 — But Cadet field goals could decide.

Navy 21, Michigan 20 — Riding with Roger Staubach.

Northwestern 21, Illinois 14 — May be too early for Illini upset.

Notre Dame 13, Purdue 7—Always a toughie for Irish.

Ohio State 21, Indiana 13 — Hoosier Woodson a threat.

Oregon 20, West Virginia 13—Berry to Renfro dangerous combo.

Oregon State 27, Baylor 21 — Plenty of passes.

Pittsburgh 21, California 7—Pitt pops third coast foe.

Rice 21, Penn State 17—Turnabout from last year.

Southern California 21, Michigan State 14—Trojans start new streak.

Tennessee 14, Mississippi State 10—Risky because of State's defense.

Texas 28, Oklahoma State 6 — Longhorns pack wallop.

Texas A. and M. 14, Texas Tech 6—Aggies finally win one.

U.C.L.A. 14, Stanford 13—Rates as tossup.

Curtis Seeking To Move Bryant Trial Out Of Ala.

Publishers Say Finding Impartial Jury Impossible

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — The Curtis Publishing Co. tried to convince a federal judge Wednesday it would be impossible to gather an impartial jury anywhere in the state to hear a $10 million libel suit by Alabama Football Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant against the Saturday Evening Post.

Attorneys for the magazine asked Judge H. H. Groomes to name some city outside Alabama as the site for the trial which is expected to be held late next winter. Bryant's lawyers disputed the Post's claims and asked that the trial be held here.

After hearing arguments that took up most of the day, Groomes said he would issue a ruling sometime this month. He gave attorneys 10 days in which to file briefs supporting their case.

Bryant is suing the Post because of an article, "The Story of a College Football Fix," that accused him of conspiring with former Georgia Coach Wallace Butts to rig the 1962 Georgia-Alabama football game. Alabama, a 17-point favorite, won the game 35-0.

Butts won a $3.06 million judgement from the Post in a similar suit last August in Atlanta. The magazine has asked for a new trial.

Post Attorney Eric Embry showed the judge five bound volumes which he said contained newspaper stories attacking the magazine.

"The amount of press attacks against this magazine," Embry said, "was described by one Mobile (Ala.) writer as having bested World War II for front page news." He did not identify the writer.

"No jury would feel free to decide this case in favor of the defendant (Curtis)," the lawyer said.

The lawyer contended that Bryant's popularity in Alabama, as a successful football coach and celebrity, puts him in the status of a "public hero."

"There is a widespread opinion throughout Alabama," he said, "that the judgment in this case should be so large as to put the defendant out of business."

Rice's Speed, Size Has Engle Worried

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) —Penn State Coach Rip Engle lamented Wednesday night that his "green bunch of kids" will give up considerable size and speed when they play Rice Saturday at Beaver Stadium.

Engle said the Nittany Lions, who have won their first two games, are "a little ahead of where we thought we'd be. We got by two, but I don't know how many more we'll get by. We've got a lot of sore spots."

Engle said the Lions have moved to a new practice field and the change has resulted in a "couple of poor practices. We haven't oriented ourselves to our new surroundings."

Rice, whom State defeated last year 18-7, stopped LSU 21-12 last Saturday in its season opener.

Bellino, a Navy lieutenant, is being transferred from the Newport Navy Base to Charleston, S.C. He expects to be able to play in future Steamroller games, flying here from Charleston for the weekend on a pass.

Red Auerbach Fined $500 By New NBA President

Celtics' Coach Refuses To Leave After Ejection

NEW YORK (UPI) — Walter Kennedy, in his first act as new president of the National Basketball Association, Wednesday fined coach Red Auerbach of the Boston Celtics $500 "for conduct contrary to NBA rules."

Auerbach refused to leave the arena at Oceanside, Long Island, Tuesday night, after being ejected by referee Mendy Rudolph from an exhibition game against the New York Knickerbockers.

"I am following the NBA established rules which call for an automatic fine of $500 for any violation of Rule 3, Section 3, of the official NBA rules," said Kennedy.

"In effect, this rule calls for automatic expulsion of any coach who incurs two technical fouls. Further, the rule specifically states that any coach so expelled is not permitted to remain in any part of the auditorium or the stands where his team is playing," Kennedy added.

In Rudolph's official report to the league office, he stated that during the game Auerbach called a time out and advanced on the court towards the referee, which is in violation of the rules.

Rudolph warned Auerbach, who refused to leave the court, and Rudolph then called a technical foul. The referee warned Auerbach that he must leave the playing surface,and upon the coach's refusal to do so, Rudolph called a second technical foul.

This called for automatic expulsion and departure from the playing surface, Kennedy stressed.

After the technical foul shots had been taken, Rudolph stated that Auerbach was still sitting on the Boston bench. Auerbach refused to obey Rudolph's instructions to leave, but finally did so, taking his entire team with him.

After a delay of about two minutes, the Boston team returned to the floor and play was resumed.

Rudolph, in his report, went on to indicate that Auerbach sat in the stands for the remainder of the game.

Eastern Grid Powers Likely To Lose Prestige This Week

Army And Navy Invade Big Ten; Lions Host Rice

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eastern football is likely to lose some of its newly-won prestige this weekend.

Army and Navy invade the Big Ten. Penn State is host to rugged Rice. At least two of those three eastern leaders are in for trouble.

High-scoring Navy is picked to escape with its record intact against Michigan but the guess here is that inexperienced but speedy Minnesota will top Army and Rice will bring down Penn State. Pittsburgh, another eastern leader, is a solid choice to flatten California.

Crystal-balling the favorites in alphabetical order:

Air Force 20, Southern Methodist 14—Isaacson holding a hot hand.

Alabama 28, Vanderbilt 6 — Could be worse.

Arkansas 14, Texas Christian 7 —Shootin' starts for real.

Auburn 20, Kentucky 10—Jimmy Sidle the key.

Clemson 17, North Carolina State 14—Either way on this one.

Georgia 14, South Carolina 7—Not much to choose.

Georgia Tech 17, Louisiana State 7—Tech has more punch.

Iowa 14, Washington 13—Against the oddsmakers.

Kansas 21, Wyoming 6 — Gayle Sayers hard to handle.

Mississippi 28, Houston 13 — Rebs are rolling now.

Minnesota 13, Army 10 — But Cadet field goals could decide.

Navy 21, Michigan 20 — Riding with Roger Staubach.

Northwestern 21, Illinois 14 — May be too early for Illini upset.

Notre Dame 13, Purdue 7—Always a toughie for Irish.

Ohio State 21, Indiana 13 — Hoosier Woodson a threat.

Oregon 20, West Virginia 13—Berry to Renfro dangerous combo.

Oregon State 27, Baylor 21 — Plenty of passes.

Pittsburgh 21, California 7—Pitt pops third coast foe.

Rice 21, Penn State 17—Turnabout from last year.

Southern California 21, Michigan State 14—Trojans start new streak.

Tennessee 14, Mississippi State 10—Risky because of State's defense.

Texas 28, Oklahoma State 6 — Longhorns pack wallop.

Texas A. and M. 14, Texas Tech 6—Aggies finally win one.

U.C.L.A. 14, Stanford 13—Rates as tossup.

The rest by sections:

East—Syracuse over Holy Cross, Villanova over Buffalo, Colgate over Boston U., Yale over Brown, Columbia over Princeton, Dartmouth over Pennsylvania, Cornell over Lehigh, Harvard over Rutgers, Delaware over Gettysburg.

Midwest—Colorado over Kansas State, Missouri over Idaho, Nebraska over Iowa State, Boston College over Detroit, Cincinnati over Xavier, Bowling Green over Dayton, Ohio U. over Kent State.

South—Florida over Richmond, Miami over Tulane, Duke over Maryland, Virginia Tech over Virginia, VMI over Davidson, Furman over William and Mary, The Citadel over George Washington, North Carolina over Wake Forest.

Southwest—Utah over New Mexico, Memphis State over Tulsa, New Mexico State over Texas Western, West Texas State over North Texas State.

Far West — Washington State over Arizona, Arizona State over Colorado State, Brigham Young over Montana State, Utah State over San Jose State.

WHAT WAS THE UNEMPLOYMENT BOWL?

By BOB SUDYK

KNUTE ROCKNE coached a team of Notre Dame All-Stars who lost an exhibition football game to the New York Giants, 21-0, Dec. 14, 1930. The game raised $115,163 for the unemployed in New York in the depths of the depression.

Boy Loses Key, Finds Key, Loses Money

BALTIMORE (AP)—Eric Metzler, 11, of Baltimore, was paid $5 by some neighbors to feed their pet cats while they were away from home.

He lost the key to their house while playing, however, and had to pay $5 for a locksmith to make an impression of the lock for a new key.

Later, skipping along near his home flipping the new key, he dropped it down a storm drain. A policeman helped him retrieve it, but it cost another 35 cents to get an extra key made for insurance.

Eric now figures that feeding the cats cost him 3½ days labor carrying out garbage for another neighbor, who pays him 10 cents a day.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, Ida V. Files, who passed away Oct. 3, 1962.
One year has passed since that sad day
When one we loved was called away
God took her home, it was His will,
Within our hearts she liveth still.
So sadly and deeply missed,
Loving son Joseph & Family

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our relatives, neighbors and friends who were so kind to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved mother, Stella M. Green. We especially wish to thank those who sent floral tributes, mass cards and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral.
Son and daughter:
Bessie Statler & Charles Green

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, Ida V. Files, who passed away Oct. 3, 1962.
One year has passed since that sad day
When one we loved was called away
God took her home, it was His will,
Within our hearts she liveth still.
So sadly and deeply missed,
Loving son Joseph & Family

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our relatives, neighbors and friends who were so kind to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved mother, Stella M. Green. We especially wish to thank those who sent floral tributes, mass cards and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral.
Son and daughter:
Bessie Statler & Charles Green

Training Plan At College Will Be Discussed

UPIDC To Sponsor Exploratory Meet

The Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company will sponsor a meeting here next week to discuss the feasibility and need for instigating various technical training programs at Allegany Community College for area high school graduates through the aid of the federal Manpower Development and Training Act.

The meeting will be held Thursday, October 10 at 10 a.m. in the UPIDC's conference room in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Invitations are being extended to officials of the U.S. Department of Labor, U.S. Department of Education, area legislators and staffers of the state and county public school system and the college, along with members of the UPIDC.

Some of the questions to be covered at the meeting include what programs should be developed in this area, should Allegany Community College develop the program, can Allegany Community College develop the program and should MDTA funds be used for this purpose?

Everett G. Partridge, UPIDC director, urged full attendance, stressing that the question of additional training for young people is of vital importance, "not only for this depressed area, but to our country as well."

Industrial leaders of the area have deplored for years the fact that too many of this area's talented youngsters leave this industrial center for technical training and fail to come back.

Thief Chisels Into Safe At Goodrich Store

City police yesterday began a probe into a safe-cracking case at the B. F. Goodrich Store here and two breaking and entering reports.

Authorities said about $200 was taken from the safe of the Goodrich store at 159 North Centre Street after an intruder entered the establishment and chiseled the back off the safe.

Detective Royce Clayton made the preliminary investigation and Detective Bureau staffers headed by Capt. James E. Van joined in the probe.

Also under investigation yesterday was the breaking and entering of the C. Glenn Watson Real Estate Company office at 213 Virginia Avenue.

Police said the intruder entered the office after smashing a glass door. Nothing was reported stolen.

Also being investigated was the report of Max Bastian, 801 Louisiana Avenue, that his car, parked outside his home, was broken into during the night. Clothing and papers valued at about $100 were taken, he said.

Earlier this week a safe was stolen from the office of S. Russ Minter, local architect, at 72 Pershing Street.

Police said the Minter safe was carried away from the office. Authorities said $320 in cash and valuable papers were in it.

Officers noted that in both the Goodrich and Minter cases the thief did not force a door and the method of entering the building is unknown.

Honesty Pays: A Little Late

Representatives of Macy Agency Inc., 20 Greene Street, placed a for sale sign on the former residence of the late Thomas W. Koon, at 221 Baltimore Avenue and got unexpected results.

In addition to being mayor of Cumberland, Koon was a medical doctor.

A few days after the sign was placed on the property, a man living near Ridgeley wrote that he had seen the for sale sign and wanted to pay a $10 medical bill he had owed Dr. Koon since 1914—just one year shy of a half century.

He wrote that he wanted to pay the bill but did not know who should get the money.

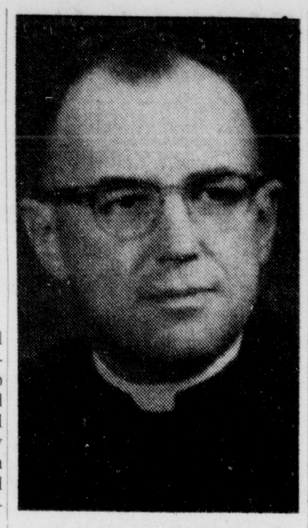
Allen D. Macy of the Macy agency wrote to commend the man's honesty and suggested that he could bring the $10 to Macy's office. This was done and the bill was sent to Dr. Koon's brother-in-law, Richard M. Hutson of Bay Shore, Long Island, New York. Mr. Hutson dropped in at the Macy office this week to express appreciation for the payment.

Dr. Koon died December 5, 1946, and his widow within the past year.

No Parking On Prospect Square

Parking will be prohibited on Prospect Square on the sides and rear of the Court House beginning today at 7 a. m. when workmen of Columbia Gas of Maryland will begin repair work on a gas leak, police said.

Lt. Gordon E. Hite, head of the Traffic Bureau said signs will be placed on the square and the no parking ban will be in effect until the work by the utility company is completed.



REV. ALBERT BURKHARDT

LaVale Church Will Install First Pastor

Rev. Albert R. Burkhardt will be installed as the first pastor of Christ Lutheran Church in LaVale during worship services Sunday at 11 a.m.

The installation will be conducted by Rev. J. Leon Haines, assistant to Rev. Dr. J. Frank Fike, president of the Maryland Synod of the Lutheran Church in America.

Rev. Burkhardt came to LaVale in March to help organize the Christ Lutheran Church which came into being at a Service of Organization on June 23. The congregation began its meetings at the home of Dr. C. N. Foose Jr., and since May 26 services have been held at the LaVale Fire Hall.

Prior to his work here Rev. Burkhardt served six years as pastor of Zion Lutheran Church, Middletown. Until August he had served as a board missionary for the Board of American Missions of the Lutheran Church in America. He is a graduate of Gettysburg College and the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg and has also served congregations in Washington and Baltimore.

In addition to conducting the installation service, Rev. Haines will speak on "That Which Is Committed." Rev. Haines had numerous contacts with the executive committee of the new church during its mission days.

A fellowship hour will conclude the service on Sunday.

Rev. Burkhardt, his wife and two sons, reside in the church parsonage, 726 Miller Street, LaVale.

September Rainfall Was Light

The total amount of rainfall in Cumberland during September, as reported by the Weather Bureau, was 1.73 inches or 1.29 inches under the September average.

K. R. Taylor, engineer in charge of the local office of the Geological Survey of the United States Department of the Interior, reports that the average daily temperature was 64.2 degrees which was 2.8 degrees below normal.

The observed mean daily flow of the North Branch of the Potomac River at the Wiley Ford gauge during the month was 220 cubic feet per second or 142 million gallons per day which is 68 per cent of the 34 year September average.

The daily flow varied between 138 cubic feet per second, 89 million gallons per day on September 27 and 526 cubic feet per second, 340 million gallons per day on September 6.

An equivalent of 67.9 cfs (43.9 mgd) was released from storage at the Savage River reservoir, which is 30.9 per cent of the flow at Cumberland, said Mr. Taylor.

Beall Funds To Be Placed In Escrow

(Earlier Story on Page 21)

BALTIMORE (AP)—A spokesman for Maryland Sen. J. Glenn Beall said Wednesday the $80,000 raised at his testimonial dinner will be placed in escrow until the veteran Republican decides whether to seek a third term.

If the 69-year-old senator does not run for the nomination next year, the spokesman said, the money raised at Tuesday's $100-a-plate dinner will be returned to the donors.

Beall said he will not make a final decision on his political future until after Jan. 1.

Some Republican leaders have been critical of Beall for raising so much money before officially announcing his candidacy.

Forestry Boys Recover U.S. Weather Device

Two boys at Meadow Mountain Boys Forestry Camp near Grantsville, discovered a "weather box" and a parachute in the woods near the camp yesterday.

The device, similar to one discovered a couple of weeks ago by a pair of local boys visiting on a farm in nearby West Virginia, was intact and in good condition when recovered.

Chester Arthur of Woodbine and Dwight Yingley of Hyattsville, working in the woods, saw the orange-colored parachute caught in the top of a tree with the box dangling from a string.

Unable to dislodge or reach it, they notified Jack Blair superintendent of the camp. Mr. Blair went to the area with the boys and was able to retrieve the box by cutting the string with a rifle bullet. The boys later cut down the tree, which was to be removed anyway, and recovered the parachute.

Mr. Blair said last night that information printed on the box indicates it is from the Weather Bureau and is being used to measure wind velocity, movement of air and other data at altitudes up to 17 miles. It is to be returned to the Weather Bureau in Washington, he said, and he and Mrs. Blair plan to send a note along crediting the two boys at the camp with the recovery.

Chief Clerk Of Juvenile Court Named

Mrs. Mary Conn was appointed Tuesday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners as chief clerk of Juvenile Court.

The county commissioners had been informed in a letter dated August 1 from W. Erick Gibbs, chairman of the County Civil Service Board, that Mrs. Conn had passed the civil service test. Mrs. Conn, who had been acting clerk several months, succeeds William F. Hidey, who resigned.

County Roads Supervisor Harry T. Skelly submitted reports concerning certain investigations and work completed. He said that East Wilson Road in the Oldtown area was dust control treated September 23. Dredging of the creek at the low water bridge at Little Orleans was finished September 18.

He also investigated the complaint of Mrs. Jessie Wolfe concerning Slate Hill near Forest Avenue in Bowman's Addition. He discovered on September 30 that this is not in the county roads system and Mrs. Wolfe has been notified.

Charles W. Garner, secretary of the Home Builders Association of Western Maryland, wrote the county commissioners recommending the appointment of Gerald Harrison of First Federal Savings and Loan Association and Paul Buchanan, president of Paul Lumber Company, to the County Board of Appeals.

Everett G. Partridge, Wilbur Johnson and Ralph G. Cover were appointed to the board by the former county commissioners in the fall of 1961 for the life of the county interim zoning ordinance but not to exceed 30 months. The 30 months will not end until spring.

Equity Suits Filed

Two new equity suits were filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Robert Harold Casteel vs. Betty Ellen Casteel and Luther Mason Warnick vs. Bonnita Eloise Warnick.

LaVale Volunteers Plan Fire Prevention Activities

Plenty of activities are scheduled next week by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company in observance of Fire Prevention Week.,

"Open House" at the fire hall will be observed on Sunday from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. during which time the volunteers will start up the old pumper of the company and take the children of the community for a ride.

They will be given a chance to ring the bell as the truck travels through town. During the past couple of years from 150 to 200 youngsters have gotten a free ride on the big truck.

A crew of firemen will tour Parkside and LaVale schools on Monday and search for any fire hazards which might be in the buildings.

Also on that day the youngsters will participate in a fire drill in conjunction with the state-wide school inspection and fire drill program.

Volunteer firemen will be on hand to observe the pupils conduct and the time it takes to evacuate the school buildings.

A regular meeting of the fire company is scheduled for Tuesday at 8 p.m.

On Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. the fire siren will be sounded with a long blast. This will be a reminder and signal for a home inspection for fire hazards by residents of the community.

On Thursday the firefighters will conduct a regular fire drill at the LaVale Plaza Shopping Center.

Winding up the week's activities will be a canvass of the area on Friday night when volunteers will use a loudspeaker to remind residents of Fire Prevention Week statistics and highlights of fire prevention.

A display will be at Searstown on Saturday.

Registration Holds At 10,909 Mark

Voter registration in the City of Cumberland remained constant at 10,909 during September.

Eleven persons, eight women and three men, were registered as voters last month but the effect on the registration was nil, since the names of 11 deceased voters were stricken from the rolls.

Registration records on October 1 included 5,704 men and 5,205 women for a total of 10,909.

PAUL E. BOWMAN

Superintendent At Luke Mill Is Retired

Paul E. Bowman, general superintendent, Yards, Bleach Pulp and Recovery, of West Virginia Pulp and Paper's Luke mill for the last 34 years, retired October 1, according to an announcement by William T. Thompson, production manager.

Mr. Bowman had been associated with the Luke mill for 41 years, starting there on a permanent basis in 1922 and working there earlier during summer vacations beginning in 1915.

He began working at Luke as a chemist in the laboratory after graduation from Penn State College, and after five years was promoted to foreman in the fiber section of the pulp mill. In June 1929 he became night superintendent of the pulp mill and the next month was promoted to pulp mill superintendent.

During the $55 million expansion program at Luke, he became general pulping superintendent, directing production of the expanded operations.

A native of Edinburg, Va., Mr. Bowman came to the Westernport area around the turn of the century when his father started work at the Luke mill.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowman and their son, Paul, a student at Frostburg State College, will continue to reside at their present address, Grant Street, Luke.

Post Office Counseling Program Begins Today

The Cumberland Post Office will hold the first in a series of four counseling and planning sessions for federal employes in this area today at 7:45 p. m. at City Hall auditorium.

The program is designed to counsel employes about the many benefits due them and problems facing them at retirement.

Andrew E. Newton, regional director of Washington Regional Office, who conducted a study which indicated the need for such a program, will attend this opening session.

The four two-hour sessions will be held on Thursdays with professional speakers selected to discuss the various subjects. Question and answer periods will follow the talks.

Tonight's speakers and the subjects they will cover are Charles E. Teets, office manager of Social Security Administration, social security; James Roby, Registrar of Wills for Allegany County, wills and inheritances, and John Kuhn, personnel officer of the Baltimore Regional Post Office, U.S. Civil Service retirement system.

Assisting Acting Postmaster William B. Orndorff with arrangements for the four programs are Mrs. Virginia Feaga, secretary to the postmaster, and Thomas B. Cumiskey, assistant postmaster.

Potomac River Basin Group Meeting Today

Sessions Scheduled At Waynesboro, Va.

Conservation-minded people of Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia, who attend the public meetings of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin with regularity soon discover that the river basin covers a wide area.

Today and tomorrow the commission is meeting in Waynesboro, Va., where the theme will be "Water Resources in the Economic Development of the Shenandoah Valley. The last previous meeting of the commission, in May, was held here when attention was focused on the North Branch of the Potomac and its problems.

Two speakers are scheduled this morning at the meeting at the General Wayne Motor Inn. Thomas F. McGourin of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service in Richmond, Va., will speak on "Small Watershed Development in the Valley" starting at 9:45 a. m. EST. He will be followed at 10:45 a. m. by Melvin Scheidt, program advisor for the U. S. Public Health Service, speaking on "Water Quality in the Valley."

Joseph F. Kaylor, former head of the State Department of Forests and Parks, will be the guest speaker at the luncheon at 12:30 p. m. EST. He is now associated with the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation of the U. S. Department of the Interior.

A panel discussion on the theme of today's meeting is scheduled for 2 p. m. EST with J. M. Morgan Jr. of the civil engineering department of Virginia Military Institute as moderator. Panel members will include Joseph G. Hamrick of the division of industrial development and planning; J. H. Lillard of the agriculture experiment station of Virginia Polytechnic Institute; Gary A. Shaw of the Rockingham-Harrisonburg Chamber of Commerce, and Robert Prettyman of the Northern Virginia Electric Power Company.

Rev. John O. Marsh, Democrat from Virginia's Seventh Congressional District, will be the speaker at the banquet to be held at 7 p. m. EST. This will be preceded by a social hour.

Friday's program is exclusively a bus tour starting at 9 a. m. EST and ending at 4 p. m. It will include a trip through portions of the Blue Ridge and Shenandoah mountains and agricultural areas of Augusta County.

First-Time Blood Donor Need Cited

Local Red Cross officials yesterday expressed the hope that local and area persons would take advantage of Monday's visit of the bloodmobile unit from Johnstown Regional Blood Center, to become first time donors.

The unit will be at the Eagle's Home, North Mechanic Street, from noon until 6 p. m. Monday and on Tuesday at the American Legion Home, Frostburg, during the same hours.

Citing an increase in requests from local hospitals for direct donors, the Red Cross said new donors are needed to fill these requests. During the past month the chapter recruited 23 direct donors for emergency surgery and transfusions at hospitals. This was in addition to blood supplied by the Johnstown Center.

The greatest demand is for O negative type of blood but the chapter needs new donors of all types of blood to relieve the demand on the present list of donors.

Officials said the regular donors have been the backbone of its program as its recruitment list shows five, four, three, two and one gallon donors for each bloodmobile visit. These same donors are also used as direct donors for emergencies and new donors would relieve the pressure on them.

The Red Cross urged persons having appointments for the two visits next week to keep them and stressed that walk-in donors are always welcome.

Jaycees Welcome State Officers

Training Plan At College Will Be Discussed

UPIDC To Sponsor Exploratory Meet

The Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company will sponsor a meeting here next week to discuss the feasibility and need for instigating various technical training programs at Allegany Community College for area high school graduates through the aid of the federal Manpower Development and Training Act.

The meeting will be held Thursday, October 10 at 10 a.m. in the UPIDC's conference room in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Invitations are being extended to officials of the U.S. Department of Labor, U.S. Department of Education, area legislators and staffers of the state and county public school system and the college, along with members of the UPIDC.

Some of the questions to be covered at the meeting include what programs should be developed in this area, should Allegany Community College develop the program, can Allegany Community College develop the program and should MDTA funds be used for this purpose?

Everett G. Partridge, UPIDC director, urged full attendance, stressing that the question of additional training for young people is of vital importance, "not only for this depressed area, but to our country as well."

Industrial leaders of the area have deplored for years the fact that too many of this area's talented youngsters leave this industrial center for technical training and fail to come back.

Thief Chisels Into Safe At Goodrich Store

City police yesterday began a probe into a safe-cracking case at the B. F. Goodrich Store here and two breaking and entering reports.

Authorities said about $200 was taken from the safe of the Goodrich store at 159 North Centre Street after an intruder entered the establishment and chiseled the back off the safe.

Detective Royce Clayton made the preliminary investigation and Detective Bureau staffers headed by Capt. James E. Van joined in the probe.

Also under investigation yesterday was the breaking and entering of the C. Glenn Watson Real Estate Company office at 213 Virginia Avenue.

Police said the intruder entered the office after smashing a glass door. Nothing was reported stolen.

Also being investigated was the report of Max Bastian, 801 Louisiana Avenue, that his car, parked outside his home, was broken into during the night. Clothing and papers valued at about $100 were taken, he said.

Earlier this week a safe was stolen from the office of S. Russ Minter, local architect, at 72 Pershing Street.

Police said the Minter safe was carried away from the office. Authorities said $320 in cash and valuable papers were in it.

Officers noted that in both the Goodrich and Minter cases the thief did not force a door and the method of entering the building is unknown.

A play entitled "Tune in on Channel Prayer" will be given by Mrs. William Sansom's Intermediate class. Taking part will be Tom Wilson, Rhonda Sansom, George Baker, Ricky Stinebaugh, Frank Billard, Vincent Thompson, Edward Eyler, Susan Wilson, Eileen Rice, Ronald Thomas and William Klavuhn.

"Hymns as an Aid to Prayer" will be given by the Senior Youth class, Mrs. Marylouise Wilson, teacher. The vocal group will be composed of Susan Leslie, Jeanne Rice, Barbara Billard, Judy Hoenicka, Linda Jack, Janice Baker, Pamela Baker and Paul Wilson. Trumpet accompaniment to the hymn, "Praise, my soul, the King of Heaven," will be played by Rocki Stutler and Robert Webster.

Certificates of Promotion will be given by Mrs. E. F. Stewart, superintendent, and prayer will be offerend by the pastor, Rev. William Sansom.

Forestry Boys Recover U.S. Weather Device

Two boys at Meadow Mountain Boys Forestry Camp near Grantsville, discovered a "weather box" and a parachute in the woods near the camp yesterday.

The device, similar to one discovered a couple of weeks ago by a pair of local boys visiting on a farm in nearby West Virginia, was intact and in good condition when recovered.

Chester Arthur of Woodbine and Dwight Yingley of Hyattsville, working in the woods, saw the orange-colored parachute caught in the top of a tree with the box dangling from a string.

Unable to dislodge or reach it, they notified Jack Blair superintendent of the camp. Mr. Blair went to the area with the boys and was able to retrieve the box by cutting the string with a rifle bullet. The boys later cut down the tree, which was to be removed anyway, and recovered the parachute.

Mr. Blair said last night that information printed on the box indicates it is from the Weather Bureau and is being used to measure wind velocity, movement of air and other data at altitudes up to 17 miles. It is to be returned to the Weather Bureau in Washington, he said, and he and Mrs. Blair plan to send a note along crediting the two boys at the camp with the recovery.

Chief Clerk Of Juvenile Court Named

Mrs. Mary Conn was appointed Tuesday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners as chief clerk of Juvenile Court.

The county commissioners had been informed in a letter dated August 1 from W. Erick Gibbs, chairman of the County Civil Service Board, that Mrs. Conn had passed the civil service test. Mrs. Conn, who had been acting clerk several months, succeeds William F. Hidey, who resigned.

County Roads Supervisor Harry T. Skelly submitted reports concerning certain investigations and work completed. He said that East Wilson Road in the Oldtown area was dust control treated September 23. Dredging of the creek at the low water bridge at Little Orleans was finished September 18.

He also investigated the complaint of Mrs. Jessie Wolfe concerning Slate Hill near Forest Avenue in Bowman's Addition. He discovered on September 30 that this is not in the county roads system and Mrs. Wolfe has been notified.

Charles W. Garner, secretary of the Home Builders Association of Western Maryland, wrote the county commissioners recommending the appointment of Gerald Harrison of First Federal Savings and Loan Association and Paul Buchanan, president of Paul Lumber Company, to the County Board of Appeals.

Everett G. Partridge, Wilbur Johnson and Ralph G. Cover were appointed to the board by the former county commissioners in the fall of 1961 for the life of the county interim zoning ordinance but not to exceed 30 months. The 30 months will not end until spring.

Equity Suits Filed

Two new equity suits were filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Robert Harold Casteel vs. Betty Ellen Casteel and Luther Mason Warnick vs. Bonnita Eloise Warnick.

LaVale Volunteers Plan Fire Prevention Activities

Plenty of activities are scheduled next week by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company in observance of Fire Prevention Week.

"Open House" at the fire hall will be observed on Sunday from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. during which time the volunteers will start up the old pumper of the company and take the children of the community for a ride.

They will be given a chance to ring the bell as the truck travels through town. During the past couple of years from 150 to 200 youngsters have gotten a free ride on the big truck.

A crew of firemen will tour Parkside and LaVale schools on Monday and search for any fire hazards which might be in the buildings.

Also on that day the youngsters will participate in a fire drill in conjunction with the state-wide school inspection and fire drill program.

Volunteer firemen will be on hand to observe the pupils conduct and the time it takes to evacuate the school buildings.

A regular meeting of the fire company is scheduled for Tuesday at 8 p.m.

On Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. the fire siren will be sounded with a long blast. This will be a reminder and signal for a home inspection for fire hazards by residents of the community.

On Thursday the firefighters will conduct a regular fire drill at the LaVale Plaza Shopping Center.

Winding up the week's activities will be a canvass of the area on Friday night when volunteers will use a loudspeaker to remind residents of Fire Prevention Week statistics and highlights of fire prevention.

A display will be at Searstown on Saturday.

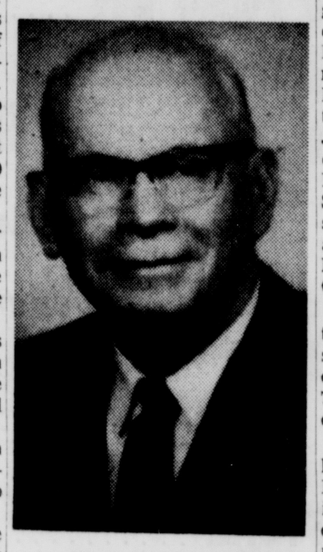
Registration Holds At 10,909 Mark

Voter registration in the City of Cumberland remained constant at 10,909 during September.

Eleven persons, eight women and three men, were registered as voters last month but the effect on the registration was nil, since the names of 11 deceased voters were stricken from the rolls.

Registration records on October 1 included 5,704 men and 5,205 women for a total of 10,909.



PAUL E. BOWMAN

Superintendent At Luke Mill Is Retired

Paul E. Bowman, general superintendent, Yards, Bleach Pulp and Recovery, of West Virginia Pulp and Paper's Luke mill for the last 34 years, retired October 1, according to an announcement by William T. Thompson, production manager.

Mr. Bowman had been associated with the Luke mill for 41 years, starting there on a permanent basis in 1922 and working there earlier during summer vacations beginning in 1915.

He began working at Luke as a chemist in the laboratory after graduation from Penn State College, and after five years was promoted to foreman in the fiber section of the pulp mill. In June 1929 he became night superintendent of the pulp mill and the next month was promoted to pulp mill superintendent.

During the $55 million expansion program at Luke, he became general pulping superintendent, directing production of the expanded operations.

A native of Edinburg, Va., Mr. Bowman came to the Westernport area around the turn of the century when his father started work at the Luke mill.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowman and their son, Paul, a student at Frostburg State College, will continue to reside at their present address, Grant Street, Luke.

Post Office Counseling Program Begins Today

The Cumberland Post Office will hold the first in a series of four counseling and planning sessions for federal employes in this area today at 7:45 p. m. at City Hall auditorium.

The program is designed to counsel employes about the many benefits due them and problems facing them at retirement.

Andrew E. Newton, regional director of Washington Regional Office, who conducted a study which indicated the need for such a program, will attend this opening session.

The four two-hour sessions will be held on Thursdays with professional speakers selected to discuss the various subjects. Question and answer periods will follow the talks.

Tonight's speakers and the subjects they will cover are Charles E. Teets, office manager of Social Security Administration, social security; James Roby, Registrar of Wills for Allegany County, wills and inheritances, and John Kuhn, personnel officer of the Baltimore Regional Post Office, U.S. Civil Service retirement system.

Assisting Acting Postmaster William B. Orndorff with arrangements for the four programs are Mrs. Virginia Feaga, secretary to the postmaster, and Thomas B. Cumiskey, assistant postmaster.

Potomac River Basin Group Meeting Today

Sessions Scheduled At Waynesboro, Va.

Conservation-minded people of Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia, who attend the public meetings of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin with regularity soon discover that the river basin covers a wide area.

Today and tomorrow the commission is meeting in Waynesboro, Va., where the theme will be "Water Resources in the Economic Development of the Shenandoah Valley. The last previous meeting of the commission, in May, was held here when attention was focused on the North Branch of the Potomac and its problems.

Two speakers are scheduled this morning at the meeting at the General Wayne Motor Inn. Thomas F. McGourin of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service in Richmond, Va., will speak on "Small Watershed Development in the Valley" starting at 9:45 a. m. EST. He will be followed at 10:45 a. m. by Melvin Scheidt, program advisor for the U. S. Public Health Service, speaking on "Water Quality in the Valley."

Joseph F. Kaylor, former head of the State Department of Forests and Parks, will be the guest speaker at the luncheon at 12:30 p. m. EST. He is now associated with the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation of the U. S. Department of the Interior.

A panel discussion on the theme of today's meeting is scheduled for 2 p. m. EST with J. M. Morgan Jr. of the civil engineering department of Virginia Military Institute as moderator. Panel members will include Joseph G. Hamrick of the division of industrial development and planning; J. H. Lillard of the agriculture experiment station of Virginia Polytechnic Institute; Gary A. Shaw of the Rockingham-Harrisonburg Chamber of Commerce, and Robert Prettyman of the Northern Virginia Electric Power Company.

Rev. John O. Marsh, Democrat from Virginia's Seventh Congressional District, will be the speaker at the banquet to be held at 7 p. m. EST. This will be preceded by a social hour.

Friday's program is exclusively a bus tour starting at 9 a. m. EST and ending at 4 p. m. It will include a trip through portions of the Blue Ridge and Shenandoah mountains and agricultural areas of Augusta County.

First-Time Blood Donor Need Cited

Local Red Cross officials yesterday expressed the hope that local and area persons would take advantage of Monday's visit of the bloodmobile unit from Johnstown Regional Blood Center, to become first time donors.

The unit will be at the Eagle's Home, North Mechanic Street, from noon until 6 p. m. Monday and on Tuesday at the American Legion Home, Frostburg, during the same hours.

Citing an increase in requests from local hospitals for direct donors, the Red Cross said new donors are needed to fill these requests. During the past month the chapter recruited 23 direct donors for emergency surgery and transfusions at hospitals. This was in addition to blood supplied by the Johnstown Center.

The greatest demand is for O negative type of blood but the chapter needs new donors of all types of blood to relieve the demand on the present list of donors.

Officials said the regular donors have been the backbone of its program as its recruitment list shows five, four, three, two and one gallon donors for each bloodmobile visit. These same donors are also used as direct donors for emergencies and new donors would relieve the pressure on them.

The Red Cross urged persons having appointments for the two visits next week to keep them and stressed that walk-in donors are always welcome.

Jaycees Welcome State Officers
